REED ASKS BAN ON IMMIGRANTS FOR TWO YEARS

QUOTAS' SUSPENSION WOULD BEGIN JULY 1

Author Says Resolution Will Pass Easily at Coming Session.

U. S. RESIDENTS' KIN NOT TO BE AFFECTED

Pennsylvanian States Plan Will Go Farther Than Hoover's Action.

(Associated Press.)

The barring for two years beginning next July 1 of all quota immigration except the immediate relatives of persons already in the United States was proposed as an unemployment remedy yesterday by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvanian, a member of the Senate immigration committee, said he would introduce a resolution at the coming session to carry out the two-year suspension and predicted it would pass "almost unanimously."

The proposal bears the indorsement of Secretary Davis, who will resign his Cabinet position to become junior senator from Pennsylvania next week. After reading the Reed resolution, the Labor Secretary said:

Would Exclude Filipinos.

"That is good. I tried to get Congress to do that very thing last winter and I am for it."

The resolution would exclude Filipinos as well as Europeans and others. Unlimited entry of Filipinos, Reed said, would "offset all we have done and propose to do in restricting the entry of Europeans and persons from Central and South America."

Reed said if his proposal were passed early in the session beginning next week it would become effective before July 1, although all visas issued prior to its passage would be honored, inasmuch as they are valid for four months.

As Jobless Measure.

"To some extent this will tend to prevent the spread of unemployment in this country," he said. "The welfare of our people must take precedence over the desire of aliens to enter the United States. Every arriving alien who comes here to earn a living in times like the present either displaces some one now at work or becomes in some degree a public charge. To permit new immigrants to enter the country at this time is unfair to both our own workers and to those who come expecting to find work.

"This is a problem that touches every American," he continued. "To suspend immigration will not in any way modify the permanent solution of our immigration policy as embodied in the immigration act of 1924, nor weaken the national origins principle on which it is built. The present quotas would continue to govern the admission of relatives described in the present law as non-quota and quota-preference immigrants.

"This group includes unmarried children under 21 years of age, husbands and wives of American citizens and the parents of American citizens, subject to the general restriction of the immigration act relating to illiteracy and mental, moral and physical health."

Labor Department Figures.

In proposing the two-year ban, Reed said he was fully aware of the "effective measures" employed by the State and Labor Departments, under the direction of President Hoover, to limit new arrivals in the present emergency

Gasoline Station Is Robbed of $80

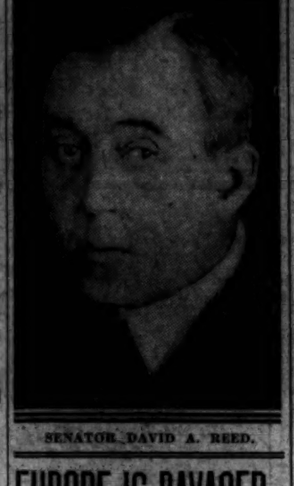

Attendant Is Struck Down by Trio on Foot, Who Flee Across Fields.

An armed trio of holdup men last night robbed Harry Lear, 24 years old, of $80 and then struck him, as he was about to close up the Lord Baltimore filling station on Mount Vernon avenue, in Arlington County.

Lear told Arlington County policemen that one of the men entered the station and forced him through a door. Two of his accomplices stood in front of the place. The third man knocked him down with a blow to the face and took the money.

They then fled through the fields toward the Arlington Experimental Farm. Lear said they were all on foot.

EUROPE IS RAVAGED BY STORMS; 7 DEAD

Floods Threaten Belgium, Germany and France in Gale's Wake.

NEW QUAKE RECORDED

(Associated Press.)

The elements raced over Europe during the week-end, with seven deaths thus far blamed to storm conditions, and the disturbances ranging from floods to hurricanes and earth tremors.

Five died and about 20 were injured in France as a result of three days of storm, which hurled a terrific gale into Paris last night. Shipping was tied up over a wide area and rivers rose menacingly.

Fierce winds and drenching rain wrought damage over much of Germany, while one death was recorded —that of a girl who drowned at Netterschein, in the Rhineland. The Rhine and Moselle Rivers and their tributaries rose to flood stage, while heavy winds disrupted communication and damaged property.

A hurricane hit Vienna and caused one death, also uprooting trees and tearing off roofs.

Appalling disaster threatened a wide area in Belgium as a result of floods following upon torrential rainfall. The Termonde district was particularly affected by the overflow of the River Scheldt, and thousands were driven from their homes with what possessions they could remove conveniently.

Switzerland was another victim of the storms, hail causing much damage to forests and communications being interrupted.

England has been swept by wind and rain for several days, but the storm had largely blown itself out last night.

Bad weather also caused doubt as to the fate of an Italian seaplane which left Barcelona for Marseilles and Rome Friday, but since has not been heard from.

A disaster of somewhat different nature occurred in Albania, where new earth shocks followed upon those of Friday which killed more than 50 persons in the Valona district.

Toulon, France, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Italian hydroplane named the Irony, which has been missing in the Mediterranean region since early Friday, still had not been found tonight.

The French torpedoboats Cyclone, Simoun and Mistral returned to the navy yard tonight after a 24-hour search, while a Spanish torpedoboat from Barcelona and other planes of the Navigatione Aerea, which owns the Irony, were equally unsuccessful.

The French minister of marine has ordered the Toulon Naval Base to send out the entire division of torpedo boats and several dispatch vessels to conduct a careful search between the Balearic Islands and Corsica.

The Irony, which was in the mail and passenger service between Barcelona, Marseilles and Rome, carried a crew of five and two passengers when it left Barcelona early Friday.

2 DIE AS GANG FIRES VOLLEY IN ROADHOUSE

WOMEN ARE VICTIMS OF SHOTGUNS' SLUGS

ONE OF FOUR INJURED LIKELY TO SUCCUMB

Ghastly Crime Marks Climax in Week-End Carnival of Violence.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A gang of young robbers, panic-stricken when the lights were whisked off during a roadhouse holdup early today, poured a shotgun volley into a crowd of frightened victims huddled in a corner, killing two women, perhaps fatally injuring another and wounding three men.

The robbers, described as youths of about 18, obtained $200 from the patrons and had started to take their leave when the place was suddenly plunged into darkness.

Fearing a trap the bandits, eight in all, blazed away in the general direction of the group which was jammed in a space of less than 18 by 20 feet.

Wounded and Dying Scream.

Wounded and dying screamed and moaned and the survivors milled about, trampling and slugging, unable to distinguish gunmen from patrons. To add to the confusion a Great Dane dog, owned by Henry Goetz, proprietor of the resort, ran amuck, slashing at the stampeding crowd.

Lights finally were switched on. Miss Barbara Lee, 22 years old, and Miss Alice Ward, 29, were found dead. Miss Mary Ganey, 36, probably was fatally injured. John Gates, 39; James Miscus, 36, and Jack O'Bierne, 38, were badly wounded. A dozen others, whose names were not obtained, were less seriously hurt. The robbers escaped in two machines.

The roadhouse shooting capped the worst week-end crime outburst in the Chicago area for months.

Detective Herbert Dillon was shot and killed by an unidentified Negro, who was in turn killed by Dillon's partner, Detective Patrick Gaynor. The police had answered a complaint that two drunken Negroes were disturbing the neighborhood.

Killed by Auto Thieves.

Two automobile thieves who, a short time previously, had stolen a machine from Edward Solon, ran down and killed Victor Johnson while speeding away from the scene, and injured his wife and nephew.

Members of a police squad interrupted a filling station robbery and shot and killed one of the holdup men who had entrenched himself in a greasing pit.

William Woolfarth, 22; William Du Pont, 17, and Andrew Sanchez, 21, who recently had escaped from prison in New Orleans, were picked up by a cruising automobile police squad and admitted 50 local robberies.

Scores of lesser crimes were reported.

Eugene Ysaye Stricken Ill Following Concert

Brussels, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Eugene Ysaye, Belgian violinist, returning to Brussels today after appearing at a concert at Liege, was suddenly stricken ill.

Although his condition was said not to be grave, his physician advised a complete rest.

Two Traffic Officers Aid Pastor in Pulpit

St. Louis, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Two traffic officers, attired in full uniform, appeared in the pulpit of Oakhill Presbyterian Church here today and assisted the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Malcolm Matheson in the service. Officer Elmer Wesler read the Scriptures and Officer Harry Reber offered the prayer.

The pastor based his sermon on a headline, "Personality, Good Temper and Six Feet of Manhood." The line appeared recently as the caption of an article in the Globe-Democrat magazine, describing the St. Louis traffic officers.

"Personality, good temper and six feet of manhood are noble principles for man to measure himself by in qualifying for any vocation in life," the pastor said. "Man should measure himself by this standard in God's kingdom."

FLEEING DEATH SPOT DENIED BY AUTOIST

AN INQUEST IS CALLED

George W. Graham, 29 years old, of Rhode Island avenue near North Capitol street northwest, who surrendered to police early yesterday after his automobile had killed Miss Mary Kiernan and seriously injured her brother-in-law, Harry Heiberger, was released yesterday in $1,000 bail for his appearance at a coroner's inquest today.

Albert W. Herrell, 22 years old, of Twentieth street near F street northwest, was released in $1,200 yesterday by Seventh Precinct police after his automobile struck and seriously injured Louis Honesdy, 29 years old, colored, of Vienna, Va., as he was walking near the Key Bridge. He surrendered to police.

Herrell told authorities that when Honesty had been knocked down he followed the car which was taking him to the hospital but lost it in traffic. He went to a hotel where he is engaged as a musician and then gave himself up to police.

Police were of the belief that the same driver had figured in both accidents. The number of the automobile in each case was given as District 6017. Subsequent developments showed that the car in the Key Bridge accident was U-6017, while the car in the Rhode Island avenue accident was S-6017.

Graham told the police that he did not flee after the accident, but stopped and assisted the injured persons into an automobile that took them to the hospital.

Miss Kiernan, who lived at 4521 Seventh street northwest, and Mr. Heiberger, of 29 W street northwest, were returning with their relatives from a birthday party at the home of Charles Kiernan, at 29 V street northeast.

Mrs. Harry Heiberger, her husband and Miss Kiernan were walking to the Heiberger home carrying a birthday cake for the six Heiberger children. At V street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, Graham's car knocked the couple down. Mrs. Heiberger leaped to safety.

Miss Kiernan died on the way to the hospital. Mr. Heiberger was reported last night in a serious condition. Mrs. Kiernan, mother of Miss Kiernan, and Albert and Isabelle Kiernan, brother and sister of the fatally injured woman, were a few feet from the intersection when the accident occurred.

Honesdy, who was injured in the Key Bridge mishap, is at Georgetown University Hospital with broken legs and possible internal injuries.

The colored woman who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile in Rosslyn, Va., on Saturday night was yesterday identified by relatives as Mrs. Josephine Kessler, 55 years old, of Rosslyn, Va.

PAIR CHARGED WITH PREYING ON POOLROOM

Proprietor, Much Upset, Reluctantly Tells of Extortion.

SAYS PERSECUTORS HURT HIS BUSINESS

Threatened to Take Over Establishment if He Failed to Pay.

FEARS FOR SAFETY CITED IN COMPLAINT

Errico Calls for Protection, Lest Family Suffer Some Injury.

Pasquale Errico, shoemaker who quit his bench to engage in the poolroom business at 539 Eighth street southeast, today will seek the aid of District Attorney Leo A. Rover in an effort to rid himself of what he terms the "racketeers" who have been hounding him in his new venture. Threats of personal violence have been coupled with a demand for money, he avers.

Errico will say that on Saturday night his place was visited by two alleged racketeers who drove out all of his patrons after failing to collect $15 tribute money which they had demanded in a prior visit. He said last night that he will ask the district attorney to charge his persecutors with threats of personal violence and attempted extortion.

Plans Drastic Action.

Mr. Rover announced Saturday that he would make Washington an unhealthy place for "racketeers," following investigation of the destruction of two wagon loads of milk in a labor war. Prompt prosecution will greet the introduction of Chicago methods in this city, he said.

Errico, a former shoemaker, forsook his trade to open the poolroom about three months ago, he said last night. His venture, while profitable, made the former cobbler the object of the attentions of an alleged racketeer, and since life has been no path of roses for him, he declares.

Every week the man created a disturbance in the poolroom, Errico said. Sometimes he drove away customers, sometimes he threatened the proprietor, and he climaxed his reign of terror Thursday by demanding $15 to be paid by Friday.

Police Called to Place.

Police of the Fifth Precinct have been called to the poolroom on several occasions as a result of altercations which Errico says were provoked by the gangster. A mysterious call to police brought reserves to the place Friday night. Errico believes his persecutor placed the call.

Saturday evening two men appeared at the pool parlor with a demand for the $15. When he refused it, Errico was told:

"We will take over this place Monday morning."

Errico said that because he lives with his wife and children in an apartment over the poolroom he hesitated to attack either of the men.

After other threats, the intruders went to the rear of the room and ordered the players to depart. There were better places to shoot pool, the crowd was told. Because of the belligerent attitude of the pair the customers departed and Errico was forced

MYSTERY MAN, FOUND IN CAPITAL, WILL GIVE STORY IN NURMI CASE

Wilbur Hits Charge Of Utility Favors

Secretary Denies School Has Paid Him While in Public Office.

(Associated Press.)

An exchange of correspondence between the People's Legislative Service and Secretary Wilbur over the cabinet member's relationship with Stanford University since he came to Washington was made public yesterday by the Legislative Service.

Charges that Secretary Wilbur had continued to draw a salary as president of the California school while serving as acting chairman of the Federal Power Commission were denied by the cabinet member along with others contained in a letter to him from Mercer G. Johnston, director of the Legislative Service.

Mr. Johnston also charged that a $20,000 to $25,000 annual salary had been voted Dr. Wilbur by "a board of trustees dominated by public utility officials and their coadjutors with a practical interest in the manner in which you performed your public duties."

In addition, he said Stanford University, from which Dr. Wilbur is on leave of absence, had large investments in public utilities, "some of them in the very companies which asked and received important favors at your hands."

Dr. Wilbur explained in reply that he had been entitled to a year's leave

RAY LYMAN WILBUR.

RUSTY GUN FORTIFIES THEORY OF HOMICIDE

Weapon Found Near Body Not Used for Hours, Scrutiny Indicates.

ANOTHER CARTRIDGE LOCATED IN CELLAR

Letter to Parents on Day of Death Cheerful; Bore No Hint of Despondency.

New links in the chain of circumstantial evidence being forged by Montgomery County authorities to prove their theory that Aarvi Nurmi was slain came to light yesterday.

A detailed inspection of the .25-caliber pistol found lying by the body of the 24-year-old Census Bureau clerk last Wednesday night when he met death at his home in Takoma Park, Md., disclosed that its barrel was rusty and that the weapon apparently had not been fired for hours.

Sergt. Earl Burdine, of Montgomery County police, who is conducting the investigation, revealed yesterday that the mysterious man being sought for questioning in the case had been located in Washington and was in possession of information that might shed valuable light on the slaying.

Not Witness to Shooting.

"This man was located at his home in Washington and has indicated his willingness to cooperate to the limit to give us information regarding a dispute between Nurmi and another man," Sergt. Burdine declared.

"He has promised that he will meet me and bare all he knows some time later in the week when I will have a chance to go more into this case after being tied up in court here for the next two or three days. This man is not involved in the death, and he was not a witness to the shooting, so the value of his information remains problematical right now."

To add to the mystery involving the presence of two makes of shells found in the house, Sergt. Burdine said that he had located an additional empty .25-caliber cartridge in a secluded spot in the cellar, where the lead shot of a different make shell was found on the night of the slaying. He said the empty cartridge, giving appearance of having been fired some time ago, was dissimilar in flange measurement to the bullet found imbedded in Nurmi's skull.

Wrote Cheerful Letter.

He pointed out that this strengthened his theory that bullets of a make not customarily used by Nurmi cost his life.

Another bit of evidence tending to disprove the suicide theory, he said, was a letter sent by Nurmi the day of the slaying to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Nurmi, at Rochester, N. Y., where the father had taken a carpentry job. The letter was postmarked here at 2:15 o'clock of last Wednesday afternoon, less than eight hours before his body was found in the driveway alongside his home at the end of a drinking party with two companions.

The letter, Sergt. Burdine declared, showed conclusively that Nurmi was well and happy and apparently had no intention of taking his life. The message also contained the statement that Nurmi intended to write his parents later in the week.

McGuire in Jail.

Henry W. McGuire, 29 years old, fellow-employe of Nurmi at the Census Bureau, of Columbia road near Fourteenth street northwest, one of Nurmi's two drinking companions on the fatal party, remained in Rockville jail yesterday pending his release on $1,000 bond after he was

SIX ARE ARRESTED IN GAMBLING DRIVE

Police Conduct Raid Near Government Printing Office.

WITNESSES ARE HELD

In a continuance of the drive on alleged gambling places near the Government Printing Office, begun as a result of the bitter criticism of police by Public Printer George Carter, members of the special investigating squad early yesterday morning took into custody four barbers, a laborer and a waiter.

One of the barbers, Elmer W. Hamilton, of H street near North Capitol street northeast, was charged with permitting gaming and was held until he could post a $500 bond. The other three, John Brong, 30 years old, of Howard street near Fourth street northwest; John Smith, 34 years old, of New York avenue near First street northwest, and Jack Anderson, 33 years old, of Georgia avenue near Longfellow street northwest, were booked as Government witnesses and were required to post $100 bonds for their release.

Two others, Edward Davis, 29 years old, of Rhode Island avenue near North Capitol street northwest, and Ted Breedon, 26 years old, of Seaton place northeast, also were asked to post the usual $100 bond as witnesses.

The raids were made by a squad under Detective F. A. Truscott. Undercover agents are said to have frequented the place to gain the information upon which the raids were based.

Hoover's Sunday Quiet; Attends Quaker Service

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover spent a quiet Sabbath yesterday, in the morning attending services at the Quaker Meeting House where he has become a familiar figure, and going for a brief drive about the city in the afternoon.

The next few days will be unusually busy ones for the President, since he is in the midst of writing his message to Congress. Appointments will be kept at a minimum until the message is completed.

CLUBS URGE REPEAL IN CRUSADER'S POLL

80.3 Per Cent of Metropolitan, Cosmos and Army and Navy Replies Oppose Law.

IS ANSWER TO W. C. T. U.

Replying to the W. C. T. U. leader who recently stated that "every good man and woman wants prohibition," the Washington Crusaders yesterday announced that a poll of three representative Washington clubs showed 80.3 per cent of the 448 replies as favoring outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Clubs polls were the Metropolitan, Cosmos and Army and Navy.

"According to press reports of November 16," the Crusader announcement read, "Dr. Mary Harris Armor, head of evangelistic work for the W. C. T. U., made the following statement to her fellow delegates assembled at Houston, Tex., in national convention: 'We have every good man and woman on our side. I won't say every man and woman on the other (wet) side is a rascal, but I'll say every grand rascal is on that side.'"

Asserting that the three clubs polled are generally considered representative of the best life in Washington, as they include scientists and Government and military officials, as well as professional men, diplomats and civic leaders, the announcement explains that only those members who live in Washington were polled.

"Letters were mailed to each resident member asking him, as a respected and representative citizen of the City of Washington, to read carefully an inclosed platform of the Crusaders and indicate his indorsement or disapproval of the platform. The Crusader platform calls for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the return of liquor control to the States. We are unalterably opposed to the return of the saloon.

"The vote, by clubs, was: Metropolitan—indorsements, 78; disapprovals, 1; total returns, 79; percentage of indorsements, 98.7. Cosmos—indorsements, 91; disapprovals, 72; total returns, 163; percentage of indorse-

Calvin Coolidge Says:

When the International Chamber of Commerce, representing 28 countries, meets in Paris early in December for the purpose of considering remedies for the present economic condition of the world, it may well ponder the message which Sir Charles Addis, chairman of the Bank of International Settlements and director of the Bank of England, is giving to the United States. He does not believe in any magic remedy but expects the world to be restored by hard work and savings. He suggests also that the great world industries by mutual consultation substitute cooperation for conflict as has been done by the International Bank for world finance.

This is a very constructive proposal. We are dependent on foreign nations for raw materials to run our industries to the extent of about half our yearly imports of nearly four and one-half billion dollars. We are not self-sustaining. Other countries are likewise dependent on us for raw and manufactured materials. With so many mutual complementary interests, it ought not to be difficult to promote international industrial cooperation. Our Congress has attempted to encourage such action by modifying the antitrust laws in relation to exports. Our tariff in no way prevents cooperation.

Youth Served as Man, 75, Puts Foe, 93, in Hospital

Feud Which Began Three Weeks Ago When One of Former Friends Stepped on Other's Foot Culminated as Younger Beats Elder With Iron Bar.

A 93-year-old man is in the hospital and his former friend, 75 years old, is held by police after a feud which began three weeks ago when one stepped on the foot of the other.

The nonagenarian is Henry Myer, living in Pennsylvania avenue rooming house, near Third street northwest, where he was attacked. Myers received a possible fracture of the skull when he was beaten with a piece of iron. Emergency Hospital attendants reported that his advanced age and the seriousness of his hurts placed him in a grave condition.

Headquarters police took in custody William Samuel Walker, the 75-year-old roomer at the lodging house, for investigation pending the outcome of Myer's injuries. Walker was booked at the Sixth Precinct Station.

Walker, they said, admitted that he felled Myer with the small iron arm of a second-floor hatrack, which he yanked off when the more aged man advanced up the stairs. They quoted Walker as saying that Myer was threatening him with a stick and that he acted in self-defense.

Walker told police that the feud started when Myer stepped on his foot at the rooming house, and that they had exchanged hot words on later occasions.

Church Is Given Memento Of Washington's Ancestor

Bell Clapper From English Chapel Used by Great-Great-Grandfather Presented in Alexandria; Regard of British for First President Stressed.

"George Washington, in England today, is a greater man than George III," declared the Right Rev. William P. Remington, Bishop of Eastern Oregon, last night in Christ Episcopal Church, Alexandria.

Bishop Remington visited Christ Church last night for the purpose of presenting to the church the clapper taken from one of the bells of All Saints Church at Purleigh, near Chelmsford, in Essex, England, which was presented to the Bishop and Mrs. Remington last summer while the former was attending the Lambeth conference there. The gift was particularly significant, both to Bishop Remington and to Christ Church, on account of the fact that the Rev. Lawrence Washington, the great-great-grandfather of George Washington, was the vicar of that church from 1632 to 1643.

Bishop Remington told of an invitation from the Rev. Dr. Inslip, Bishop of Barking, to himself, Mrs. Remington and their daughter to attend the dedication of a memorial window in All Saints Church. He spoke of their journey through Epping Forest and finally coming to the village of Chelmsford, and then Purleigh, and to his great surprise, when they en-

This action was taken after McGuire and the other member of the party, John J. O'Brien was released on bond Saturday.

25 Cuban Army Cadets To Visit Capital Today

A party of 25 cadets from the Cuban Military Academy, accompanied by three officers of the Cuban army and Maj. Joseph J. O'Hara, American military attache at Havana, will arrive here this morning en route to West Point, where they will stage a football game with a team representing the U. S. Military Academy.

Automobiles furnished by the War Department will meet the Cuban party at the train and take the visiting cadets on a sight-seeing trip. Col. Frederick H. Payne, Acting Secretary of War, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, will receive them at 10:45 a. m. At 11:30 o'clock they will be received by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union. President Hoover will greet the Cuban cadets at the White House at 12:30 p. m. On these formal calls they will be escorted by Maj. O'Hara and Capt. Enrique Prieto, Cuban military attache here.

John Paul Jones Heads Law Group

National Legal Fraternity Concludes Its Annual Session.

John Jaul Jones, Washington attorney, was elected supreme chief justice to head Phi Beta Gamma, national legal fraternity, as the feature of its two-day annual convention here last week, according to announcement yesterday.

Other national officers elected, all for a two-year term, include: William P. Martin, also of Washington, supreme associate justice; Adolph W. Herrmann, of New Orleans, La., clerk; Maurice H. Riecke, of Minneapolis, Minn., bailiff; Arthur Erickson, of St. Paul, Minn., historian, and Marion Newbold, of Louisville, Ky., marshal.

A large banquet was held as the concluding event at the Wardman Park Hotel Saturday night, with principal speakers including Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District Supreme Court; Justice Charles H. Robb, of the District Court of Appeals; William Jennings Price, of Georgetown Law School, and Gerhard M. Bundlie, Mayor of St. Paul, Minn., retiring head of the fraternity.

$42,000,000 Sugar Loan Is Opposed

People's Lobby Demands Close Scrutiny of Cuban Deal.

In a letter to President Hoover, the People's Lobby, of which Prof. John Dewey, of New York, is president, demands a "meticulous scrutiny by the State Department and Congress" of the proposed $42,000,000 bankers' loan to the Cuban Government to finance carrying over a part of the island sugar surplus.

"Big financial interests in New York propose to make a loan of $42,000,000 to the Cuban government so it may take up the private loan of $38,000,000 these same financial interests recently made to sugar interests in Cuba, chiefly American, to bolster up the price of sugar," the letter declares.

"Why the spread of $4,000,000, nearly one-ninth, between the bankers' loan to the sugar interests and the proposed loan to the Cuban government? What obligations do we assume or to what further aspects of dictatorship are we entitled by secret understandings under this loan?" it asks.

Crime Study Fund Hit by LaGuardia

He Expresses Hope Wickersham Group Will Recommend Constructively.

(Associated Press.)

Unless the Wickersham law enforcement commission "recommends something constructive on the prohibition question during the short session" Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, plans to make a contest against any appropriation for its continuation after next July 1.

"If the commission's recommendations are not constructive," the New Yorker, an antiprohibitionist, said "the two years of study at a cost of $500,000 will have been an expensive gesture."

It was LaGuardia who raised a point of order against the appropriation of $250,000 for this year's study when it was found that no authority existed for its continuation. However, the law was amended to allow the commission to conduct its investigation into law enforcement for another year.

Navy Seeks Posts For Annapolis Men

200 Graduates Must Look Elsewhere for Jobs in June, Officials Fear.

It is expected that some 200 members of the graduating class will not receive assignments in the Navy due to lack of vacancies. Inquiries are being made of the Treasury Department and the Coast Guard as to whether some of these midshipmen may not be commissioned in the Coast Guard and the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Coast Guard appointments are made from graduates of the Coast Guard Academy, but as this service is not up to its authorized commissioned strength it is thought officials of that branch would welcome a number of ensigns from the Naval Academy for whom places can not immediately be found in the Navy.

U. S. BAN PROPOSED ON CONVICT GOODS

BUT TERMS ARE GENERAL

Treasury Department officials yesterday confirmed reports that new regulations have been drafted to exclude from this country goods made wholly or in part by convict labor.

While the regulation is general in its terms, covering all countries, it is designed to make it difficult for Soviet Russia to export to the United States lumber, pulpwood, manganese ore and other materials alleged to be produced in whole or in part by prison labor.

The National Lumber Manufacturers Association, the American Manganese Producers Association, the American Federation of Labor and other interested organizations have been negotiating with Treasury officials ever since the convict-labor question arose months ago, and Assistant Secretary Lowman placed temporary embargoes on Russian lumber and pulpwood.

Result of Investigation.

Lack of affirmative evidence that particular cargoes of lumber and pulpwood were produced in whole or in part by convict labor caused the Treasury Department to rescind the Lowman embargoes. It was announced at the time, however, that the Treasury would continue its investigation, and the forthcoming regulations are the result. Much additional evidence has been placed before Treasury officials since the embargoes were rescinded by Mr. Lowman, all tending to confirm the contention that the provision of the new tariff act, which has been the law for a quarter of a century, should be invoked to prevent the influx into this country of materials from Russia suspected of being produced or handled by prisoners in Russia.

The lumber and other organizations have based their contentions on the ground that with a large measure of unemployment in their particular industries it is unfair to permit the entry of competing materials produced in Russia by political and other prisoners or under forced labor of any kind, especially in view of the fact that the law expressly excludes such imports.

American producers have insisted that the burden of proof be placed upon importers of Russian goods, and this is one of the requirements of the regulations which have been drafted and now await final approval by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Aimed at Russia.

Another provision requires the importer to make bond adequately covering the value of any cargo challenged under the regulations, while a third requires a consular invoice descriptive of the goods.

These requirements will largely satisfy American interests which have been clamoring for exclusion of Russian materials.

Officials of the Amtorg Trading Corporation have indicated that the Soviet government would stop making purchases in the United States if exports to this country were excluded, and have denied that convict labor is used in the production of lumber, pulpwood, &c.

The fact that Russia is not mentioned in the regulations as drafted, which apply alike to all countries, is intended to make them less offensive to Moscow, but they are designed to prevent the "dumping" of Russian products into this country in the future.

Equipment Asked For Panama Canal

Burgess Stresses Need for Replacements in Report to War Department.

(Associated Press.)

Need for new equipment at the Panama Canal due to wear and tear during 26 years of American operation and because of increases in population was urged yesterday by Col. Harry Burgess, governor of the canal, in his annual report to the Secretary of War.

Mr. Burgess stressed the necessity of congressional action to provide for continued operation "at the creditable standards which have prevailed in the past." He said old structures were reaching the point where their continued use was uneconomical.

The governor opposed any reduction in tolls because the canal was not yet earning the annual interest charge of 4 per cent on the represented investment of $535,743,840 and the necessity of additional expenditures to maintain efficient operation.

Southern Relief Home Plans Thanksgiving Tea

Its annual Thanksgiving tea will be given at the home tomorrow afternoon by the Southern Relief Society, in honor of the widows and other dependents of Confederate veterans residing there.

Arrangements are being made by Mrs. H. Wallace Witcover, Mrs. Albert L. Rheinstrom and Mrs. Theodore Tiller, president of the society, assisted by a large committee.

AUTO IS WRECKED AT FOUR-MILE RUN

Police Seek Five Passengers Who Abandoned Car That Ripped Up Guard Rail.

SOME REPORTED HURT

The narrow bridge at Four Mile Run, Va., a "death trap" where several motorists have been killed, was the scene of another automobile accident last night, when a car bearing five unidentified persons, three men and two women, crashed into the guard railing, knocking slabs from the base and tearing down the guard rail for a distance of about ten feet.

State police found the car badly wrecked, but an inspection of nearby hospitals failed to disclose the injured.

Following the death of "Mickey" Kellher, well-known local ball player, at the bridge some months ago, the Virginia State Highway Commission agreed to bear half the cost of widening the structure and eliminating the death trap if the City of Alexandria would bear half the cost.

The corporate line of Alexandria runs through the center of the bridge, but the town authorities refused to share the expense of improvements, claiming that since the highway commission has created the traffic hazard, it should bear the entire cost of removing it.

The car which was wrecked at the bridge last night bore District license tags. Police were checking the plates last night in an effort to determine if any of the occupants had been injured.

Pastor Denounces Wets' Propaganda

Temperance Fight Must Go On, Declares Dr. A. J. McCartney.

The fight for temperance must go on, and not end on the note of despair sounded by prize-winning novelists, the press, the stage and syndicate writers, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney declared in his sermon at the Church of the Covenant yesterday.

Many who have fought for temperance are becoming undermined by the propaganda that the world is worse than before, Dr. McCartney said. He offered the assurance that this is not the case.

"Let the godless cynics sneer and chatter as they may," he asserted. "Conditions may be very bad, but no tyranny has yet so fastened itself upon society that it will not eventually be shaken off. We look about us upon conditions that may naturally evoke despair, but the cause of righteousness is never lost."

Man Robbed at Pistol Point.

While walking near South Capitol and M streets southwest early yesterday morning, Robert Lee, Negro, of 86 N street southeast, was held up at the point of a pistol by a Negro bandit who robbed him of $122, he told police.

TINKHAM DEMANDS METHODIST INQUIRY

WRITES TO MITCHELL

(Associated Press.)

A demand that Attorney General Mitchell submit to a grand jury charge of violation of the corrupt practices act by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals was made yesterday by Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts.

In a letter to the Attorney General, Mr. Tinkham said he had made the charges before the Senate lobby committee after having submitted them to the Justice Department. He said unless they were placed before a grand jury soon the statute of limitation would bar action.

Mr. Tinkham charged in his letter that Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary, and Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board, had distributed a circular in the campaign of 1928 "for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the election of candidates or presidential or vice presidential electors."

He said also they had failed to make a report of the expense of distributing the circular as required under the corrupt practices act.

"The office you hold," Tinkham wrote the Attorney General, "was created by the Congress and the Congress sits in constitutional authority over it. It is not to be supposed that the Congress will look with acquiescence upon your refusal to prosecute offenders, thereby refusing also to enforce salutary laws—laws intended to safeguard against the improper use of money in political campaigns."

Changeable Weather Looms Next Few Days

Typical pneumonia weather, with the temperature fluctuating rapidly between warm and freezing points, is forecast for Washington during the next few days. While today will be fair and warmer, northwest winds are expected to bring frost by Tuesday morning, the Weather Bureau announced last night.

The lowest temperature registered yesterday was 42 degrees at 7 a. m. The mercury went up to 61 at 3 p. m., and was in the fifties early last night.

Motor Accident Cause of Suicide

Jersey Writer Shoots Self After His Auto Had Run Down Woman.

Mount Holly, N. J., Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A few hours after his automobile caused the death of a young woman in a collision on the Marne highway at Rancocas Heights, N. J., Howard Middleton, 50, naturalist, lecturer and author, shot and killed himself in the bedroom of his home at Hainesport, near here. His body was found this morning as State troopers arrived to arrest him for manslaughter. Mr. Middleton's wife committed suicide about a year ago by drowning herself in a bathtub, and he lived alone.

At 1:30 a. m. today, according to police, the automobile Mr. Middleton was driving struck another. Miss Catherine Klatz, 26, of Philadelphia, was flung out of the second car and killed.

Mr. Middleton sped on to Hainesport following the accident and spent the rest of the night at the home of a neighbor. At 9 a. m. he went out, ostensibly for a walk before breakfast. Gauntt's son went to tell him breakfast was ready and discovered the body on the bedroom floor in Middleton's home.

Two More Children Die From Diphtheria Toxin

Medellin, Colombia, Nov. 23 (A.P.). The deaths resulting from the inoculation of 49 children with diphtheria toxin, mistaken for antitoxin, rose to sixteen today. Fifteen previously had died. Physicians now believe that the remaining 33 will recover.

The young interne who made the error became insane upon learning of his mistake.

Zionists Hit Palestine Policy.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The national executive committee of the Zionist organization of America, the ruling body of that organization, today adopted a resolution declaring its dissatisfaction with the British government's explanation of its Palestine policy and asserting its determination to continue to resist the policy.

SIX KILLED IN PLANE CRASHES DURING DAY

Three in Argentina, Two in Pennsylvania and One in Ohio Die.

WORLD TRIP LAUNCHED

(Associated Press.)

Airplanes did a great deal of sky writing in several parts of the world yesterday, not unmixed with tragedy.

Six persons—three in South America, two in Pennsylvania and one in Ohio—were killed. One woman completed a solo flight from Pittsburgh to Havana. Another flew into New York from Middletown, Pa., covering 180 miles in an hour.

An Italian hydroplane which has been missing in the Mediterranean since Friday was unreported and believed lost. She carried two passengers and a crew of five.

A triple tragedy of the air occurred at Constitucion, a small village in Santa Fe Province, Argentina, where a plane fell and was partly consumed by flames. The bodies of three men were found in the wreckage. The plane was the Junkers El Condor de Bolivia, in which three Bolivian aviators set out Saturday on a nonstop flight from Buenos Aires to La Paz.

J. F. Requarth, a Cleveland, Ohio, pilot, was killed when his plane crashed at Wellington, Ohio.

One round-the-world trip was started when Barclay Warburton, jr., took off from Camden, N. J., for Norfolk, Va. His plans call for jumps to Florida and San Diego. From the latter port he will ship his plane to Shanghai, where he will resume flight to London and then travel the remaining distance by boat.

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller completed her Pittsburgh-to-Havana flight, and Miss Ruth Nichols finished her interrupted flight from Cincinnati to New York.

Unionville, Mo., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Steven Benczik, 20-year-old Mount Union, Pa., pilot, and Jesse Crockett, 25, a Unionville mechanic, were killed late today in the crash of Benczik's plane on the flying field here.

Benczik and Crockett went aloft to test the plane after it had developed motor trouble on a flight this morning from Jefferson City. Observers said the plane still was acting badly at the take-off and nose-dived in the face of a strong headwind.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—After flitting over from Middletown, Pa., 180 miles away, in exactly one hour today, Ruth Nichols said almost immediately after she landed that she would take off at 7 a. m. tomorrow in an attempt to break the women's transcontinental East-West flight record.

Five Confessions Claimed in Holdup

Three Policemen, Citizen, Wounded in Battle, Are Recovering.

New Orleans, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Reputed confessions of four men and a woman alleged to have taken $7,500 from a branch bank in a daring raid were tonight in possession of police. Three policemen and a citizen meanwhile were reported recovering from bullet wounds received in a gun battle following the robbery.

The quintet was captured early today after 40 officers, with submachine guns, revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, riddled a house to which the alleged bandits were followed by police.

Police Corpl. Thomas Kiernan and Patrolmen Fred Wilson and Louis C. Alberts were in serious condition from wounds received during the bandit chase. Raymond Rizzo, 39, a casual witness of the holdup, who tried to aid in the bandit pursuit, also was wounded. One of the alleged robbers, George O'Day, was wounded by machine gun bullet as he is said to have been climbing over the roof of the house to which the police laid siege.

Porto Rico Shown In Acute Distress

(Associated Press.)

A contrast between generally satisfactory conditions in the Philippines and what was described as the "desperate" plight of Porto Rico was drawn yesterday by Brig. Gen. F. LeJ. Parker, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs.

Under Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis, Gen. Parker said in his annual report to the War Department, the Philippines had a "very satisfactory year."

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico was quoted as authority of the opinion, however, that that possession was still suffering from the hurricane which devastated the island in September, 1928. Gov. Roosevelt emphasized that Porto Rico was still a prey of diseases, but expressed hope over the prospects of an agricultural program already adopted to promote interests of small farmers.

Depression Is Felt In Siam, Is Report

Exports of Rice, Rubber and Other Products Off, Minister Avers.

Business depression noticeable in the United States today is of a world-wide character, and has made itself felt even in Siam, which is halfway around the world, according to an announcement yesterday from the Siamese Minister, Prince Amoradat Kridakara.

"Recessions in our exports of rice, rubber, tin, teak and other woods are reported," the prince explained. "The general effect, however, is not as serious, because our 11,000,000 people are mostly agricultural. Rice constitutes 70 per cent of our export trade, and, being perhaps the cheapest food in the Orient, consumption is steady regardless of conditions."

Prince Amoradat further explained the economic stability of the country as being due to the soundness of the national finances, as well as the wide variety of natural resources from which its trade is derived.

Capone's Brother in Havana.

Havana, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Ralph Capone, brother of the notorious "Scarface Al," of Chicago, has arrived in Havana. It is understood he obtained a continuance of his trial on vagrancy charges in Chicago and will conduct his racing stable for the winter season here.

NOTED AMERICANS URGE WORLD COURT

Letter Is Sent Hoover in Which Support to Such Move Is Pledged.

PROMPT ACTION SOUGHT

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A group of prominent Americans urged President Hoover, in a letter sent him today, to submit to the Senate for ratification the protocols for American adherence to the world court. The support of the signers was pledged to the move.

"We, the undersigned American citizens," the letter said, "believe it is important for the honor and well-being of the country that the United States should promptly adhere to the permanent court of international justice at The Hague, commonly known as the world court.

"We believe that the rights and safety of the United States are amply protected in the protocols of adherence which have been signed by your direction and which conform to the policies of your predecessors, Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge, in furthering a world court for the settlement of legal disputes between nations.

"We pledge you our support if you will submit the protocols to the Senate asking for prompt ratification. We believe that such action taken by the United States during the coming winter will be of great influence in building up good will and confidence among all nations.

"We are signing this letter as individuals, in no way committing any organization with which we may be connected, but we want you to know our personal views of the matter."

The signers include Gen. John J. Pershing, Jane Addams, Newton D. Baker, Matthew Woll, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, Norman Thomas, Josephus Daniels, Thomas W. Lamont, Admiral William S. Sims, Silas H. Strawn, Alfred P. Sloan, Nicholas Murray Butler, Daniel O. Willard, Julius H. Barnes, Frank E. Gannett, Julius Rosenwald, Glenn Frank, Howard Heinz, H. M. Warner, George W. Hill, Carrie Chapman Catt, Myron C. Taylor, Robert A. Millikan, William Allen White, James R. Angell, W. C. Procter, Louis W. Hill and R. A. Long.

Hunt Proves Vain For Young Woman

Police in Colorado Working on Theory Teacher Has Been Kidnaped.

Fort Morgan, Colo., Nov. 23 (A.P.). A report that Miss Enid Marriott, 28-year-old Wiggins, Colo., school teacher had been seen at Sidney, Nebr., proving without foundation, officers today sought vainly for other clews in connection with her reputed kidnaping a week ago tonight.

The teacher disappeared at a Wiggins railway station after dismounting from a Denver train. Investigators are still unable to connect her absence directly with a large automobile parked at the station and a woman's scream and a revolver shot heard shortly afterward.

Miss Marriott's father, two brothers and her brother-in-law, C. G. Carlson, of Greeley, Colo., were here today attempting to aid officers in their search. The relatives believe the young woman voluntarily got into a car with a man who was on the Wiggins station platform with the automobile and is being held prisoner in some isolated section. Mr. Carlson has offered a reward of $100 for information leading to discovery of the woman's whereabouts.

Higher Education Of Indians Urged

Rhoades Asks System Up to White Children's Average in Annual Report.

(Associated Press.)

An education for Indian boys and girls up to the average given white children was advocated yesterday by Commissioner Rhoads, of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. This is necessary, he said in his annual report, if the Indian children are to become self-supporting. He added, most of the Indian schools heretofore have not gone beyond the lower grammar grades.

The task confronting the bureau, the report said, "is the practical problem of preparation which will enable the Indian, through his own and acquired resources, to become an independent, self-supporting and self-respecting member of the communities which now surround him."

Elimination of the younger children from boarding schools and placing them in public schools and home classes was outlined as one of the policies of the division. Approximately 38,000 Indian children were said to be in State-operated public schools.

Filling Station Robbed Of $18 by Armed Bandit

An unidentified Negro staged an armed holdup at the Gulf Filling Station, Florida avenue and W street northwest, shortly after its opening yesterday morning. He got $18.50.

Thomas Berry, of 729 Jefferson street northwest, the manager, said the robber thrust a pistol in his face and forced him to turn over the contents of the cash register. He gave the police a good description of the man.

REPUBLICAN TAUNTS COX ON TARIFF VIEW

Senator-Elect Dickinson's Statement Charges Inconsistency.

BARKLEY'S ATTITUDE HIT

(Associated Press.)

The assertion that the views of the Democratic leadership on outstanding problems "change as the shifting sands no less than they did during the campaign," was made yesterday by Representative Dickinson, senator-elect from Iowa.

In a statement through the Republican national committee, the Iowan said former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, "predicted 'immediate repeal of the tariff without hearing and without ceremony,'" and added:

"We note that he now 'feels strongly that there should be no haste in shaping a new tariff policy. These views, diametrically opposed, were made exactly one month apart, a month during which there was a general election, which may have had something to do with the change of front."

Mr. Dickinson also said Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, urged a downward tariff revision and thereby ran counter to statements made by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in his recent campaign speeches.

Senator Barkley and "others of the simon-pure low tariff wing of the Democratic party," he added, "remain definitely in opposition to the position of their party leaders."

Clerk Sped 58 Miles Per Hour, Police Say

Collins Otterbeck Lamb, 22 years old, of Belmont street, near Thirteenth street northwest, was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman L. S. Graham, of the Traffic Bureau, early yesterday morning on a charge of driving his automobile 58 miles an hour.

Lamb who said he was a clerk, was required to post $25 collateral for his release.

POLICE CHIEF SLAIN IN POLISH ELECTION

RACIAL FEUDS REVIVED

Warsaw, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Poland passed a moderately quiet day in balloting on a national Senate and a Silesian Diet, although Police Chief Sznapka, of Golaszowice, in the Plesa district of Silesia, had been killed last night as the result of a pre-election outburst.

While returns were slow in coming in, the Polish Telegraph Agency estimated Marshal Joseph Pilsudski's government had polled 70 per cent of the votes. Three of the four Senate seats in Warsaw were taken by the government and the fourth by the Right opposition.

Numerous minor squabbles were reported today in Silesia, which was German territory before the war, as the result of feeling between Germans and Poles.

The remainder of the country apparently was orderly, as choice of the Senate does not arouse as much political tension as does election of the Sejm, or principal legislative house, selected last Sunday. Poland as a whole voted for the Senate only; Silesia for both its local Diet and the Senate. Heavy rains cut the turnout somewhat.

A stiff race was conducted, nevertheless, by the government opposition, which was forced into a minority by the Sejm election. The oppositionists attempted to get a majority of the 111 seats, that they might have a forum for party expressions.

Marshal Joseph Pilsudski today made his first generous gesture toward his opponents following upon his Sejm victory, releasing on bail a number of opposition deputies who had been imprisoned in the Brest-Litovsk Fortress. At the time of last week's elections some 81 deputies were in jail, arrested at various times since M. Pilsudski dissolved the Sejm last summer.

Youthful Party to Explore Ancient Cities of the Incas

Ages of Adventurers Range From 20 to 30; Expeditions' Planes Will Be Christened at Bolling Field Wednesday in Presence of Notables.

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The lost cities of the ancient Incas of Peru, votaries of human sacrifice, and the Yuncas, conquered by the Incas before they were trodden under foot by the Spaniard Pizzaro, are to be explored by what is probably the most youthful scientific expedition ever undertaken.

Five adventurers, ranging in age from 20 to 30, will set out from Brooklyn December 5 to spy out from the air with motion and still cameras the secrets of civilizations that attained high order on this hemisphere before the white man set foot on it.

Backed by private finances and indorsements from the American Geographical and Harvard Geological Societies, they plan to pry into the mysteries of archeological, geographic and geologic importance that have lain for centuries among the towering Andes.

Members of the Odyssey will be George R. Johnson, 30, former New York cameraman, Fellow of the American Geographical Society and for two years chief photographer of the Peruvian Naval Air Service; Robert Shippee, 20, former Harvard student, who will be geologist, historian and second pilot; Irving G. Hay, 24, once tugboat captain in Manhattan waters and son of Capt. Patrick I. O'Hay, soldier of fortune, who will be chief pilot; Valentine Van Keuren, 30, vice president of the Red Bank, N. J., airport, civil engineer of the expedition, and Max Distel, 24, who will be mechanic. All are pilots.

Two big monoplanes, camping equipment, and still, aerial and motion picture cameras are the expedition's chief impedimenta, assembled at Red Bank Airport.

The planes will be christened the Washington and the Lima at Bolling Field, Washington, on Wednesday in the presence of Senor Manuel de Freyre y Santander, Peruvian ambassador to the United States; officials of the State, War and Navy Departments and representatives of scientific bodies. Senora Juan Mendoza, wife of the new secretary of the Peruvian Embassy, will christen the planes.

Taxes, Suits May Swallow $409,500 Sweepstake Prize

Canadian Must Pay Dominion $163,000 and British Columbia $32,600; Also Old Law Permits Any One to Sue Lottery Winner.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—It is one thing to win $409,500 on a sweepstakes; quite another thing to keep it, or even half of it, So A. P. Dawe, gas station operator, who won that sum in the Manchester Handicap Sweepstake, is finding out.

First there is the income tax. If the sum is paid in Canada the Dominion will demand 40 per cent or $163,000, and the Province of British Columbia will demand 8 per cent, or $32,600. He is trying to learn whether it would be less expensive to get the money in England or Ireland, but there is danger of double taxation if he does so.

Next there is the matter of the old law, just dug up, which permits any one to sue the winner of a lottery prize and take it away from him.

He hopes he has averted this danger by prompt action. He learned of his winning at 8 yesterday morning. At 10, when court opened, a suit had been filed against him in his brother's name. His wife filed another. He thinks that looks safe as against any other person who may decide to try to set his money, but there is, of course, a question whether a court would look kindly on proceedings which are evidently so friendly.

So Dawe is wondering whether he has come into a fortune or a new crop of worries.

CURB ASKED IN ALIEN WEIGHT IN CONGRESS

Methodist Board Wants to Exclude Representation of 7,500,000 Persons.

CHANGE IN LAW SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals yesterday urged an immediate amendment of the reapportionment law to exclude from representation some 7,500,000 aliens.

In a letter to Representatives Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, and Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, both of whom have urged such a move, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board, intimated he was hitting out at both gangster and bootlegger.

At the same time he condemned the move made in the last Congress to bring the question of Negro suffrage into the picture.

Dr. Wilson contended that unless action was taken in the approaching short session of Congress to effect a change in the reapportionment "it may well be that in some crisis in American history, the issue may be determined" by the representatives of aliens.

"It may well be," he added, "that if the country finds itself in a life and death struggle with organized crime, commanded by leaders of the underworld famous as manipulators of racketeering and vice, that these forces, largely alien in character, will be found fortified behind the privileges of representation.

"It is by no means certain that the men who at present represent these groups in Congress will always represent them, nor that they will always be represented by men of like character."

Referring to a move by Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, Dr. Wilson said it was "exceedingly unfortunate" that consideration of the reapportionment question in the last session "was complicated by the proposal to reduce Southern representation because of alleged violation of the constitutional provision in regard to Negro suffrage."

"The proposition to deprive the Negro of representation if and when the alien is so deprived," he said, "degraded the position of the Negro and the naturalized foreign born as citizens. It clearly implies the Negro citizen and those naturalized must not outweigh in the census for purposes of representation the alien, who is not a citizen."

Tellez to Report On Boundary Line

Also Will Give Ortiz Rubio Account of Claims Awaiting Action.

Mexico City, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ambassador Manuel M. Tellez, who arrived here from Washington last night, will give President Ortiz Rubio tomorrow a first-hand report on claims before the Mexican-American commission, as well as on the status of the international boundary commission's study of plans for rectification of the Rio Grande boundary line.

He will take back to Washington the Mexican government's explanation of the economic necessity for enacting a prohibitive tariff against imports from the United States.

The ambassador has returned from the United States for only a brief stay in Mexico. Sidestepping all comment on diplomatic matters under discussion between the two countries, he took occasion to praise the hospitality of the people of Mississippi. He was a guest recently of that State on the occasion of the University of Mississippi-University of Mexico football game.

Spain's Disorder Appears at End

Program Speeded Up for Return to Constitutional Government.

Madrid, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Believing the serious labor disorders of the last ten days are over, the government today set about speeding up its program to return Spain to constitutional government. The strikes in Madrid, Seville, Castellon, Jerez, Valencia and Oviedo appeared virtually ended, while at Barcelona conditions had returned so much to normal that Gov. Despujols permitted playing of the regular Sunday football games.

The government, in belief that the unrest in Andalusia is due to economic depression, has started a series of public improvement projects to solve unemployment. Most of the universities are planning to reopen tomorrow, although that at Barcelona will reopen on Tuesday.

Brought to a temporary halt by the labor disorders, the government now is preparing to set up the machinery for the election of deputies on March 1.

RUSSIAN SITUATION VIEWED AS SERIOUS

REVOLT RUMORS DENIED

Berlin, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Moscow correspondent Goerlinger, of the Lokal Anzeiger, who left Moscow Friday and arrived in Berlin today, says that both political and economic conditions in the Soviet Union has assumed a more critical form and the situation is grave, but that no revolution has occurred.

Herr Goerlinger knows nothing of any plot to cause a mutiny in the army or of subsequent arrests. The sharp clashes in recent Communist congresses in Moscow resulted in the opposition to M. Stalin being weakened but not defeated. It is persistently rumored in Moscow that M. Bucharin and M. Rykoff have been expelled from the party and that M. Tomsky has also been disciplined. But M. Rykoff, who went on leave when the revolutionary anniversary celebrations began, returned later and reviewed the parade in red square, which indicates he is still in power in the party.

The assumption seems justified that a temporary compromise between the two groups has been affected in the central committee of the Communist party. Even the opposition, comprising the old members of the Bolshevik party, has no desire to overthrow the Communist party but is merely carrying on the struggle for leadership.

Stalin's Iron Nerve Cited.

The opposition to M. Stalin is centering around the fact that he is sacrificing everything else to industrializing the country and is starving the people with his agrarian policy. As yet no one in the opposition ranks has developed M. Stalin's qualities of leadership and his iron nerve.

(Copyright, 1930.)

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A dispatch tonight from Moscow to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency said that five leading Jewish Communists were involved in a plot against Joseph Stalin, head of the Communist party.

Names of Men Involved.

They were listed as assistants to M. Syrtov, who, the correspondent said, had contemplated the overthrow of M. Stalin, and their names were given as M. Shatzkin, leader of the Komsomol or Communist youth organization; Ch. Nusinov, V. Kavraisky, M. Helperin and M. Reeznik.

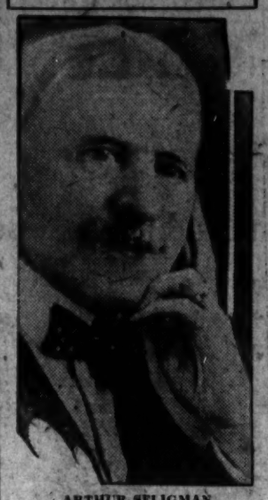

The correspondent said the men were charged with conducting illegal activities intended to harm the authority of the party leaders among the masses, and also were accused of attempting to destroy the work of the Soviets.

Premier Sergei Syrtov on November 3 was removed from the presidency of the Council of People's Commissars of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet Republic, the largest unit of the U. S. S. R.

to those who are not likely to become public charges.

"But the resolution," he said, "will go farther than we can go by any sort of administrative action."

Labor Department figures show 241,700 immigrants were admitted to this country in the year ended last June 30 for permanent residence. Reed's resolution would affect only these and would not bar nonimmigrant or tmeporary visitor aliens of which there were 70,823 yast year.

It was Senator Reed who led the successful fight last year against the administration's effort to postpone operation of the national origins clause which was estimated to cut down immigration by more than 50,000.

The last immigration legislation considered by Congress was at the last regular session when the Senate adopted a resolution placing Mexico on the quota basis. House sponsors of the proposal, however, were unable to obtain a rule to bring it to the floor.

DO-X Gives Exhibition At Corunna and Lands

Corunna, Spain, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The German flying boat DO-X, after performing a series of graceful evolutions over the city, landed here at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon from Santander, where it had taken off at 10:30 a. m. The ship carried eight passengers, including Dr. Claude Dornier and his wife, and a complete crew.

As the huge plane approached this city the hum of its motors attracted thousands of persons to the streets and the water front. For three-quarters of an hour the ship went through a series of maneuvers.

PEKING SKULL HELD MAN'S, NOT APE'S

Dr. Black Ridicules Theory That Remains Are Those of Gorilla.

SUPPORTED BY SOCIETY

Peiping, China, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. Davidson Black, anatomist of the Rockefeller Foundation here, who has been in charge of the "Peking man" researches since 1927, today termed as "nonsensical" the theory of Sir John Bland-Sutton that the skull was that of a gorilla.

Dr. Black has devoted three years of intensive study to the teeth and the fossilised bones and skull. His findings and conclusions have been widely published in scientific journals and have been considered by some of the world's leading authorities.

Elliot Smith, noted British anthropologist, this year traveled from London to Peiping especially to see the finds at the Rockefeller Hospital and inspect prehistoric deposits at Choukoutien, 30 miles west of here, where the skull was found. He then voiced the opinion "that skull represented the most valuable and most illuminating evidence of man's early history yet revealed."

This opinion was backed up among others by Amadeus Grabau, American paleontologist, and by Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the American Museum of Natural History's central Asiatic expedition, and his chief paleontologist, Walter Granger.

Dr. Black said that while in Peiping Sir John saw the skull and concurred with Elliott Smith's opinion, but did not mention anything about gorilla.

Shanghai, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Commenting on reports published abroad that Sir John Bland-Sutton had declared the famous "Peking man" skull that of a gorilla, members of the Shanghai Medical Society said last night that the eminent English surgeon's opinion is not conclusive.

Sir John, who talked to many of them while here and on his way to Hongkong, told them, they said, that from a cursory examination, his first impression was the skull appeared more like that of an advanced anthropoid ape than of a human. He emphasized, however, that definite conclusions would be possible only with extensive study.

Discovery of the "Peking man" skull a year ago aroused wide interest. Dr. Davidson Black, who studied the find, at first believed it that of a grown man, but later said it probably was the skull of a girl. A similar skull was found two months ago in the same area.

FARMER'S TROUBLES TO BE AIRED TODAY

Agricultural Leaders Will Meet With McNary and His Committee.

TO CONSIDER NEW BILLS

(Associated Press.)

The troubles of the American farmer, with particular reference to wheat, will be surveyed minutely today when national farm leaders and Government officials meet with Chairman McNary and his Senate agriculture committeemen to determine whether new legislation will be sought at the coming short session of Congress.

The administration already is prepared to sponsor a bill to authorize $60,000,000 in loans to farmers of 21 drought-stricken States, but this is considered aside from the general farm question, including the all-important subject of disposition of the Farm Board's wheat holdings or possible future purchases by the Federal agency.

These and other phases will be discussed by Senator McNary and his committee with Secretary Hyde, Chairman Legge of the Farm Board, and three farm organization heads—President Thompson, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Taber, of the National Grange, and Huff, of the National Farmers Union.

Mr. Legge, whose organization has bought over 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to combat price declines, will be examined closely regarding the board's plans. The chairman said last night, however, he had no recommendations to make at today's meeting, but was prepared to participate freely in the round-table discussion.

The chances are slim that any additional farm legislation beyond the drought relief bill will be pressed at the session starting next week, but Senator McNary has said he wants a thorough discussion beforehand to determine the sentiment among the farm groups in and out of the Government.

Senator McNary and other Western senators, including Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Capper, of Kansas, have said the Farm Board should be given a further trial in its effort to stabilize marketing, but Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Brookhart, of Iowa, are prepared to revive agitation for the export debenture plan opposed by President Hoover.

REGARD OF ENGLISH FOR AMERICA TOLD

tered the church for the service he saw there the Stars and Stripes hung in front of the window which was to be dedicated. He took that as an evidence of the friendly spirit existing between the two great English-speaking nations, and perhaps also as a happy courtesy toward the visiting Americans. Another reason, he later discovered, was the fact that the Rev. Lawrence Washington, progenitor of our First President, had been vicar of All Saints Church, and he brought with him documentary evidence of this fact.

The Rev. Lawrence Washington, he said, was the son of Lawrence Washington, of Sulgrave; matriculated in Brazenose College, Oxford, in 1624, and was given a country living in Essex in 1632. He was retired in 1643, for no other cause than that he was a loyal person and had one of the best livings in those parts. Subsequently he was allowed to accept a poor and miserable living.

Canon Frederick C. McDonald, present rector of All Saints Church, offered to give Bishop Remington the clapper which had been removed from the largest but one of the five bells in All Saints Church. It was a joint gift to the bishop and Mrs. Remington, but he stated that the latter, being a loyal daughter of the American Revolution, joined him in making the gift to Christ Church, of Alexandria, the church in which George Washington worshiped and of which he was a vestryman, and the bishop referred with pleasure to the fact that in the congregation last night was Mrs. Eleanor Selden Washington Howard, the last Washington child born at Mount Vernon.

The bishop was informed by Canon McDonald that the clapper which was presented was certainly not less than 294 years old, coming out of the bell which was placed in the church tower in 1636, and being removed because it became so worn that it did not give the proper tone to the bell. The clapper is of hand-wrought iron, about 18 inches long, and the part that strikes the bell is about 3 inches in diameter. It shows two places worn smooth by its centuries of service.

Canon McDonald called attention to the fact that the bells in All Saints Church have been rung at the coronations of English sovereigns since the church was first built, and that this clapper had rung out its acclaim at the coronations of at least thirteen British sovereigns, from Charles II to George V.

At the conclusion of his address, the bishop descended to the chancel and presented the clapper formally to the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, in his official capacity as rector of Christ Church, and expressed the hope that it would prove a reminder of the great friendship which exists between English-speaking people, and asked that some notice of this event be sent back to the people on the other side of the water, as they would appreciate that, even as the people of the congregation of Christ Church and of Alexandria would appreciate the gift.

The Rev. Dr. Morton, in accepting the gift, expressed the wish that he might find fitting words to voice the appreciation of the vestry and members of Christ Church, and of the citizens of Alexandria, for the gift, which, he said, would be placed among the valued possessions of the old parish, and would be treasured for many years, perhaps many centuries.

Capper Says Farm Board Rescued Wheat Market

Unexpected Aid to Stabilization Corporation Just When Prices Were Sagging Woefully Almost Instantly Stopped Selling, He Says.

In response to a request from the New York World News Service Senator Capper has written his views of the wheat situation, which are presented here as the opinion of one of the leading proponents of the agricultural interests in the United States Senate.

By ARTHUR CAPPER.

From certain quarters in the industrial East there have recently come expressions of deep concern, to say the least, over the action of the Farmers National Grain Stabilizing Corporation in preventing a wheat-pit panic by buying wheat with Federal loans.

In these expressions have figured such dark and fearsome terms as Government subsidy, socialism and class legislation. Let us examine the facts and determine whether there is need for alarm or congratulations.

Admitting cheerfully at the outset that the wheat market was saved by the taxpayers' money, let us discover whether ruin awaits this country as the result of this audacity.

Going back to the beginning, the stabilizing corporation was created under the so-called Federal farm act. It is owned by farmer cooperatives. Its only connection with the Government in its marketing operations is the lending of capital by the Government. This same connection exists between Uncle Sam and the United States Lines, and other private lines, in the ocean shipping business. If the cooperatives are unable to pay off their loans, the Treasury loses. This same rule applies to the shipping arrangement.

Not Governmental Agencies.

"The Farm Board has emphasized always the fact that the stabilization corporations, the Farmers National Grain Corporation and kindred organizations recognized and created under the federal farm act, are not governmental agencies, although the Government and the Farm Board cooperate with them by loaning capital and giving advice.

Early in this year the stabilization corporation went into the open market and bought wheat at prices ranging from $1.12 to $1.25 a bushel. It also purchased a large quantity of cotton.

Then the Farm Board announced that the corporation would engage in no more buying in the open market.

At about this time it became evident that the large American and Canadian wheat crops, together with the surplus, would cause prices to drop. With others, I asked the Farm Board to resume buying, but the board refused, saying that attempts "to stabilize prices by going into the market are futile."

Prices did drop and continued to fall. A few days ago a panic seemed inevitable. Wheat had fallen 5 cents a bushel in Winnipeg, 48 cents less than the same grade in Chicago. Liverpool's prices were the lowest in 36 years, in the Argentine a 7-cent slump was registered in two days. The Chicago market, uneasy and gloomy, sagged and sagged. Despite an unusually short crop, corn dropped 3 cents—a sympathetic reaction. Disaster spread black wings over the pit.

At this juncture, the stabilization corporation, which has been looking anxious but doing nothing for some time, received an unexpected nod of favor from the Farm Board. Immediately things began to happen. Rumors of Government support spread like sunshine over the mournful wheat exchange. Farmers sighed relievedly, "at last." Traders breathed more freely, and faint hearts grew strong. Wheat quotations that clung perilously at the brink of ruin avidly seized the life preserver, righted themselves and stood firm. Shaky selling stopped.

The Chicago price for December wheat was held at 73 cents, the May option at 76 cents. And, lest it be forgotten, the tariff of 42 cents a bushel on wheat was no mean factor in the process of stabilization.

The result of this timely action was that American wheat today is selling far above the world level. Liverpool prices, normally 12 to 20 cents a bushel over Chicago, during the past week have been 2 to 5 cents lower than ours.

Gave Cheering Words.

As soon as the situation was under control, Chairman Legge of the Farm Board announced that the Stabilization Corporation had entered the market because of "demoralization in world grain markets" in order to "prevent further unwarranted decline" in American wheat prices, and to stop "panicky selling." He gave assurance that the corporation would continue its market operations so long as the need continued.

These cheering words were accompanied by a very definite statement that the corporation would not buy wheat to cause an arbitrary increase in price, or to corner the market.

This thorough reversal of the Farm Board's policy was surprising to all interested in the wheat market. While they are grateful for the assistance given them, they can not be blamed for hoping that the Farm Board will make its present policy permanent, so long as may be required. More farmers would have been benefited if the corporation had resumed its wheat buying a few months ago.

What will be done with all the wheat thus bought? If the stabilization corporation turns it over to the Government, it certainly can be put to splendid use by passing it along, in the form of flour or bread, to the distressed families of America's unemployed. I, for one, will do everything I can to get such an appropriation from Congress at the coming short session. No one would expect the Farm Board to direct the distribution of the flour, but surely the task can be administered by one of our welfare agencies.

Sees No Socialism.

Now this is the story of how this wheat market was saved, who did it and why. There is not the slightest doubt but that a wheat panic would be of far-reaching consequence in other parts of our financial structure. Uncle Sam's money saved the market and was of immeasurable assistance to the wheat farmers of this country.

I see no socialism in what was done, but I do see good business sense on the part of the Government. Wherefore, then, these cries of anxiety from the industrial East? Is it nothing that the American wheat industry has been saved from certain and overwhelming ruin? Is it nothing that the world market in a vital commodity has been rescued from utter demoralization in a time of crisis?

After all, the real power which stopped the panic was neither the individual wheat farmer nor the public money in the custody of the Federal Farm Board. The compelling factor was the group of farmer cooperatives which own the stabilizing corporation.

Minus this group, the entire structure of the farm program could not have been erected. Without the aid of the cooperatives, there could have been no Farmers National Grain Stabilizing Corporation, and therefore no Federal loans.

The beneficent influence of the cooperatives on the agricultural industry of this country was never more clearly demonstrated than in the present instance. Every farmer should know now that through these organizations alone can he make his future progress and win his economic salvation.

Capper Urged to Fight To Lower Pupils' Fare

Urging renewed action to get reduced car fares for pupils, J. C. Wright, teacher at the Cordoza School, and one of the instigators of the movement to obtain lower fares, sent a letter yesterday to Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee in which he stressed the amount now being spent by school children on transportation.

Increase in car fare obliges the children to pay $1 a week, or 75 cents by buying tokens, Mr. Wright pointed out. The reduced fare sought should be extended to pupils in private and parochial schools as well as in the public schools, he said.

Poincare Demands Frontier Defenses

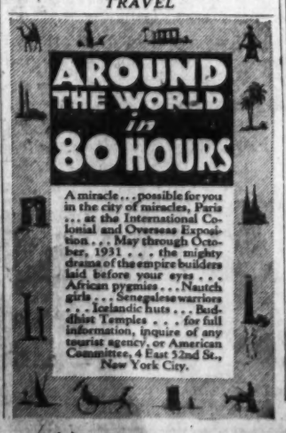

Security Must Come Before Disarmament, He Tells War Veterans.

Sampigny, France, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Raymond Poincare, former premier and president, told a gathering of war veterans today that security must come before disarmament.

M. Poincare said the League of Nations was inspired by excellent intentions in seeking to set up a general program of disarmament, but, "unfortunately, has no means of enforcing its decisions."

Consequently, he added, there will be nations which, while promising to disarm, maintain preparations for war under more or less disguised forms, and thus he viewed security as an indispensable preface to disarmament. In such a state of affairs, M. Poincare concluded, France needed frontier defenses, a trained army with adequate reserves, a fleet to protect the coasts and colonies and an air force.

LAWES RAPS POLICE FOR RACKETS' EVILS

Declares They Allow 10,000 to Exact Huge Tribute From New York.

DRIVE GETS UNDER WAY

New York, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ten thousand racketeers are compelling the people of this city to pay them staggering sums each year while the police, who know all about the gangsters and their methods, do not lift a finger to stop their depredations, Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing, charged today.

"It is primarily the work of the police to break up these rackets," Mr. Lawes told the New York World News Service correspondent at Ossining. "They know who the racketeers are. It ought to be found out why they don't get after them. The racketeers don't keep all their tribute. They evidently divide with some one.

Sees 10,000 Implicated.

"There are probably about 10,000 persons engaged in rackets of all kinds in New York City. About 2,000 men do nothing but solicit policies in gambling rackets. Thousands of others prey on such legitimate businesses as poultry, meats, docks, trucking, laundries and dyeing companies."

Identical conditions exist in many other American cities, said Warden Lawes, who obtains his information at first hand by questioning each criminal sent to the prison which he supervises. President Hoover and the Federal authorities, he asserted, can accomplish little in their new campaign against racketeering without the sincere cooperation of the police. The same situation confronts District Attorney Crain, who has initiated a campaign against professional extortionists, Mr. Lawes intimated.

On the heels of the revelation that important evidence has been developed against certain racketeers, Mr. Crain today announced the summoning of a November grand jury, to convene Tuesday afternoon shortly after the scheduled meeting of the committee of public safety, composed of business men anxious to extirpate the racket evil.

Considered Significant.

Significant in connection with Warden Lawes' charges were the following paragraphs in Mr. Crain's statement:

"Members of the committee of public safety are not going to bring in racketeers. This is the work of the police. Under Commissioner Mulrooney, that work will be done. In New York County, the prosecution of racketeers is in my hands. Its victims will complain and witnesses speak.

"My efforts to bring racketeers to justice or drive them from New York will be seconded by three grand juries during this month and by four during December, and one of such grand juries will devote itself largely to this special task."

It was reported that Police Commissioner Mulrooney may order tomorrow a sweeping round-up of all racketeers known to the police. Those caught in the dragnet will be questioned by detectives and perhaps grilled before the grand jury by the district attorney.

to close, although it was only 9 o'clock in the evening.

Saturday night, Errico said, the man who seemed in charge of the operations against him came to the place drunk and mounted a billiard table, crushing its cushions with his heels, the poolroom proprietor declared.

The men accused by the former shoemaker are well known to police of the Fifth Precinct, it was said last night. Errico asserted that one showed him a newspaper containing an account of the wrecking of a poolroom in Mount Rainier, Md., by unidentified persons. There would be a similar destruction of Errico's place unless his demands were complied with, the man is said to have remarked.

Errico, who speaks only broken English, does not seem to know exactly the sort of game of which he is the victim. Fifth Precinct police doubt that the "racketeering" is being operated on a wide scale. They are inclined to believe that Errico, unaccustomed to handling the poolroom business, has become intimidated by a crowd of young "bullies."

Skeleton-Key Burglar Robs Home in Capital

Gaining entrance by the use of a skeleton key a burglar last night ransacked the home of Clarence S. Hagan, an assistant chief of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, departing with two overcoats, valued at $50, according to a police report.

The robbery occurred between 5:30 and 9:45 o'clock. The intruder apparently entered and departed through a basement door. Mr. Hagan last night was checking up to see if other valuables had been taken in the loot.

Executive Expert Goes Into Holdup Business

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The executive type stickup man went to work (with a gun) in a restaurant early today. He issued orders to the manager, George Van Sork.

"Put down that milk," he commanded. Van Sork did, without a word.

"Get over that counter," Van Sork did, saying nothing.

"Shove those dishes back." It was done without comment.

"Give me your money." It was $22.40 and Van Sork handed it over, still without a word.

The executive type stickup man backed toward he door.

"Don't move," he ordered, "until you hear my motor start."

"And," he added, "the next time you're held up don't talk so much."

PATROLMAN BALKS HOLDUP; FOUR SHOT

PAPER VENDER MAY DIE

Detroit, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A patrolman, robber suspect and two employes were wounded in an attempted robbery of the Briggs Hotel here about 4:30 a. m. today.

Patrolman Francis Murphy had been stationed in the hotel because of a warning from Cleveland police that twelve hotels there had been robbed recently and the robbers were believed to have moved to Detroit.

Two robbers, believed by police to be those who took $725 in a robbery of the Norton Hotel shortly after 3 a. m., were accosted by Murphy just as they ordered the night clerk to hold up his hands. They opened fire and the patrolman was shot in both legs. He fell to the floor but began shooting and wounded one of the men as they fled.

Mack Wald, bell boy and Michael Zelekin, newspaper vendor, also were hit.

Frank Ferris, 22, was arrested at his room in an apartment hotel after the house physician reported he had been shot.

The four wounded men were taken to receiving hospital where physicians said Ferris and Zelekin probably would die. Zelekin was shot in the arm, leg and abdomen.

Lester Briggs, owner of the Briggs Hotel, said the robbery of $26,000 in cash and jewels had been prevented by Patrolman Murphy.

Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox said he had received word from Cleveland police that 12 hotels there had been robbed during the past three weeks. Ferris had lived in Detroit, but left his rooming place here three weeks ago. Wilcox pointed out that Ferris' removal from Detroit approximately coincides with the first of Cleveland's hotel robberies.

Ferris, who was shot in the abdomen, was questioned by police after an operation was performed in an effort to save his life. Officers said he refused to tell how he was wounded but denied any part in the Briggs Hotel robbery. Part of a belt buckle, shattered by a bullet, was found in the hotel lobby and police reported finding the remainder in Ferris' room.

Ferris said his parents were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ferris, of Boomer, W. Va.

Fresh Tremors Felt In Southern Albania

Tirana, Albania, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Slight earth tremors were felt today at Terbatch and Dukar, in the same region of southern Albania where an earthquake caused more than 50 deaths Friday. Most of the houses in the two towns had been destroyed by the previous shocks and the inhabitants are shelterless.

King Zogu has distributed 20,000 gold francs among the sufferers, while relief agencies are busy.

BOMB PLOT FOILED, AUTHOR IS HUNTED

SHIPMENT BEING TRACED

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Search for the author of the second attempt to bomb the Cowles Publishing Co. Building here in three years had spread from Washington into California and Oregon today.

Information from San Francisco, Portland and Seattle indicated that the trunk containing an elaborate timing apparatus, hooked to a 200-stick dynamite bomb, might have been sent from those cities to Spokane. The bomb, inside a steamer trunk, was delivered to the Associated Press office, which is centrally located in the Chronicle Building.

Ballistic experts said the bomb was powerful enough to wreck both the Chronicle and Spokesman-Review buildings had it been discharged.

Found by Correspondent.

The bomb was discovered by Cleveland Williams, Associated Press correspondent, late yesterday after it had been in the office for nearly six hours. Williams had the trunk taken to a locksmith, who forced it open.

In July, 1927, a bomb was placed in the doorway of the Spokesman-Review Building, but the fuse failed to burn. Members of the Spokesman-Review staff said a man who refused to give his name had called the office October 27 and complained of a series of stories relating to a "ghost house." The man, they said, recalled the bombing attempt in 1927 and suggested such an attempt might be repeated.

Had Shipped "Tool Chest."

San Francisco police officers declared they had information of a man who shipped a "tool chest" from San Francisco to Portland. In many ways the "tool chest" resembled the trunk brought here. Seattle officers said they had learned the steamer trunk was shipped from Portland to Seattle, arriving in Seattle late Friday, and was shipped to Spokane an hour or so later.

Seattle officers said a man who signed his name as "Martin O'Malley" had a steamer trunk delivered to the Bush Hotel there Friday and later had it sent to a railroad station. The bomb trunk bore a tag marked with the return address, "H. C. Malley, Bush Hotel."

Malley, or O'Malley, Seattle police said, was about 26 or 28 years old, weighed about 160 pounds, and was about 5 feet 11 inches in height. He spoke flawless English, was well dressed, and indicated he was familiar with newspaper jargon.

The Interior Secretary also asserted that the university president was not a member of the board of trustees, "has no vote of any sort in their actions or in the selection of trustees, and has nothing whatsoever to do with investments."

"To attempt to make out," he added, "that the president of an educational institution is under the domination of the organizations whose bonds make up a part of its endowment is ridiculous."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MILL EMPLOYMENT OFF, SAYS REPORT

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT DIPS

(Associated Press.)

Increased sales by department stores during October with decreased industrial production, a decline in factory employment and a further downward movement in wholesale commodity prices were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board in its monthly summary of business and financial conditions.

The value of building contracts which had grown in September increased further in October, the board said, but by a smaller amount than usual. Contracts for public works and utilities increased, but there was a substantial decrease in contracts for industrial building.

The board said that while the volume of distribution of commodities by rail showed a decline, retail trade increased considerably more than the seasonal amount.

"Industrial production, including both factories and mines, decreased by about 3 per cent in October, according to the Federal Reserve Board's index, which makes allowance for the usual seasonal changes," the review said. "This decline reflected chiefly a further decrease in output of steel ingots, contrary to the usual seasonal movement, and a larger than seasonal decline in the output of automobiles.

Shoe Output Curtailed.

"Output in the shoe industry was also curtailed. Consumption of cotton by domestic mills showed a further increase of slightly more than the usual seasonal amount, and stocks of cotton cloth were further reduced. Increased activity also was reported for the silk industry. Output of coal was in substantially larger volume than in September, while production of copper and petroleum declined.

"Number of workers employed showed a decrease for the month in foundries and in the automobile, machine tool, woolen and shoe industries, while increases were reported in number of persons employed in the production of silk goods, hosiery and radios.

"Employment at coal mines increased considerably, partly in response to seasonal influences.

"The general level of wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics index, declined in October and the decline continued in the first half of November. Further decreases in the prices of many agricultural products, including grains, live stock and meats, were accompanied by reduction in prices of hides, tin, petroleum and gasoline, while sugar and copper advanced. The price of cotton rose considerably at the end of October from the low level prevailing early in the month."

Loans on Securities Drop.

The board said the total volume of credit at reporting member banks showed relatively little change from the four-week period ended November 12. Loans on securities declined by $350,000,000, reflecting reduction in loans to brokers and dealers in securities, while all other loans increased by $150,000,000, partly on account of purchases of acceptances by the member banks.

Banks also increased their holdings of investments. The volume of reserve bank credit in use showed little change between the middle of October and the middle of November. There was a further addition of $30,000,000 to the stock of monetary gold and a decline of $20,000,000 in money in circulation.

The board said money rates in the open market had eased slightly since the middle of October, with the rate on prime mercantile paper declining from 3 per cent to a range from 2¾ to 3 per cent. It reported a reduction in the rate on bankers acceptances of long maturities and said long-time money rates as measured by yields on United States Government securities had declined slightly.

Systemized Certifications Of House Members Urged

Page Writes Letters to States' Officials Suggesting Adequate Credentials for Representatives; Humorous Methods Are Related.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the House, has set himself a new task—to bring order out of the disorder reigning in the methods pursued by various State officials in formally certifying to the election to the House of Representatives.

At present formal certifications find their way to the desk of the clerk of the House by devious channels and in various forms. Some amusing incidents grow out of personal feuds among State officials, and though these are good for a laugh, there should be a course of action prescribed to safeguard the interests of all, Mr. Page believes.

It is a somewhat touchy subject, and Mr. Page is treading softly and speaking low about it, because of the sovereignty of the various States, and he certainly doesn't want any State to get the idea that he is treading on its sovereign rights. So he has written a polite letter to State officials suggesting to them that they make certain that they certify in an adequate manner the election of members of the House.

Later on it is likely that he may propose that the House adopt a resolution suggesting a form to be followed by each State in certifying to election of its representatives in the House of Representatives. The Senate a few years ago suggested to the States a form to be followed by State officials in certifying election of senators. But Congress can't prescribe in too much detail, nor can it simply promulgate an edict which the individual States must follow, and the election laws of many States differ and there is nothing Congress could do about that if it would. Certainly Mr. Page doesn't propose that it should.

Sometimes certification of election to the House is sent to the individual elected. Sometimes to the Speaker of the House. The governor of one State sent in a very formal appearing document, decorated with the State seal, declaring that he thereby "commissioned" so and so as a member of Congress. There was considerable correspondence and apparently the governor didn't like it very much when Mr. Page insisted that he couldn't "commission" a man who had been elected to serve as a member of the House but finally the certification of the election of the member involved came along and his name was put on the pay roll and formally recorded.

Another time when certifications of election of the delegation from a State were received Mr. Page noticed that some bore the great seal of the State and some did not. Curious, he asked a veteran member from that State for the explanation.

"Why," the representative replied, "that so-and-so wants $5 to put the seal on and I'll be damned if I'll give it to him. I don't care about the $5 but I'm certainly not going to let him hold me up like that."

Some States send in a printed list of all representatives elected with one name underscored. The list is its certification of election of the individual whose name is underscored.

Others use a form about double the size of a bank check. Others used a beautifully decorated and engraved form four square feet or more in size.

New members of Congress apparently are especially proud of their certificates of election, especially if their States employ a pretty form with a seal and everything and there have been times when Mr. Page has had to go to members and persuade them to turn over to him for his official records certificates which have been sent directly to the representatives by responsible State officials.

Many members of Congress leave their certificates with the clerk of the House and many are now reposing in the historical archives section of the Congressional Library. Others like to have the certificate and after there is no longer any need of it for official purposes Mr. Page turns it over to them.

Incidentally congressman is a title which is very popular in the various States. In the eyes of the law there is no such title. A senator is just as much a congressman as is a member of the House of Representatives, nor is the latter any more a congressman than the senator. Every once in a while Mr. Page has to send back a certification of election of some individual as a congressman, a job which doesn't exist, and after some argument at times he finally gets a certification to election as a member of the House of Representatives.

Unimportant details? Oh, yes; Mr. Page agrees, but he adds that there might come a vitally important moment when the history of the Nation or at least of a State or congressional district might hinge on just such a detail, and he believes that the States should safeguard themselves against possible unscrupuously partisan actions by being meticulous in such matters.

HOOVER TO GET PLAN FOR OUTLAWING WAR

Group Proposes Prohibition as Basic International Principle.

OPEN LETTER IS SENT

(Associated Press.)

A proposal to outlaw war by making its prohibition a basic principle of international law will be presented to President Hoover today in an open letter signed by a large group of American bankers, clergymen, editors and other prominent men and women.

The plan, which its sponsors said would be presented directly to the Chief Executive, urged enactment of this principle of international law, not through a treaty to be signed, but by a conference or negotiations or a congress of nations in which sufficient nations would participate to make it binding upon the world.

Pointing out that the proposal had been indorsed by the late Myron T. Herrick, former American Ambassador to France, the letter asserted it had been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the naval reduction and world court negotiations.

If the latter question is to be brought before the Senate at the December session, however, the letter said, the proposal should be held up still further since American adherence to the World Court "should come before any other proposal."

The letter contended, on the other hand, that if the World Court question was not to come before the Senate in December, the proposal should be pressed since negotiations and agreement among the nations must precede its submission to the senate.

"The enactment would be different from any treaty," the letter said, "because a treaty, though it stipulates that it is to bind the nations signatory to it to the end of time, may lose its binding power through the renunciation of it by one or more of them in a way that would make the retention of its bonds unfair and oppressive to other nations that would be loyal to it.

"No nation, be it ever so powerful, can withdraw from international law. * * * It may violate it and treat it with contempt, * * * but the law will remain, branding the offending nation as a disgraced criminal, guilty of the most serious offense against the entire community of nations."

The letter added that the proposal would not involve the United States in any entanglement in the "politics and wars of Europe" and predicted a successful agreement on the proposal and a prompt ratification if the State Department should undertake negotiations to make it effective.

Georgian Commits Suicide After Running Amuck With Shotgun.

OTHERS ARE IMPERILED

Kite, Ga., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A young mother, Mrs. Tom Kirkland; her baby daughter and Fred Wheeler were shot to death today in what Johnson County officers described as Wheeler's "drunken rage."

Officers said Wheeler shot the mother and child and then several hours later, while being sought by a posse, killed himself.

Wheeler, according to officers, returned home "crazed with drink" late this morning, seized a shotgun from a neighbor's house, fired a charge into his own dwelling where his family was gathered, and threatened to kill his mother as she rushed outside.

Mrs. Kirkland, who was in the home, rushed out with her child and sped toward her home some distance away. Seeing the woman and child, officers said, Wheeler fired two charges at them, the first striking the child from her mother's arms and the second felling the woman. Both were mortally wounded.

Gompers Memorial Design Is Approved

Fine Arts Commission Acts Upon Statue by Robert Aitken.

The design submitted by Robert Aitken, of New York, for the memorial to Samuel Gompers to be erected by the American Federation of Labor has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission, it was announced Saturday.

The memorial will consist of a large statue in bronze of Mr. Gompers, surrounded by a group of figures in marble, symbolic of labor, justice, liberty, the home and education. The whole memorial will be about 18 feet in height, including its granite base.

A site on Massachusetts avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets northwest, has been approved as the location of the memorial which is to be erected as soon as it can be completed, which Mr. Aitken estimates will be in about two years.

Funds for erection of the memorial, which is to cost about $100,000, are being raised by the American Federation of Labor through contributions from local unions throughout the United States, and their members as individuals. A substantial part of the fund already has been obtained, but the federation is continuing its collection campaign with the hope of obtaining the entire sum soon after the first of the year.

Election Was Wasted, Forum Speaker Avers

"The recent election was wasted because the Democrats are worse than the Republicans," was the contention yesterday of Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary of the People's Legislative Council, in his address at the Washington Secular League Open Forum in Musicians' Hall.

Mr. Marsh, discussing "Wasted Elections," said he "rather liked the Republicans because they are frank in their chicanery while the Democrats are hypocritical and have been endowed with almost superhuman stupidity."

Woman Confesses Insurance Murder

Brother of Victim's Wife Named as Slayer of Philadelphian.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Mrs. Clarence Grace Prophet and her brother, Harold Williams, police announced, confessed to having killed William F. Prophet, the woman's husband, to obtain $2,000 life insurance, taken out several months ago.

Prophet, 49, an advertising solicitor, was shot to death in the bedroom of his home, early yesterday.

In notifying police of her husband's death, Mrs. Prophet declared he had been attacked by a man, apparently a robber, who escaped. Mrs. Prophet was taken to police headquarters for questioning. Her brother was taken into custody late in the day.

According to police, Mrs. Prophet, 33, and Williams said they had planned the slaying two weeks ago. Williams, the police asserted, was to receive $500 of the insurance money. He visited the Prophet home last night and left, they said, after obtaining a key. Reconstructing the shooting, police said Williams entered the house about 4 o'clock this morning, went to the room where Prophet slept and attacked him.

NORRIS TAKES COMMAND.

Senator Norris announces his program for the coming session of Congress. All proposals fathered or approved by him must be enacted. If the administration accepts his program, well and good. If it blocks him it will be to blame for the extra session which he will bring about.

The senator from Nebraska is either talking nonsense or he is the leader of Congress and master of the administration. He acquired leadership part of the time at the last session with the consent of a few renegade Republicans and by taking over the command of the Democratic side. Have the Democrats in the Senate agreed to accept his orders for the coming session? Did Senator Glass, in repudiating the cooperation statement issued by seven Democratic leaders immediately after election, do so with the knowledge that the Democratic party was already committed to Senator Norris' leadership?

Without the support of insurgents and Democrats, Senator Norris is a mere windbag. With their support he can overrule President Hoover and the Republican party. It is difficult at this time to determine whether he is simply a raucous voice or a menace to the country in its effort to obtain early action by Congress for the relief of unemployment. Although the promise of cooperation by Democratic spokesmen was accepted in good faith by the Republicans and the administration, they may have reckoned without their host. A secret pact may be in effect between Senator Norris and the Democrats, whereby he is to be their leader in the coalition plan for destroying the Hoover administration. Senator Glass and others may feel that no Democrat is competent to direct the Democratic side. Indeed, Senator Glass has intimated that he does not presume to be a leader, and he questions whether other Democrats are leaders. The bold assertion of leadership by Senator Norris, taken in connection with the disavowal of leadership by Senator Glass and other Democrats, may mean that a secret alliance has been formed whereby Leaders Glass, Harrison, Heflin, Walsh, of Montana, McKellar, Pittman, Black, George and others have agreed to throw off Leader Robinson and accept the orders of Senator Norris.

The subservience of the Democratic side to Senator Norris would enable him to dictate terms to Congress and the President. The other insurgents do not count. Senator Borah may kick against Norris' program, but since he never controls any vote but his own, and sometimes finds even that vote unmanageable, his roarings would not disturb the commander of the Democrats. Senator Norris would go ahead and demand acceptance of his socialistic program as the price of congressional action for the relief of unemployment.

The immediate relief of public distress seems to be dependent upon the commitments of the Democratic side of the Senate. If the Democrats of the Senate have reached the conclusion that they are bankrupt in leadership and must enlist under the Norris flag, Senator Norris will go ahead with execution of his program. There will be no relief for unemployment unless Congress agrees to make the United States a manufacturer and jobber, in line with the improved system of civilization that has been installed in Soviet Russia.

RUMBLINGS IN RUSSIA.

Persistent rumors of turmoil, mutiny and assassination come from Moscow, in spite of the rigid censorship. These rumors are like the flying clouds that precede a hurricane.

Russia is in a desperate plight. Winter is coming on, and millions face the danger of starvation. Wheat and other products have been dumped on foreign markets to secure money for carrying on the red regime. The people have nothing of their own. They must stand in line for at least two hours a day to get rations that are handed out by the government, and only those are fed who have cards certifying their adherence to Communism.

Thirteen years after the Lenine revolution Russia is still under military rule and espionage. The slightest opposition to the Communist dictatorship brings prosecution and certain punishment. Russia has no government save the Communist party, in which about one person out of every 100 has membership. This clique dominates every phase of life, having set out to abolish the home, family life, religion, individual and property rights, and virtually all other institutions and ideals that civilization has produced. When hunger is superimposed upon these outrages violent outbursts may be expected.

Stalin is the most severe taskmaster that Russia has had. Until recently he held no important position in the dummy government, but was secretary of the Communist party. Nevertheless, he has an iron grip on Russia. He has exiled his more powerful rivals and humiliated the less formidable ones. All opposition has been ruthlessly crushed. Stalin construes opposition to himself as counter-revolution, for which the penalty is execution. If he escapes death by violent means he will be the most fortunate despot that ever exploited a major revolution.

Numerous plots to overthrow the Soviet regime have been detected in recent months. They are given publicity by the Moscow government only when they can be turned into advantageous propaganda. An example was the arrest a fortnight ago of eight Russians who are charged with conspiring with the British, French and Polish governments to overthrow the Soviet regime. Absurd charges are conjured up to draw attention from the real status of affairs in Russia. The dictatorship does face a crisis, but not from any foreign intervention. It comes from the rising tide of resentment of people held in slavery while their wealth is squandered in the crazy attempt to turn the world over to Communist thieves.

WEAPON AGAINST GANGSTERS.

A decision which may well make alien criminals in this country quiver in their boots has been handed down by Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, of the United States District Court in Philadelphia. The court ruled that aliens who are guilty of crimes involving moral turpitude are subject to deportation, no matter how long they have been in this country.

Joseph A. Shladzien was sentenced to deportation in spite of the fact that he has lived in the United States practically all of his life. He has a long criminal record, and has served eight years in prison for robbery and assault with intent to kill. The law imposes upon him a severe penalty. He must go back to Poland even though he will be a total stranger, or, as the defense counsel said, "a man without a country." Shladzien does not even know the language of his native land. All these facts Judge Dickinson took into consideration. Nevertheless, he ruled that the defendant had forfeited his right to the hospitality of America and must get out.

The court decided that the law, providing that deportation proceedings must begin within five years of the offense, does not apply to cases of moral turpitude. Federal authorities, he said, have the right to deport such undesirables at any time.

Deportation is a weapon against crime that is used too seldom. A large share of the criminal element which preys upon society is of foreign birth. Most of the rackets that harass honest business are in the hands of foreign-born gangsters. The Government ought to send them back and let their native lands worry about them. The decision in Philadelphia will strengthen the case of the Government against racketeers, and give Uncle Sam a new weapon against gangdom. It is to be hoped that the Departments of Justice and Labor will take full advantage of it.

RAILROADS FIGHT FOR LIFE.

The Association of Railroad Executives, in its annual meeting held last week, asked that the railroads be given a respite from rate reductions and suspensions by regulating bodies, both intra and interstate, from orders that will increase the expenses of the carriers, and from legislation either national or State, that would adversely affect rates. The tenor of these requests indicates that the railroads are ready to enter a new phase of their relationships with public regulatory bodies. Heretofore, they have submitted to any and all orders, contenting themselves merely with presenting their side of the story to the regulatory or legislative body, but now it appears that they are prepared to fight aggressively against further inroads upon their revenues.

During the meeting it was revealed that freight traffic in the 30 years ended in 1920 increased more than 7 per cent annually, while during the nine years from 1920 to 1929 the average annual increase was less than 1 per cent. At the same time, passenger traffic recorded an almost steady annual gain up to 1920, but between that year and 1929 there was an average annual decrease of about 3 per cent. Average receipts per ton mile decreased 15.6 per cent between 1920 and 1929, resulting in a cumulative loss approaching $6,000,000,000. These are the reasons the railroads find it necessary to fight further inroads on their income.

The railroads have been able to absorb the $6,000,000,000 cumulative loss by improving their efficiency. Operating expenses for each traffic unit were reduced 21.2 per cent between 1920 and 1929. But a point has been reached where there is little hope of increasing operating efficiency to any considerable degree. It is possible that the roads will be able to get a bit more work out of each ton of coal, and to speed up car movements and decrease lay-overs, but major increases in efficiency no longer may be expected. Moreover, railroad unions are clamoring for shorter working hours and increases in pay, while shippers everywhere are working for reduced rates. The new competition embodied in pipe lines, buses, motor trucks, airplanes and automobiles promises to divert more and more traffic from the railroads.

The railroad executives demand further that the Government withdraw from the direct or indirect operation of transportation services. In this demand, they refer to the inland waterways and the Federal barge lines. They ask that competing transportation service on waterways and highways be placed under regulation, demanding that legislative action to this end cover the extension of jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission to port-to-port rates as regards water transportation, as well as the determination of "just and reasonable rates" and the prohibition of "discriminatory and unduly prejudicial" rates. These are controversial questions scheduled for congressional consideration at an early date. If there was any doubt as to the part the railroads would play in the prospective congressional inquiry into transportation, it was resolved by the recommendations of the Association of Railroad Executives.

The Coast Guard captures a cargo of liquor valued at $100,000. The California grape growers should be able to tell the Coast Guard how to get rid of it "legally."

Newark's bull fight has been canceled. Any one having the urge to see an exhibition of this nature will have to come to Washington after December 1.

WHAT OF MASSACHUSETTS?

By A. PUBLICIST.

"What is the matter with Massachusetts?" not politically, although this aspect of the question has given Republican leaders cause for much serious thought; but economically and industrially, what is happening to that ancient and honored Commonwealth?

It was in Massachusetts that many of the Nation's most important industries had their origin. The early settlers of Massachusetts Bay colony sustained life largely by farming, fishing and hunting. Sheep growing was encouraged to supply material for household spinning and weaving. Iron was wrought from "bog ore." Fuel for cooking and heating was obtained from forests and peat bogs. Surplus products were bartered for necessities. Dried codfish was exchanged for English building bricks, cottons and woolens. The small fishing boats grew to sizable vessels and ultimately to the famous clipper ships that carried New England products to the Orient and brought back spices, tea and silks. Fortunes made in overseas trade were invested in cotton and woolen mills, in foundries and machine shops. An industrialized population supplanted the more primitive occupations. The basic iron industry slipped away to Pennsylvania to be near the inexhaustible supplies of coal; agriculture moved westward with the course of empire; the fishing industry expanded with the Nation's growth to embrace first the eastern coast line and then the teeming waters of the Pacific, until today Massachusetts gets its iron from Pennsylvania and Ohio; its "maize" from the corn belt; its wheat and flour from Buffalo and Minneapolis; its dairy products from Wisconsin, the Dakotas and Minnesota; eggs from California, and on Boston tables halibut is served which was caught by vessels owned in Seattle, landed at Prince Rupert and shipped over Canadian railroads to Eastern markets.

Industrialized Massachusetts is in keen competition with an industrialized America, and also, because of its situation on our seaboard, with the industrialized world. Competition with the products of other countries can be tempered by tariff adjustments if wisely made and adequately measured, but there is no such method of adjusting the competition from products of the other States of the Union in the great free trade market of the United States.

That the industries of Massachusetts are being tested to the utmost in the crucible of domestic competition is illustrated in the plight of its cotton mills. Not long ago Massachusetts stood unrivaled in the field of cotton manufactures. It still leads in the number of spindles installed, 7,795,000; but it is closely pressed by North Carolina with 6,240,000, and by South Carolina with 5,676,000. In fact, the South now has an impressive lead in the number of spindles as compared with New England, the cradle of our cotton manufacturing industry. In the cotton growing States there are now 19,143,678 spindles and in all of the New England States only 13,406,148.

But what tells the real story of conditions in the cotton industry and makes clear, at least in part, what is the matter with Massachusetts, is not the number of spindles installed, but the number in operation. In October the cotton growing States, out of slightly over 19,000,000 spindles had over 17,000,000 in operation; while in the New England States, with nearly 13,500,000 spindles, only about 8,000,000 were active. Active spindle hours for the month of October was over twice as great in the Southern mills as the active spindle hours in New England, although the proportion of Southern spindles is 19.1 compared with 13.4 in New England. The average active spindle hours in the cotton growing States was 235 per spindle in place, compared with 115 active spindle hours in New England. Massachusetts, with nearly 8,000,000 spindles had, in October, 105 active spindle hours per spindle; South Carolina, with 5,676,000 spindles, over 2,100,000 fewer than Massachusetts, had 259 active spindle hours per spindle.

These facts illustrate the problem confronting the industrial leaders of Massachusetts and of New England. They have more than a local significance. They have a national import. New England is a great market for raw materials, and for the products of our mines and farms. Continued depression in New England will be felt on the cattle and sheep ranges of the far West, the coal, copper, iron and other mines, and on the farms of the Northwest and of the corn belt. This is no time for the incoming Congress to be actuated by old grudges or to "put the screw" on New England or its industries. The problem calls for national vision and enlightened statesmanship.

JUST FOLKS

CRUCIFIXION.

They cried Him down who begged of them to die
More in this life than power and pomp and fame.
As they were born, so to this earth He came,
As they were, so they felt He ought to be;
Thus when He spoke of greater majesty
Than Caesar's, anger burst in flame.
In hate they made a mockery of His name,
Taking His life to set Barabbas free.
Who scorns the joys the many cherish most;
Who dares to thrust the pomp of power aside,
To walk with fishermen along the coast,
Talking of souls the ragged garments hide;
Who cries that life has more than gold to boast
Will understand why Him they crucified.

Speech Is a Safety Valve to Relieve the Pressure of a Grievance.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MUCH that is called psychology is nothing more than the common sense that was the chief glory of our fathers.

The English are credited with rare acumen because they permit the man with a grievance to talk it to death in a public park, but the American Indian knew that an enemy persuaded to talk would exhaust his anger before he finished.

The psychiatrist, newest of practitioners, persuades his patient to tell the sad story of her life in the name of psychoanalysis; but the old family physician possessed equal wisdom if a less impressive vocabulary, and earned the greater part of his fee by listening to a description of symptoms and woes that his patient dared reveal to nobody else.

The truth that speech reduces the pressure of emotion is not a recent discovery. And a fast-moving, cynical generation, scornful of the many things it hasn't time to understand, impressed by nothing except superlatives, statistics, new trinkets and the catch-words of pseudo-science, probably uses psychology in practical ways much less than its predecessors did. Much is written and spoken concerning the damage done by inhibitions—meaning, as a rule, the self-restraints that result from early instruction in morality—but few laymen seem to realize that the "inhibition" responsible for the greatest damage to the nerves is the form of self-control that suffers in silence.

The world is full of people, old and young, who nurse grievances in silence because of fear, or pride in good manners, or a morbid delight in martyrdom, and every one of them is enduring a nerve strain that will in some degree permanently affect the mind.

This doesn't mean that every person who is offended or thwarted in any way should immediately throw back his head and howl. If every slight grievance should become vocal, earth would be a bedlam. Unrestrained protest is infantile. The same adult in a world of give and take adjusts himself to the inevitable and accepts without whining the thing that can't be helped.

But it is a great folly to endure in silence the injustice or unpleasantness that speech could correct, for silent suffering invariably is resentful suffering and resentment nursed in silence makes patients for sanitariums.

It isn't too much to say that 50 per cent of the "nervous cases" are grievance cases.

"Nerves" are the price you pay for loving a grievance so much you won't talk it to death.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Favor Public Debt Reduction.
(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

It so happens that $335,000,000 of the sinking fund appropriation for this year remains unexpended, whereas this time last year less than $160,000,000 was left in the Treasury. This $335,000,000 looks like a handy piece of change to use in wiping out a deficit, and the quetsion is sure to arise in Congress whether it should be used in this way.

This proposition is so unsound financially as to be almost unthinkable. It would mean that public debt reduction for this year would be cut down to negligible proportions. During the last ten years the debt has been reduced by an annual average of a round billion dollars—a record unexampled in history. The most that can be hoped for this year is about $636,000,000. This might be reduced to $575,000,000 by war debt suspensions—though these are not expected this year. Nonapplication of war debt interest would reduce the figure to that of the sinking fund appropriation, $400,000,000. It is hardly believable that Congress would be so recklessly unwise as to cut into this amount.

This From Democracy!
(Atlanta Constitution.)

An extra session of Congress would be an extra cause for business uncertainty. Why aggravate that pernicious anemia?

Compliments of Jim Beck.
(Topeka Capital.)

The wets seem in more danger than other groups of a common danger of all, of defeat by their fool friends. One such is Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, with his proposal that since the Constitution is not self-enforcing, all Congress has to do is to repeal the Volstead act. He professes to be quite a constitutional lawyer and maintains that this would not be nullificaton, which sounds like a lawyer's legalistic talk. Whether nullification or not, it is repudiation of the Constitution itself. The Beck stripe of constitutional lawyers make the ordinary lay public tired.

Something Wrong With the Breath.
(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

In one breath we are told America has become a nation of hard liquor drinkers since prohibition and in the next that 2.75 per cent beer would clear up the situation. Something's wrong somewhere.

And the Next President, Too.
(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

The reapportionment does not become effective until 1933, after the 1932 election. So it will first affect the Congress which meets in regular session in December, 1933. But if Congress had not been so dilatory States like California would now be possessing their proper representation and all would have been able to cast the number of electoral votes justified by their population when the Nation last chose a President.

Fess Breaks China.
(Chicago Tribune.)

Senator Simeon Fess, of Yellow Springs, Ohio, who succeeded Claudius Huston, of Tennessee, as chairman of the Republican national committee when the Tennessean seemed to be lacking in several points of grace, is now said to be considering the propriety of his own resignation. Mr. Fess took hold to carry the Republican tickets through the election when it was thought that Mr. Huston might not have the requisite moral heft. A contemplation of the result reveals that what the good Mr. Fess brought home was chiefly broken dishes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

President Hoover's Speech on Children Praised for Its Wholesomeness and Fine Literary Quality.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I cannot resist the temptation to commend President Hoover's recent address starting the White House conference on child health and protection.

If I were manager of his literary bureau—that is, if he happened to have one—I would have a copy of that address sent to every family in the United States. It would make him a beloved friend of the fathers and mothers of the land. His sympathetic treatment of the great truth that the continued integrity of the country's citizenship depends on the physical and moral safeguarding of the young child thus distributed would do incalculable good.

"They are the most wholesome part of the race, the sweetest, for they are fresher from the hands of God," he says of the children. And as the conclusion of a short prose poem he touches on a thought that has an appeal for all right-hearted people:

"Whimsical, ingenious, mischievous, we live a life of apprehension as to what their opinion may be of us; a life of defense against their terrifying energy; we put them to bed with a sense of relief and a lingering of devotion.

"We envy them the freshness of adventure and discovery of life; we mourn over the disappointments they will meet."

Not only in its substance but in its literary quality what the President says is superb. Indeed, he bids fair to take his place in literature as a master of English. OBSERVER.

McMillan Park Drive a Menace to Traffic—Should Be Widened and Made Straight.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by today's paper that the District Commissioners have approved a recommendation by Director Harland that First street from New York avenue to Michigan avenue at the entrance to Soldiers' Home be made a boulevard. This is to accommodate the rapidly increasing volume of traffic on First street.

Michigan avenue east of North Capitol street has been recently widened and put in fine condition and is an important outlet in the direction of Baltimore. Its extension west of North Capitol street skirts the southern boundary of Soldiers' Home grounds under the name according to the street signs, of "McMillan Park Drive."

This drive must have been originally designed for the days of horse-drawn vehicles, winding like a gigantic anaconda in seven or eight deep curves for something less than half a mile on the north side of the park reservoir and grounds. It is not very wide, is much traveled, and a bus line is routed through it, so that its danger, not to mention its inconvenience to the motoring public, is very great. Several cars already have been dumped down its south embankment.

This inadequate section of a necessary route out of and into the District should be listed for widening as well as straightening, especially as the increasing traffic of First street will cause a lot of trouble in the neighborhood of the Soldiers' Home entrance. ERNEST BARNES.

Reader Does Not Agree That Unpreparedness Resulting in Loss of Life and Money Is a Panacea for Peace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Lately the question of national preparedness has been much discussed in press and pulpit, and we have all listened to many nostrums put forth as specifics for peace. To my mind, one of the lamest is nonpreparation. Does any basic thinking man believe that, had we been prepared when the World War was raging, Germany would have provoked us into that conflict? The hand writing of defeat for Germany was too plain. What a penalty we pad in life and money for having listened to surface dreamers! Is it possble that we are now proceeding toward another vortex of this nature?

Granting that we are hoping, working and praying for peace and good will among men, does it not behoove us to hear and follow the living voice of Washington whose soul was tried because of a lack of this same preparedness? I know the pacifists are fond of citing the Canadian border without forts, but this is an example of two English-speaking people with the same ideals, not a very apt citation. Why not mention Mexico, and Spain in Cuba? The point to be brought out is that adequate preparedness in time of peace is superior to and more righteous than inadequate bungling done in haste and excitement. E. N. SIMMS.

Takoma Park.

Give People Good Bread and They Will Solve the Wheat Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In 1880 the consumption of wheat flour per capita, expressed in barrels of flour of 196 pounds, was 1,142, and in 1925 was .902 barrels. This is equivalent to a diminution of 78.98 per cent, equal to a reduction in consumption, from normal, to 21.02 per cent.

Federal grain statistics advise, on the basis of the census report of 1925, an annual reduction from normal in the consumption of wheat amounting to 134,860,000 bushels.

The dislike against the mutilated present-day bread has become most pronounced in the now closed census period of 1930. Therefore we can expect the census report of 1930 to show a reduction in the consumption of bread, as wheat, of 140,000,000 bushels.

On the basis of our average annual exportation of wheat of 212,384,000 bushels, in the form of wheat and flour, the 140,000,000 bushels amount to 66 per cent of our exports. Give the people good, wholesome bread and unbleached, natural flour, and they will again eat bread with delight, and proudly refer to the bread as the "staff of life." Thereby the erroneously referred to overproduction of wheat is eliminated.

DIFFICULTIES BESET RAIL SIX-HOUR PLAN

Legal Hurdles Block Path of Brotherhoods Under Existing Statutes.

LONG BATTLE INDICATED

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A vista of legal intricacies lay open today through the decision of leaders in five major railway brotherhoods to foster proposals for a six-hour working day, with eight-hour pay, for railwaymen.

Laws which resulted from the workers' successful fight, a decade ago, for an eight-hour day make necessary a long series of conferences before the fate of the new plan can be determined.

The preliminary step, taken yesterday, was discussed for nearly two weeks. It was one of many suggested as a means of relieving unemployment.

Another detail will be filled in at Cleveland, December 4, when the officers who met here, joined by a special subcommittee of 35, are to work out plans for a general conference of all interested in the proposal.

Following this, if the new plan is upheld by the conferees, it will be ready for submission to railway executives; should they refuse it, the Federal Mediation Board would be called in.

Lacking action from that body, the brotherhoods would be required to call upon the President to appoint an emergency arbitration board. The final court of appeal would be Congress.

When the eight-hour-day was proposed in 1917, the brotherhoods took the position that it was not subject to arbitration. Railroad officials disagreed.

A strike was ordered; then the Adamson law establishing the new program of hours was passed. The officials called it unconstitutional. Another strike was threatened, but the controversy ended when the Supreme Court upheld the law, 5 to 4.

Presidents of the five brotherhoods—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America—claim a membership of 500,000. They number their unemployed at 110,000.

Hang up all the family stockings

—before the new Britannica comes down the chimney

For it will fill every one of them!

HERE IS an interesting letter which has just come to us, together with an order for the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The subscriber wrote:—

"YOU HAVE DONE a very wonderful thing in providing a hundred gifts in one, for this year's Christmas.

"Usually, each member of my family gets a whole pile of gifts—many of them small, but, all together, costing much more than was expected.

"We start to buy all these presents carefully, with due regard to their total cost; but, in trying to suit each one's personal tastes, we always stretch the pocketbook until it squeaks loudly, and for months afterwards.

"This year, the great new Britannica solves our problem. A woolly lamb and a rattle for the baby, one or two other merry little gifts for each other person (supplemented by those they'll get from others), and the twenty-four great volumes of the new Britannica:—which each of the eight members of the family needs, and which each will accept as a stunning personal gift.

"Also, the mahogany table will add that new Christmas note of furnishing, as our gift to the home itself.

"The Britannica will make this a full and joyous Christmas for all of us. No one, either in or out of the family, will stop to realize that this Christmas has cost far less than last year's."

This letter explains the thousands and thousands of orders we are receiving from families who wish us to ship them the new Britannica "in time for Christmas."

This man, like thousands of others, realizes that the marvelous new Britannica so exactly meets the varying needs of every member of the family that it will be accepted by each as a distinctively personal gift—a gift more important and beautiful than any one person has hoped to get.

And he sees that the low cost of the new Britannica provides the sure and practical way to reduce the high cost of Christmas giving—this year.

By your single act of ordering the Britannica, a great and fascinating gift is provided for everyone in your home, old and young alike.

Also, the puzzling and tiring work of holiday shopping is instantly simplified, and much of the cost of Christmas is turned into a wise and permanent investment.

For the Britannica, unlike most gifts, will not lose its interest, wear out or be discarded.

Instead, its daily value will continue through years and years to come—constantly entertaining and assisting every member of your family. For no one can use up or outgrow the Britannica.

For The Children

Not only does the new Britannica greatly help children in their school studies—it tells them how to do hundreds of enjoyable things. It explains, clearly, and with beautiful illustrations, the wonders of the microscope, and the marvels of nature and science.

Eagerly using the new Britannica, children develop their minds, without tiresome effort. Their nervous strain is lessened, and they have a great, continuous advantage over less fortunate children.

The Advanced Student

Just suppose that someone in your home wishes to become skilled and successful in—Architecture—Law—Mechanical or Electrical or Civil Engineering—Medicine—Physics and Chemistry—Art—Music—Psychology—Economics—Agriculture—Aviation—Astronomy—Religion—Social and Political Science—Commerce—Hydraulics—History—Literature—Manufacture—Advertising and Selling—Radio and Television—Interior Decoration—etc., etc.

In the Britannica these subjects are clearly explained by hundreds of the world's greatest present-day authorities who offer most constructive suggestions to both youthful and advanced students. Such a brilliant staff of thinkers and teachers could not be found in any university in the world.

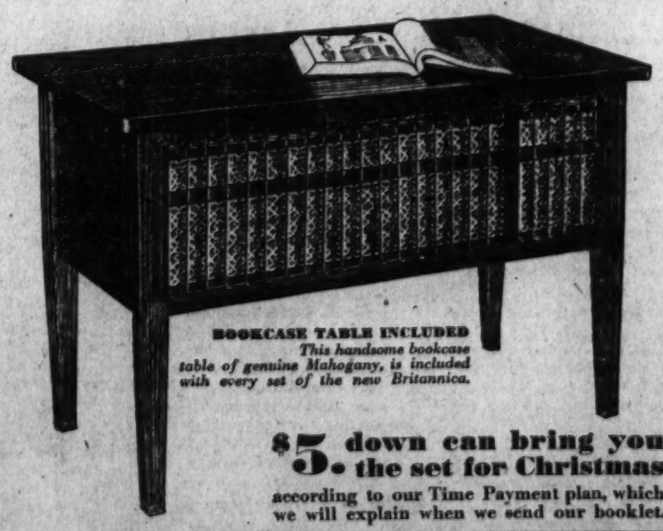

The Father and Mother

To earners and homemakers the Britannica describes modern business methods. How to build and decorate and run a home, and how to bring up children. It puts them in touch with interesting people throughout the world,—and explains all that is happening in it. It teaches contract, budgeting, and better golf—first aid in case of injuries, and how to economize.

It gives the needed answers to the thousands of questions that the news of the day prompts in every active mind. And it helps parents to keep in touch with their children, and guide their minds. And it is the efficient short cut to necessary knowledge, for busy men and women.

The Elderly

For elderly people and "shut-ins" the Britannica pushes back the horizon, instantly. They read of all distant lands and strange peoples. They revel in the art and wisdom and philosophy of the greatest thinkers. It rounds out their lives, keeping them busy and contented, as nothing else could do.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOND BUYING LARGE AID IN DEPRESSION

Purchases Have Supported American Commodity Prices

Level in United States Has Declined Only 28 Per Cent in Last Decade to Great Britain's 58 Per Cent.

By IRVING FISHER,
Professor of Economics, Yale University.

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 23.—Several major remedies for the current business depression, in addition to the emergency measures put in effect by the administration, are now being urged. Prof. James W. Angell, of Columbia University, declares that the world's financial strain might be relieved by revising the interallied debt settlements, with further reconsideration of Germany's reparations obligations. Both Prof. Angell and Thomas W. Lamont, in their recent addresses before the Academy of Political Science in New York, strongly intimated that a reduction in the tariffs of this and other high-duty countries is needed.

Gates W. McGarrah, president of the Bank for International Settlements, makes the cheering report that the original purpose of the bank's activity in connection with German debt payments has become secondary and it is now facilitating the flow of funds from one market to another and aiding the organization of international credit. With the further aid of the Federal reserve system, Mr. Lamont announces that "not only shall we win through, but we are winning through" the present depression.

Stocks Reflect Improvement.

The stock market has already responded to the apparently impending upturn in commodity prices started by the decision of the world-wide conference of copper interests in New York to reduce their output. This, combined with a similar movement to prevent cutthroat competition in the oil, steel and other basic industries has had a wholesome effect in reviving business confidence.

Samuel Untermyer urges that, if these plans in reasonable restraint of trade are contrary to the Sherman antitrust law, Congress should immediately overhaul that law in the public interest. His proposal is that the exploitation of oil, copper and other natural resources be removed from the scope of the antitrust laws and placed under a system of Government-regulated competition and cooperation.

Nearly everybody now agrees that "trust-busting" is both wasteful and futile. In this era the great industries must act concertedly, and prosperity must be planned in advance. Opposition to this well-nigh irresistible tendency has become faint indeed.

Urge Stabilization Plan.

To these major proposals for assuring speedy return of prosperous times, T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada—one of the greatest of fiduciary organizations—adds the suggestion that the Federal Reserve Banks can be of signal service by extending a practice already introduced, namely, that of stabilizing the purchasing power of the dollar by open market operations. Mr. Macaulay says:

"The power of the Federal Reserve to regulate price levels has not been disputed. * * * It has been pointout, however, that during the past twelve months the Federal Reserve Banks have purchased $450,000,000 of Government bonds, raising their holdings from approximately $150,000,000 to $600,000,000, but that these purchases did not prevent commodity price levels from dropping steadily.

"Had these purchases then no effect? Far from it. We must remember that bond purchases can only raise the price level if those purchases are sufficient to increase the total banking resources, and during that period other forms of reserve bank credit were reduced by $1,000,000,000, thus more than neutralizing the effects of the bond purchases.

"The fact that the Federal Reserve did make those heavy purchases, however, should be stressed. Not 1 American in 10,000 even knew that these purchases had been made, and yet in making them the Federal Reserve authorities again rendered a service of enormous value. What would be our position today if the Federal Reserve had kept out of the bond market? Available banking resources would have shrunk still further, the commodity price level would have dropped still lower and the present depression would have been much more serious."

Need Wider Price Basis.

Referring to the requirement of suitable indexes as a basis on which to stabilize the currency, Mr. Macaulay states his belief that a wider basis for commodity prices than is found in the usual European price index is desirable. He adds:

"Had the dollar been stabilized on this (wider) basis at the price level of, say, 1927, the stock exchange boom of the following years would at least have been discouraged and almost certainly would not have attained as extreme proportions, so that the present reaction probably would have been on a much less serious scale from the beginning."

The accompanying chart, which shows the fall in the British commodity price level to be 58 per cent since its high of January, 1921, as compared with only 28 per cent drop in the American level during the same period, gives point to Mr. Macaulay's contentions.

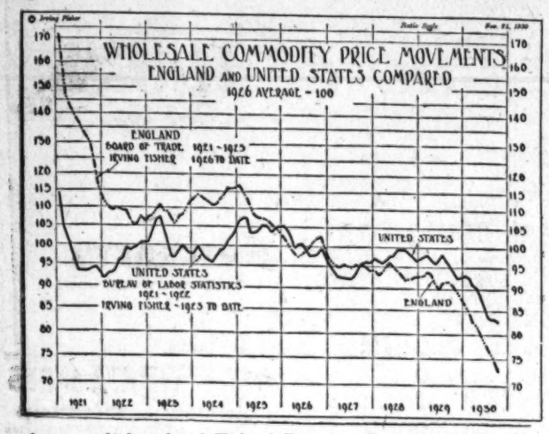

England pursued a disastrous policy in contracting its paper currency to the extent required to regain the old nominal gold par. Her deflation, depression, and unemployment have in consequence exceeded those of the United States, where the Federal Reserve has kept the price level within narrower limits.

It is true, as he points out, that money can now be had abundantly only for call loans and on short-time paper, while money for bond purchases is short.

If the bond market can be further stimulated, so that industry can again become well financed by means of long-term issues, there is no question that corporations will be encouraged to borrow for construction work of many kinds, that unemployment will be reduced, and that the purchasing power of the world will be increased through this added means of financing the requiremnets of outside countries.

It is reassuring that the ablest financial and legal brains of the Nation have united on considering the major measures that should be put in effect in order to regain our interrupted prosperity, and to keep it.

(Copyright, 1930.)

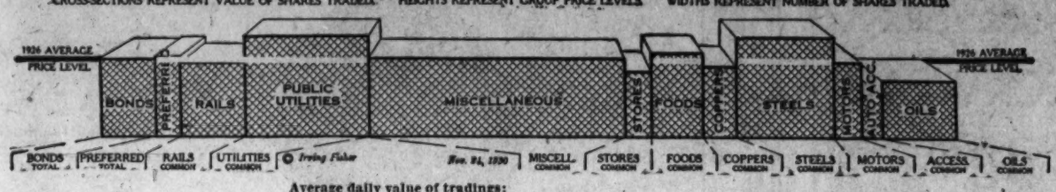

As a result largely of Federal Reserve efforts to stabilize the American commodity price level, it declined by only 28 per cent during the last decade, as compared with 58 per cent fall in the British price level.

NEW YORK MARKET CONTINUES TO RISE

Level in Most Class Gains Throughout Week; Oils, Coppers Vulnerable.

LONDON INDEX DROPS

By E. W. DIEFENDORF.
(Irving Fisher Service.)

The all-industrials index of common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange reached the level of 106.4 (1926 equals 100) in last week's advance, closing the week high, and showing a net gain over the week of 3 per cent.

The steady advance was temporarily broken during the technical reaction on Monday, when the index dropped by nearly 3 per cent. This slump was short-lived, and on Tuesday price levels resumed the advance which lasted to the week's close, when the all-industrials index showed a gain of 9 per cent over the November 10 low of 97.2.

The net gains at last week's close over the preceding week's close were not so sharp as the corresponding gains of the preceding bracket of week-end closings, due to the setback on Monday and the out-of-line movement of several groups in the latter half of last week. The auto accessories group was outstanding, showing a net gain last week by 13 per cent; Electric Auto-Lite, Eaton Axle, Murray Corporation, Stewart Warner, Goodyear Tire and U. S. Rubber were largely responsible for the advance.

Radio, Movies Up.

The radio and theaters group closed last week up by 14 per cent, with Fox Film "A," Loew's, Warner Bros. Pictures and Paramount Publix leading in the rises.

Household products closed the week up by 7.4 per cent; farm machinery by 5.9 per cent; motors and stores by 4.9 per cent; electrical equipment, building supplies, chemicals, foods, machinery and steels, by 4 per cent; office equipment by 3 per cent, and tobaccos, miscellaneous stocks, utilities and rails by less than 2 per cent.

Vulnerable spots in last week's market were found in copper and oil stocks. The copper index closed last week with a loss of 3.6 per cent from the preceding week's close; Calumet and Arizona, Anaconda, Kennecott and American Metal were largely responsible for this break. Vanadium made substantial gains. The oils group closed the week steady with a loss of less than 0.5 per cent; the weakest oil stock was Pan-American Petroleum B. There was little in last week's record of price advances to contradict those who say that the bottom of the bear market has been passed.

All-Stocks Values Traded Off.

The values of daily trading in all-stocks on the New York Stock Exchange dropped by 37 per cent last week, from $167,800,000 for the week ended November 14, to $105,000,000. This sharp drop follows a sharper rise of 71 per cent for the preceding week. The values of tradings in common industrial stocks dropped by 34 per cent following a rise of 66 per cent for the preceding week.

The auto accessories and farm machinery groups alone showed gains in values traded last week. The largest drop in tradings was in the utilities group, with the average daily values of trading off by $12,600,000. The miscellaneous, steels, rails, chemicals, foods and oils group were off by from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 each last week.

Foreign Levels Irregular.

Variations in public confidence and lack of trading on foreign stock exchanges caused the stock price levels to show irregular movements last week.

The London index dropped by 1.16 per cent, continuing the downward trend that began in the preceding week. Price changes were small and trading dull.

The situation differs in Paris, where the price index has shown signs of strengthening following the low of 95.6 in the week ended November 7. In the last two weeks the price level on the bourse has risen by 2.82 per cent, with a gain of 1.57 per cent shown in the week ended November 14, and a gain of 1.24 per cent last week.

Berlin stocks show the greatest weakness, dropping by 1.99 per cent last week, to equal the year's low of 64.1 previously reached in the week ended October 10. In the last four weeks the stock price level in Berlin has declined at a steady rate, showing no indication of a let-up in the current slump and continuing unloading impairs public confidence.

Speculatives Make Sharp Gains.

The third grade industrial group, including the most speculative stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, continued to hold first place in the recent advance in stock price levels. The index for this group at last week's close showed a net gain of 7.7 per cent, with a total gain of 15 per cent from the low of November 12.

Second grade industrials, representing the bulk of the market, closed last week at 82.2, the high since November 10. This group showed a net gain of 3 per cent last week and a total gain of 10 per cent over the month's low.

The first or investment grade of stocks showed more resistance to rising price levels, advancing more cautiously, with a gain over the week of 2.6 per cent and a total gain over the November 10 low of 9 per cent.

Each of the three graded industrial groups closed last week at the high since the month's low, with the first and second grade industrial groups off by 8 per cent from their October 28 highs, and the third grade industrial group off by 5 per cent from its October 27 high.

Use of Bank Checks Good Habit.

The habit of using checks rather than money affects the velocity of circulation of money, because a depositor's surplus money will immediately be put in the bank in return for a right to draw by check. Banks thus offer an outlet for any surplus money-pocket money, and tend to prevent the existence of idle hoards.

Cotton Consumption Shows Slump for Year

London, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The world's cotton consumption for the year ended July 31 was 26,269,000 bales, in comparison to 25,882,000 bales in the previous year, states the report of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Associations.

The consumption included 13,023,000 bales in the United States, a decrease of 2,053,000. The total stocks in the mills on July 31 were 4,498,000 bales, against 4,833,000 in 1929. Of the total stock on hand, 1,985,000 were American, against 2,129,000 in 1929.

BOND PRICES RISE, THEN STEADY DOWN

UTILITIES HOLDING WELL

Bond price levels stiffened to resist further decline following the low of 100.4 on November 13. The rally was sharp and continued through the first three sessions of last week. The trend was steady to the week's close, with a gain by 0.22 per cent over the preceding week's close.

Of the 70 bonds in the Irving Fisher selection, 46 per cent closed last week with gains over the preceding week's close; 31 per cent were off, nad 23 per cent steady.

Exchange Trading Drops.

Trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange dropped by 16 per cent last week as the decline in the price level was brought to an end.

The movement of the groups, with one exception, corresponded closely to the trend of all bonds, showing gains over the week by 0.2 and 0.3 per cent. Foreign government, first grade rails and industrial bonds made the sharpest advance of 0.3 per cent each. Foreign government bonds showed conspicuous strength in the advance from the year's low of November 13, closing last week up by 0.45 per cent from that low. First grade rails and industrial bonds closed the week slightly up from the week's average, thus putting a convincing touch to the week's upward trend.

United States Bonds Improve.

Public utilities are holding ground well as a high level. United States Government bonds showed improvement even over previously steadied high levels, reaching a new 1930 high of 101.79 on November 18.

Second grade rails alone failed to pick up, having shown continued weakness through Thursday, November 20, when the year's low was made at 97.13. In the closing session the bonds in this group rallied, closing the week up by 0.58 per cent from the previous day's level and showing a net loss of only 0.15 per cent over the week.

COMMODITY PRICES IN GENERAL DECLINE

Only One Exception Noted and That Was in the Textile Group.

DOLLAR AT NEW HIGH

The group indexes moved in line with the all-commodities index in the decline of commodity price levels last week. The one exception was the textiles group, which made no change, and the miscellaneous group, which rose by 0.15 per cent.

Eight groups dropped to new lows, while a ninth; namely, textiles, remains at the year's low. Of the groups that held above their record lows, semimanufactured goods held by a margin of 0.40 per cent, fuel and lighting by 3.39 per cent, metal products by 1.24 per cent, chemicals by 0.81 per cent, miscellaneous products by 8.81 per cent and the purchasing power of farm products by 0.20 per cent.

Raw materials were the chief offenders in last week's market, dragging the farm products, foods, hides and leathers and fuel and lighting groups with it. The raw materials index was off by 2.98 per cent last week, following a sharp gain of 1.47 per cent the preceding week. Coal, coffee, corn, hides, petroleum, beef, hogs, lambs and potatoes were largely responsible for the break in this and the above-mentioned groups. Semimanufactured goods, off by 1.06 per cent and finished goods off by 0.95 per cent, showed the most marked resistance.

Level Breaks to New Low.

Wholesale commodity prices broke through the resistance to further decline last week, as the Irving Fisher index of 120 wholesale commodities dropped by 1.7 per cent to a new low of 80.8 (1926 average equals 100). This was the sharpest break in several months, as 79 per cent of the commodities showing price changes dropped last week, compared with 64 per cent the preceding week, when the index remained steady at 82.2.

The commodity situation presents a less optimistic outlook, since prices show increasing weakness after a period of two months of comparative steadiness. Since October 11 when the commodity index rose by 0.73 per cent to 82.9, no one week has seen the index record a rise, although the level was steady the weeks of October 25 and November 15.

The purchasing power of the wholesale dollar rose by 1.81 per cent last week to 123.8, the year's high. Thus the wholesale dollar is worth 23.8 cents more than it was in the base year of 1926.

Foreign Price Levels Off.

The sharpest drop in foreign wholesale commodity prices was found in German markets last week. The German index was off by 0.33 per cent to 91.2.

Wholesale commodity price levels in England continued to show weakness, as the index last week was off by 0.14 per cent. Following the year's low of 72.2 in the week ended October 18, the English index took sharp rises in the following two weeks, reaching 72.7 on November 1. Since this date the price level has dropped by 0.14 per cent for three successive weeks.

The price level in France is showing definite signs of stabilizing. The index was steady last week at the preceding week's level of 77.7 and 0.13 per cent above the recent low of 77.6 of the week ended October 25.

November 22	80.8	123.8
November 15	82.8	121.6
November 8	82.2	121.7
November 1	82.4	121.3
Year ago	92.2	108.4

Business Confidence Soul of Trade.

Confidence, not only in banks in particular, but in business dealings in general, is truly said to be "the soul of trade." In South America there are many places waiting to be developed simply because capitalists do not feel any security in contracts there. They are fearful that by hook or by crook the fruit of any investment they may make will be taken from them.

Why World Price Levels Differ.

If all countries had their own irredeemable paper money and no money that was acceptable elsewhere, world price levels would have no intimate connection. Indeed, the connection is actually slight as between countries which have different metallic standards, for example, between a gold-basis and a silver-basis country.

Do Assets Earn?
INVESTORS have emphasized assets, but assets without earnings are of no value. Such assets are like a costly building without tenants. Assets are of value only as they represent facilities to produce earnings.
Because of its steady earnings, the public utility industry offers a more stable and secure field for long time investment than practically any other major business.

Gale in California Ruins Citrus Crop

Calm Reigns Over Southern Part of State After Destructive Storm.

Los Angeles, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A warm sun beamed over a comparatively calm Southern California today in contrast to the dust-laden, destructive gale of yesterday which killed six persons, ruined thousands of dollars worth of citrus fruit and wrought unestimated damage to property in four counties.

State and county officials were making a survey of the damage today but said reports would not be finished until tomorrow.

The outlying districts, particularly the citrus lands, suffered probably the most as far as monetary damage was concerned. Nearly mature oranges, lemons and avocados, torn from the trees by a gale which at times reached an 85-mile velocity, covered the ground. Hundreds of trees were uprooted by the onslaught of the wind. In the cities billboards, trees, signs, awnings and structures built of flimsy material, lay where they had fallen while along the beaches small craft were strewn, torn from their moorings and hurled on the dry sand.

Six-Hour Day Adopted By Food Manufacturer

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The W. K. Kellogg Co., manufacturers of breakfast cereals, announced today adoption of the six-hour day with an increase in hourly rate for employes.

The company has been operating several years with three eight-hour shifts and will change to four six-hour shifts. The change will make possible employment of 25 per cent additional men, it was announced. The hourly wage will be increased 12½ per cent, making the minimum wage 94 per day and the average $6.40.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Awards of new municipal bond issues scheduled for this week amount to $13,151,036, compared with offerings of $48,696,442 in that group last week, the Bond Buyer reports. Issues above $1,000,000 include Bergen County, N. J., $1,608,000; Springfield, Mass., $1,500,000; Halifax, N. S., $1,354,050; Rye, N. Y., $1,350,000; Asbury Park, N. J., $1,000,000. All to be awarded Tuesday.

The Guaranty Survey, in its monthly review of business conditions, says there is an increased feeling in business circles that the country is at or near the "bottom" of the economic depression and that some progress may be expected to appear at any time. "While not much can be cited by way of concrete evidence to support this view," the Review says, "the very fact of reviving confidence is a factor of no small influence, which may prove to mark the turn."

The board of directors of Associated Telephone Utilities Co. has extended the time for exercise of common stock purchase warrants, entitling the holder to purchase common stock until December 31, next, have been extended until December 31, 1931. The series "B" warrants, entitling the holder to purchase common stock until December 31, 1931, have been extended until December 31, 1932. The board of directors plans later to submit to stockholders a proposal for an amendment to the charter extending the period during which conversion privileges of the stock may be exercised.

Stanley Co. of America, over 99 per cent of the capital stock of which is owned by Warner Brothers Pictures, reported for the year ended August 30, net profit of $1,366,992. In addition there was an intercompany profit of $5,926,138 arising from the sale by Stanley Co. of its holdings in First National Pictures, Inc., common stock to Warner Brothers Pictures.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Miss Hammond Giving Exhibit Of Art Works

Display Being Arranged for Next Week in New York.

MISS NATALIE HAMMOND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, it appears, is making rapid strides in the art world in New York, where she has been living for a year or more. Washington gets only occasional glimpses of Miss Hammond these days, but society here is none the less interested in her artistic achievements.

An exhibition of paintings, water colors and drawings by this youthful artist will be held at the International Art Center of Roerich Museum, in New York, beginning next Monday.

The collection, consisting of 70 canvases, includes some of Miss Hammond's most representative works, among which are "Mary the Madonna and Mary the Magdalene," "Evolution of Suit Gothic" and "Head of a Prophet." The exhibition will continue until December 15. Washington is somewhat familiar with Miss Hammond's work. Only a year or more ago a fascinating collection of her canvases was exhibited here.

Miss Hammond has not only attained an enviable position as an artist in this country, but in Europe as well. In 1927 she was the youngest exhibiting artist of the Royal Miniature Society in London, and after second exhibition there the following year she won the much coveted title of associate of that society. In Paris her exhibition also met with outstanding success, her work having been acquired by the French government.

In addition, Miss Hammond was commissioned by Mme. Alla Nazimova to design sets and costumes for her one-act play, "India," presented a year or more ago.

Passionately interested in her work, Miss Hammond has given up most of the social activities usually indulged in by only daughters of wealthy parents. During her debutante days in Washington, she naturally took part in the entertaining and gayety, and the Hammond mansion on Kalorama road was the scene of many elaborate and unusual parties. However, in recent years she has devoted her time almost exclusively to her work. And lo!—success.

Mrs. Gann Heads Line At Tea for Mrs. Doherty.

Mrs. Edward E. Gann, sister of the Vice President, headed the receiving line at the tea given yesterday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Harley P. Wilson at their home, Hollin Hall, near Alexandria. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Henry L. Doherty.

Mrs. James J. Davis and Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy, who, with Mr. Christy, is visiting the Wilsons, also received.

Assisting Mrs. Wilson were: Mrs. Charles P. George, daughter of the Vice President; Mrs. Britten, wife of Representative Fred A. Britten; Mrs. Brice Clagett, Mrs. William D. Connor, Mrs. James F. Mitchell, Mrs. Orme Preston, Mrs. Karl D. Klemm and Mrs. E. E. Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will leave Sunday to spend the winter months in California. The former is recuperating from a recent illness.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will entertain at dinner on Wednesday evening at the embassy in honor of Sir Charles and Lady Addis, who will be their guests for a few days.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, will go to New York Wednesday to stay for a few days. Since his return from Poland in October, the ambassador has been in Mexico City, where he is accredited as minister. He is expected to return to Washington on Staurday. Mme. Filipowicz will join him here later in the season.

The Minister of Siam, Prince Amoradat Kridakara, went to New York yesterday. He will be at the Barclay for several days.

Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, wife of former Senator Bruce, of Maryland, will entertain at luncheon December 12 at her country home near Ruxton for Miss Sally Fairfax Harrison. Miss Harrison will share honors with Miss Sally Kinsolving, who is making her debut in Baltimore this season. Miss Harrison will make her bow to Baltimore and Washington society.

Perry Belmonts Decide To Prolong Stay in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, who had planned to sail on the Majestic for this country last week, will remain in Paris for the first part of the winter.

Mrs. Eugene E. Collister will entertain at luncheon today for Mrs. Clark wife of Rear Admiral Frank Hodges Clark.

In the company invited to meet her will be Mme. Emanuel Dimitliu, Dr. Mary A. Moore, Mrs. William H. Moses, Mrs. Eugene Peters, Mrs. Daniel C. Chace, Mrs. Phillip Lauman, Mrs. Carl Pinckney Clark and Miss Gwendolyn Harrold, of Tennessee, niece of Mrs.

British Embassy Mother

Mrs. Michael H. Huxley, wife of the Second Secretary of the British Embassy, is shown above with her two children, Selma and Thomas.

Col. and Mrs. Locke Plan Early Return to Washington.

Col. Morris Ernest Locke, retired, and Mrs. Locke will return to Washington early next month. Late in the winter they expect to join Mrs. Locke's daughter, Miss Mary Preston Gibson, who is making a tour abroad, visiting her aunts, Lady Harrington and Lady McMillan in England, and her cousin, Countess Cornet de Ways Ruart, in Belgium. Mrs. Locke's son, Mr. James McMillan Gibson, is a student at Harvard University.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson passed the week-end in Atlantic City, where they were guests at Haddon Hall.

The Governor of Hawaii, Mrs. Lawrence M. Judd, Mrs. Royal D. Mead, Mrs. Edward Mason and Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles G. Mettler were guests of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William H. Tschappat at dinner on Friday evening at the Army and Navy Club.

Mrs. Henry B. Carpender, of Somerville, N. J., will arrive in Washington today and will take possession of her apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, which she has leased for the winter.

Vagabond Players Offer Mystery Play, "Cock Robin."

The Vagabond Players of Baltimore will present a mystery play entitled "Cock Robin," at the Arts Club tomorrow and Wednesday evening. This is an exchange program between the Arts Club Players of Washington and the Baltimore organization. The performance by the Arts Club Players, "The Man With the Load of Mischief," by Ashley Dukes, which was announced for this week, has been postponed until December 10 and 11, and the mystery play by the Baltimore group will be given this week by way of substitute.

Hoovers Are Dinner Hosts To Adamses

Mrs. L. B. Frothingham, of Massachusetts, Also at White House.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had guests dining with them informally last evening at the White House. Among them were the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams and Mrs. Louis B. Frothingham, widow of Representative Frothingham, of Massachusetts, who is visiting Secretary and Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Frothingham arrived in Washington last week and will be the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Adams until the latter part of this week. Her hostess is giving a series of small parties in her honor. She entertained at luncheon on Friday for Mrs. Frothingham and that afternoon had a few guests in for tea to meet her.

Mrs. George Barnett, who recently returned from Europe, has been entertaining a family house party at Wakefield Manor, her country place in Rappahannock County, Va. She had as her guests for the week-end her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Gordon; her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Suydam, and Mrs. Robert R. Dickey, jr., who has just come from her home in Pau, France, to be the guest of her mother during her sojourn in this country. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon have just returned from a honeymoon in Florida. The latter was before her recent marriage Miss Helen L. Williams, of Baltimore.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. George Murray, the brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Barnett, are living in London, where Lieut. Comdr. Murray is attached to the United States Embassy. Mrs. Murray, formerly Miss Corrine Montague, of Baltimore, was presented this year at one of the courts at Buckingham Palace.

The director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, will be the honor guest of the Women's National Press Club at luncheon Tuesday, December 2, instead of November 25 at the Willard.

There will be no honor guest at the luncheon tomorrow.

A dance will be given by the Virginia State Society following its meeting at the Willard Friday, December 5.

Among the patrons and patronesses listed for the Thanksgiving ball of the Washington Chapter Hadassah at the Mayflower Hotel are Dr. and Mrs. William Ogus, Mr. and Mrs. Milton King, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kanet, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Behrend, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Tashoff, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Weinberg, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bobys, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grossberg, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Shappirio, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Madden, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tarif, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graceman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherby, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hollander. This will be the twelfth annual charity ball of Hadassah and Mrs. David Alpher, the president, will be assisted by a large committee with Mrs. Harry Walsky and Mrs. Samuel Narcisenfeld as chairmen.

Longevity Legion to Dance.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BEHIND the announcement by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation, of the election of W. A. Winterbottom to the office of vice president and general manager of R. C. A. Communications, Inc., lies an interesting story.

Winterbottom, as an operator for the Commercial Cable Co., in New York, gave Sarnoff his first job as messenger boy and later advised him to apply to the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., for a job as wireless operator. A little later, Winterbottom himself joined the Marconi Co. and rose to be traffic manager about the same time that Sarnoff became commercial manager.

Sarnoff is now president of R. C. A. Communications, as well as of the Radio Corporation of America, and in announcing the appointment of Winterbottom he paid high tribute to his ability.

Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn bullfighter, is going to throw some of it, WEAF, December 3.

One worried individual on Saturday, after the morning papers were on the streets, was Kenneth Berkeley, manager of Station WRC, who found himself obliged, because of pressure brought to bear by those in high official circles, to cancel the Navy-Maryland football game that afternoon in order to broadcast the Harvard-Yale contest. The newspapers were left holding the bag, having announced the Navy-Maryland game.

The first music appreciation series by a local station will be inaugurated over WJSV tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m., by Madeline Whitlock, music director of Washington-Lee High School and David Martin, of WJSV.

"YOU might like to know how nearly Josef Hofmann, the pianist, came to disrupting his broadcast beyond hope of explanation," Jack Foster writes in the New York Telegram.

"Hofmann, it seems, at the end of his first group of solos left the studio and wandered aimlessly around the floor. Announcer John S. Young—experience in retrieving missing oboe players and lost saxophonists—finally found and almost dragged him back before the microphone.

"After his second group, Hofmann drifted into an anteroom and indulged in a series of setting up exercises, principally to limber his fingers. And finally Young discovered him peering into the control room of the studio in which Floyd Gibbons was spattering his story. It was with a melancholy sigh that the pianist returned to Chopin."

Regarding the newspaper reporters' strike credited to him years ago in Washington, Merle Thorpe, who came into national fame through making the Nation's Business the leader in its field, says:

"I was only a private in the rear ranks. One E. E. Wheelock did the soap-box stuff. And it wasn't a strike, it was a walkout, with resignations submitted and, I might say, promptly accepted."

Mr. Thorpe will be heard tonight in the third of his series "How's Business?" (WRC—8 p. m.).

TENNESSEE is to have its inning tonight during a celebration of the fourth anniversary of the Station WLAC at Nashville. Gov. Henry Horton will be present, as will the famous Fisk Jubilee Singers.

The party will begin at 11 o'clock over WABC and a coast-to-coast network. WMAL will get aboard at 11::30 p. m.

Introduced by a half-hour's sample over Station WOL Saturday night, the annual minstrel and dance will be given by the Curley Club in Carroll Hall tonight and tomorrow night for the benefit of Archbishop Curley's scholarship fund.

IF THEY keep on electing newspaper men to head it, they will have to call the National Association of Broadcasters the "Newspaper Broadcasters Association." The past president was William S. Hedges, of the Chicago Daily News, and the new president is Walter J. Damm (sounds a trifle profane), of the Milwaukee Journal.

Because it will give an amount, expected to reach $150,000, Philco has received the rights to broadcast the Army-Navy unemployment football games, December 13. Last week the NBC spent $10,000 for rights to broadcast a fight which lasted one minute.

Ruth Nichols Lands At New York on Hop

New York, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., who set out from Cincinnati a week ago tomorrow to establish a new speed record between that city and New York, landed at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon following a 1-hour 180-mile flight from Middleton, Pa. Her trip, instead of being a nonstop affair, turned out to be a four-hop hard-luck journey, but in not one of her landings did she damage her plane.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Nov. 23.

THE illustrous American beauty congress has decided that the minimum expenditure for beauty upkeep is $3 a week, and would like to have women believe that for this price they can barely "skin" through—whereas for a little more, ranging from $2 to $100 a week, a woman can consider that she is giving herself all of the attention she requires.

And who am I, I ask you, to dispute this? The path of least resistance in my game is to agree with the congresses and commissions and whatnots who try to dictate to the mere woman.

But just the same I do dispute it, because I never did like paths of least resistance. And I do say that in these upsetting and uncertain times a woman need not feel as though she just simply hasn't a chance if she hasn't the $3 to spend on her beauty. I don't say not to spend it, mind you—but perhaps spend it on something else.

And I do not say, either, to not take care of yourself—if you have to impose this upon yourself to the tune of $3 or $4 a week, and just simply won't do it any other way, then you better had. But if you have the courage of your loveliness you can take care of it at home with a little study and practice, quite as well as it can be done for you elsewhere.

• • • •

"Now how did those Christmas tree balls all get broken up there in the attic? NO-body touched them—but they're dust, my dear, nothing but dust! And I didn't think I'd have to spend a penny for things this year—." Poor Lovely Lady! The pretty balls are fragile, aren't they? You can fool 'em all this year, though, if you will just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet on making Christmas tree ornaments. I had such fun planning the pretty ornaments—(and so did I, making them, sez Mamzelle softly from behind her mountain of empty egg shells) that I know you'll love to make them, too. And they're inexpensive—and original—interesting—and they won't break!

• • • •

Turquoise is all the mode this winter, and when I saw it strung together on silver links and fastening an adorable little evening bonnet like the one I have illustrated, well, there just wasn't anything but to sketch it for you. There it is up in the corner, and Clever Fingers has decided that she could make it of pearls or brilliants—and what's more, is going to!

• • • •

Utterly lovely is the evening gown I have sketched for you today. Bernard and Cie. made this of silver lame (lah-may) and it would be hard to conceive of a fabric which would better emphasize the stately elegance of its long, flowing lines. Isn't that trickily pleated skirt the most charming thing? And could you ever resist its turquoise velvet flower?

Christmas Gift Suggestions.

They call it "glassine paper," and it comes in colors and is very transparent and crinkly, and it makes delightful Christmas tree ornaments and evan wraps certain Christmas gifts better than other papers.

An adorable Christmas tree for the tree can be made of green glassine paper cut into ragged strips, wrapped every which-way on a piece of wire, pyramiding as a real Christmas tree does, and its little base stuck into an inverted half of an eggshell in lieu of a tub. Paint the eggshell any color that you wish, fasten the wire to the bottom through the shell, and there you are!

Then fruit, nuts and small colorful candies wrapped in this colored paper, tied with gold or silver thread and then tied onto the tree, form both a colorful and an appetizing decoration—which must be hung out of the reach of tiny fingers.

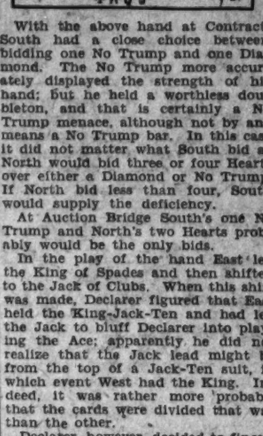

Of course, you'll be interested in Dare's weekly fashion letter. It appears only in Washington, in The Sunday Washington Post.

Au Revoir.

NOT LEADING TRUMPHS WITH ELEVEN

With the above hand at Contract, South had a close choice between bidding one No Trump and one Diamond. The No Trump more accurately displayed the strength of his hand; but he held a worthless doubleton, and that is certainly a No Trump menace, although not by any means a No Trump bar. In this case it did not matter what South bid as North would bid three or four Hearts over either a Diamond or No Trump. If North bid less than four, South would supply the deficiency.

At Auction Bridge South's one No Trump and North's two Hearts probably would be the only bids.

In the play of the hand East led the King of Spades and then shifted to the Jack of Clubs. When this shift was made, Declarer figured that East held the King-Jack-Ten and had led the Jack to bluff Declarer into playing the Ace; apparently he did not realize that the Jack lead might be from the top of a Jack-Ten suit, in which event West had the King. Indeed, it was rather more probable that the cards were divided that way than the other.

Declarer, however, decided to finesse the Queen, figuring that if the finesse lost he would have a chance to finesse over the Ten which East probably held. West's King won and he returned a Spade which won; of course the adversaries won with the Ace of trumps and the Declarer was defeated.

Was it back luck or bad judgment?

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled the PLAYING PROBLEMS. Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

PLAYING PROBLEMS presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

PLAYING PROBLEMS, which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of The Washington Post by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with six cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address: Milton C. Work, care The Washington Post.

THE CORRECT PLAY

Distinctly bad judgment. When the Declarer was called upon to play the first Club from South's hand, he should have played the Ace and then the Ace of Diamonds, dropping North's King, and then the Queen and Jack of Diamonds, giving North two discards. That would give Declarer four tricks and the Hearts would be good for six more. Although the Declarer held eleven trumps, it was essential that the trump lead be postponed until two loses had been discarded.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight.

Fate leaves you to yourself on this date—there are no decided astrological indications. It should be a favorable time for study and reflection. Concentration on work is necessary, if favorable results are desired. Vague fears will upset the evening hours, which will not return with the dawn of another day.

The child born on this November 24 will have a sunny disposition, and a care-free nature. It will be inclined to shirk responsibilities and will be loath to give up its childhood's freedom. It will be loyable and sympathetic, and generous to a fault. It will be outspoken and sincere.

You are neither a saint nor a sinner, but an honest mixture of the two. People love you and confide in you, because you are so human. They always feel that their troubles will be understood, or their weaknesses or mistakes forgiven. Your sincerity, your lack of hypocrisy and your naturalness are the traits which differentiate you from others. You never pose or pretend, and the world sees you for what you really are—rich or poor, successful or unsuccessful, happy or unhappy. Your frankness is sometimes almost shocking, for you have the faculty of seeing through the veneer of others, and of meeting them on their real, not assumed, plane.

Your scholarship may have been poor, but you have sound ideas of life, fine ethics of honor, self reliance, and the grit to endure and carry on, however hazardous the circumstances. You like to achieve things, you like to untangle knotty problems, but you are not materially ambitious and you would run from fame or publicity. You enjoy an active life, and your interests are many and varied.

You have religious inclinations, which may take an unorthodox direction, and a philosophical trend of mind. You have old-fashioned ideas about a home, and to your it is something more than a place to eat and sleep. You are given some musical skill, which you should at least cultivate as a hobby.

Successful people born November 24:

Samuel A. Otis, statesman. Prominent in history of Massachusetts.

David Hayes Agnew, surgeon.

Cass Gilbert, architect.

FRANCES M'DONALD

Confessions.

DEAR Miss McDonald: Just how much of your past life is it necessary to tell your future husband? I am a girl that has always been nice and square with boys, never quarreling, and, to my regret, believing their little white lies. I thought I was in love with a boy once—his gallant love making swept me off my feet. He begged me to marry him and we were secretly engaged (my family never knew it), and he went away and wrote me two and three letters a week. Then he came back and one summer's night I almost let things go too far—because I foolishly believed I would some day be his wife. Well, the affair didn't last long. He never turned out to be much—from one job to another, and "threw" me over quite easily for a girl he had gone with before he knew me—and whom he had told me he didn't care for.

I have sorrowfully realized my mistake, and have felt so ashamed of myself. I was too active a person to brood about it, and went around again with a crowd of nice young boys and girls. I have now met a man who has serious intentions and we both deeply care for each other. He thinks I am wonderful and it would hurt him pretty badly if he knew how cheap I once was. Should I tell him of that sordid incident?

MARIE.

Confessions are the refuge of the weak, when conscience causes discomfort. Seeking relief we shift our discomfort upon the innocent person in whom we confide. We feel better and care not what they may feel.

Learn to bear alone the consequences of your own acts. Learn to turn your back upon the past and concentrate upon the future. Learn that it is a woman's duty to keep her husband's life serene, and that only a brainless woman deliberately fires a man's mind with futile hate for some unknown rival.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Entomology.)

Honey is a sweet, old as the race and always held in esteem. The flavor and aroma vary with the predominating kind of flower which the bees visit, and one can take advantage of this when selecting honey for the table, either to get a favorite flavor or to get variety by choosing different flavors.

Besides its use for table purposes honey is much used in cooking to replace all or part of the sugar called for by a recipe. A general rule in such cases is to use a cup of honey in place of a cup of sugar and to cut down the water or other liquid by one-fourth cup for each cup of honey used to make up for the water in the honey.

The purpose which honey serves in the diet is like that of sugar—it is a source of energy in readily available form and a flavor food which has many uses by itself and which adds to the palatability of other foods.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the name of the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf. It is at present growing under some hollyhocks, and now that the taller plants are over I find this plant quite attractive. E. O. N.

Leaf resembles the leaf of the wild strawberry. It is not one with which I am familiar.

Please tell me what kind of lily the inclosed leaf is from. I have had it for four years and never a bloom. Each fall I remove it from the ground and keep it in the cellar. Is this the proper treatment? MRS. H. P.

Your plant is undoubtedly an amaryllis. It should be potted in a small a pot as possible with the bulb well out of the soil. As a rule, the pot should be only 1 inch larger in diameter than the bulb. Use a heavy soil enriched with bonemeal and cow manure. Keep the pot in a cool, shady place until growth starts. The first sign of growth will be the flower stem. When this shows give the plant but little water until it has attained a growth of 8 inches. When growth starts the plant must be brought into a sunny place. From the time the stem pushes open the soil until after the buds have unfolded the plant should have a little liquid manure each week. As soon as the flowers have passed the leaves will make rapid growth. Gradually withold water when the leaves turn yellow. Let it have but little water during the early winter. Keep it in a cool, dark place, perhaps in the basement. Some soil may be scooped out of the pots each year and replaced with a rich mixture of good loam, bonemeal and cow manure.

I have a row of primroses which form buds each year but never mature. Is there anything you can suggest to help the flowers over that stage of their existence?

MRS. BENJAMIN S. P.

Try giving them liquid manure when you see they are beginning to set their buds; also, keep them well watered. Primroses demand both sun and water in abundance.

Could you let me know what kind of vine this is and the treatment to give it at this time? You will see that it is covered with some sort of disease. NO SIGNATURE.

Your plant is a matrimony vine (lycium). Better spray both plant and surrounding soil at this time with Bordeaux mixture. Spray again before growth starts in the spring.

What is the remedy for a flat, shell-shaped, fungus-like growth appearing six or eight inches up the branches of my lilac bushes? Will this damage the plant?

MRS. GEORGE T.

There is no remedy for this fungus. Would advise the prompt removal of all branches on which it is present.

Please tell me how to care for a lemon verbena while it is in the house. MRS. ELIZABETH P. G.

Keep it in a sunny window and water it every day, also give it fresh air and a weekly spraying with cold, soapy water.

Please tell me why my newly planted honeysuckle failed to bloom this season. ANN M. L.

Failure of plant to bloom might be due to insufficient sunlight or to lack of vigor from impoverished soil. A honeysuckle will not flower to any extent if allowed to grow on the ground, but should be trained on a trellis or arbor.

TREATING MIGRAINE.

DRS. BALYEAT AND BRITTAIN give it as their opinion that the treatment of migraine gives results that are as good as or better than those obtained in nearly any other chronic disorder. Most migrainous people accept their fate as inevitable. They began having sick headaches in their youth. Having tried many treatments, they finally gave up and are now getting along as satisfactorily as they can, awaiting the turn of the half-century mark, after which they expect to find relief gradually. They know their disorder does not threaten life and they have learned to accept the attacks as quietly as possible.

Drs. Balyeat and Brittain think their treatment will halve the number of attacks in nearly all cases and will entirely prevent attacks in a few, and all individuals who fall in either of these groups or any group in between should be satisfied. The central principle of the method they propose is that migraine is a kinsman of asthma, nettle rash and hay fever.

It is caused by some poison and usually some proteid poison to which the migrainous individual is sensitive. Exposure to this poison brings on an attack. The essential part of the cure consists in avoidance of the cause.

The principal substances which act as poisons are foods, though pollens and some other inhaled substances rank well up. On a scale of 100, wheat, which leads all other provocative foods, had a score of 69; fish, of 65, and beans, of 60. The ranks of some other foods were: Milk, 45; nuts, 41; turnips, 38; eggs, 36; cheese, 35; radishes, 31; parsnips, 31; barley, asparagus, lettuce, cabbage, buckwheat, rye and peas, 21. A long list of other foods are occasionally responsible for cases of migraine.

Among the causes which enter the body through the air passages are: Dust from feathers, 61; pollens, 56; dog dandruff, 36; cat dandruff, 31; horse dandruff, 29; cattle dandruff, 20; orris powder, 25; rabbit dandruff, 16; wool dust, 16.

The person under treatment goes on a simple, safe diet and then experiments with different foods to find the cause of his headaches. For instance, he might start with a diet of fruits and meat, avoiding breads, milk and the other more risky foods, and then slowly build up a balanced diet by trial and error. Meanwhile he should get plenty of sleep and rest, should have his eyes tested, his teeth put in order and establish good elimination.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS . . . By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Jean Mellin, a small town girl with big city ideas from Kelsey, Conn., a stenographer, when her office burns, she finds herself jobless. She craves adventure and yearns for the good things of life. A little girl at heart, she wishes Santa Claus would come to see her this Christmas.

Phillip Baldwin, her small town Romeo, hears the wish and promises to appear Christmas day with a marriage license. Rather than take the line of least resistance by marrying Phil, Jean decides to tackle New York and find a job there. Jean plans to live with

Mollie Wilder, a sophisticated friend, who has given Jean glowing reports of gay life in Gotham. Arriving in the city Jean learns that Mollie has just married and left New York. Desperation is added to consternation by the fact that she only has 40 cents in her pocket but the situation is saved by

Sandy Clause, a handsome, polished and enthusiastic young man who protects her from a stranger's advances, has dinner with her, and since he has lost her traveling bag, arranges for Jean to spend the night at the apartment of his friend

Marcia White, a mysterious adventuress, whose anal-hospitality does not blind Jean to the fact that Marcia's apartment is no haven of safety as compared to Kelsey, Conn. Sandy leaves the apartment, but Jean's uneasiness is hastened by the sudden appearance of two sinister men,

Slim Diggers and

Pargeson, the latter of whom is observed by Jean to violently embrace Marcia. Instinctively frightened by fears she feels rather than can define, Jean rushes from the apartment. On her way out she sees Sandy Clause returning, but she does not see her. After spending the rest of the night in the park Jean answers an ad specially placed in the papers by Clause and learns that Pargeson, alias Sampson, was murdered the night before in Marcia's apartment. Clause denies that he returned and says Jean could not have seen him, as she tells him she did.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

That she could have been mistaken about having seen Sandy pass through the lobby when she was running away from Marcia's apartment seemed to Jean impossible. She had seen his face as he turned on the stairs and had thought even then that there would be trouble when he came to the open apartment door and saw Pargeson kissing Marcia.

But murder! She tried to tell herself that it was inconceivable that Sandy could kill a fellow being, for any cause whatever. By sheer will power she forced herself to accept his statement that he had not gone back to the apartment, that she could not have seen him in the lobby.

For several minutes now Sandy had been pacing the floor of his office, talking but little. But presently he sat in the chair before his desk and spoke to her.

"Until the police come looking for us, there's nothing we can do. Neither of us was there, so we can tell them nothing of importance. If Pargeson was Sampson, the gangster, there must have been a good many who had reason to murder him."

He leaned forward and rested his arms on the desk. "In the meantime," he continued, "it can't help to worry, and we've work to do."

"Pardon me," said Jean, "but being a woman, there's something I've got to know. When did you put the ad in the papers?"

He smiled gently. "Last night when I left you in the restaurant, I had to," he added seriously. "You see, I couldn't be sure that you would agree to go to Marcia's apartment, and * * * well, I didn't want to lose you. That is, I didn't want to see you lost in New York when it was evident that you had very little money * * * You had told me, you know, that you had done stenographic work and a little bookkeeping, and I took the chance. But I was afraid then that you'd find another place, and not even answer the ad."

"I applied for another place," Jean admitted. "In the packing room of the Quality Clothiers. But they turned me down with a bang."

"Thank heaven for that. It would have been bad enough to lose you, but to throw your suit case and clothes away and then not be able to replace them would have been worse." He opened a desk drawer and drew from it a folder containing what Jean took to be a legal document. "And now," said Sandy, "we'll get down to business. This folder contains what we call the Miniature Baby Plan. It is to be your first job with the I. P. P. Read it through again and again until you are thoroughly familiar with every detail. Then sometime in the next few days we'll go over it together and lay our lines."

Jean took the folder and glanced at the typewritten pages within it. After a while she looked up, smiling. "Do I have to wait until I read this to know what the Miniature Baby Plan is?"

"Curious!" he charged. And then: "I'll tell you enough about it to satisfy you for the moment," he agreed. "It is the idea of a man who believes that woman's place is in the home, and that the best way to keep her there is to show her the importance and the beauty of motherhood."

"So," said Jean, "he starts a sort of antibirth control campaign. Is that it?"

"Yes," Sandy agreed, "that's about the size of it * * * And how do you think he goes about starting his campaign?"

"By getting out booklets on the aforesaid beauty and importance of motherhood," Jean suggested.

But Sandy shook his head. "No. He has more imagination than that. He thinks that the place to teach motherhood is in the kindergarten. By that I mean, to encourage the instinct in very little girls. Then when they grow up they will just naturally look forward to having children."

"But," Jean objected, "you can't talk motherhood to very little girls."

"You can't talk it, but you can teach it. Did you ever have a doll?"

"Lots of them."

"Then you had lots of early lessons in motherhood."

"Oh, * * *" Jean cried, suddenly enlightened. "Then his idea is * * *"

"There!" Sandy laughed. "You've got it. Having a great deal more money than he can use, his idea is to see that Santa Claus brings a doll to every little girl in New York, whose parents can't afford to buy her one. Only he doesn't call them dolls, but miniature babies. All we have to do is to buy the dolls, find the little girls, and bring them together. Simple, isn't it?"

After a brief silence Jean said: "It sounds rather ridiculous at first, but . . . there may be something to it. Anyway, it will make thousands of little girls happy and that's worth while whether they get the mother complex or not."

"Exactly," Sandy agreed with enthusiasm. "And now——"

Jean's puzzled expression stopped him.

"Perhaps," she said, "you'll tell me to do what I'm told and not ask foolish questions, but . . . but what I don't understand is what sort of business this is. I. P. P. is all over the place, but it doesn't mean anything to me."

Sandy was amused at her perplexity. "Some time I'll tell you the whole story if you'd like to hear it," he promised. "I. P. P. stands for the Institute of Practical Philanthropy. I organized it last year right after leaving college. Our business is to advise and serve those who want to devote some of their wealth to helping those less fortunate than themselves . . . Will that serve for the present?"

Jean nodded, smiling. She understood that their discussion was at an end and rose.

Sandy also got to his feet and came around the desk to stand beside her. "It's agreed," he said, "that until something happens we're to think about the Pargeson affair as little as possible?"

"Yes."

"Then there's just one thing more," he told her, "and then you're free to spend the morning refurnishing your wardrobe." From a billfold he took several crisp bills, rolled them up and, before Jean knew what was happening, had taken her purse and dropped them into it. "Call this anything you please, Miss Melba," he told her; "a loan or an advance of salary. I don't care. To me it is to replace what you lost when I threw your suitcase away."

"It's an advance of salary," Jean said firmly, "and I hope it isn't too much . . . When shall I come back?"

"Drop in for a minute after lunch, will you? After last night I'd like to know you've a decent place to live and enough to eat."

Jean laughed lightly "You're a fine one to be worrying about me," she told him. "You look like you'd been run over by a truck." And then suddenly serious: "Why don't you go home and take a nap, Sandy. You're all in."

He gazed into the depths of her blue eyes searchingly. Then: "It isn't a bad idea. I may do it . . . Jean." It was the first time he had used her first name, and he smiled at his own lapse from the little formality he had persisted in even after she had accepted him as the plain Sandy of their first adventure.

* * * *

Jean's first objective was the nearest restaurant, and when she found it the menu looked decidedly meager. She felt that she could eat everything listed on it and still be hungry. But it was an illusion of the eye not shared by the stomach. A small steak, a variety of vegetables, a piece of pie and a cup of coffee were more than adequate.

Then, because it was the only store in New York she had ever been in, she made her way to Simmons Department Store, on Broadway, and began a tour that was to take her into practically every department in the enormous building. She needed clothes badly, and would get them. But, womanlike, she had first to see and feel and price, and, having almost bought, to walk off to repeat the process in another department.

It was in the dress department that she came up behind a sales girl and asked pleasantly: "Could you show me something in a one-piece woolen dress with a—a . . ."

"Jean! Jean! You darling . . . !"

"Mollie!" Jean cried weakly. "I—I thought you were married . . . and in Missouri!"

"Missouri, your grandpappy. I haven't been off Manhattan. But I'm married, honey, and that's not the half of it. The boy friend went native about eight hours after the ceremony and I left him flat . . . Why didn't you write me you were coming?"

"Gosh!" said Mollie. "If I'd known you were coming yesterday I wouldn't have married the brute. I'm terribly sorry I missed you. Have you got a job yet?"

Jean said she had. "But I haven't found a place to stay," she added. "Could you suggest one?"

"What about your—husband?" Jean asked, confused.

"Don't use the word," said Mollie. "If that shrimp shows up, I'll throw him down the stairs."

* * * *

It was after 2 o'clock when Jean returned to the I. P. P. offices and found Sandy out. But he had left a note for her with Lionel Gilman. She took it to a window, tore open the envelope, and read:

"Dear Jean: Marcia came in shortly after you left. The police had been questioning her for hours and she was in an ugly mood. She insists you were in the apartment when Pargeson was killed, and that in fairness to her you ought to be found and turned over to the police. I don't think she has implicated you as yet. She doesn't know you are employed here, so avoid her if you can.

"Whatever happens, know that I am with you and, if necessary, will prove an alibi for you. I only hope neither of us is drawn into it.

"If you have not already found a comfortable place to live, Lionel will help you. Come in to see me tomorrow afternoon. Your

"SANDY CLAUSE."

* * * *

So Marcia wanted to turn her over to the police—and Sandy would prove an alibi for her if she did. But, Jean wondered, if Sandy had not gone back to the apartment, as he claimed, how could he prove an alibi for her?

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—A tall, gangling youth, 26 years old, has brought to Hollywood a talking picture taken on the icy wastes of Labrador. He is Varick Frissell, who early this year made his fifth trip to the sealing country.

LOUISE HUNTINGTON

When he was in high school Frissell read so much about Newfoundland that he decided to go there. But unlike most boys who talk about faraway places and never see them, Frissell, when he was 17, went to Newfoundland to drive a dog team.

A few years later, a university graduate, he returned with a camera to film a travel picture. That little job netted him a profit of $12,000. Later he made two more trips, one for the Royal Geographic Society.

Seal Hunt.

Frissell wrote a story, the locale of which is entirely in Newfoundland and Labrador, and actual pictures of a seal hunt were necessary to the plot.

In January this year he and his company, which includes Louise Huntington and Charles Starrett, who played the leads, three other players, a director and a crew of technicians, left for St. Johns.

Here the opening sequences of the picture, as yet untitled, were taken. Then Miss Huntington returned and now she is in Hollywood with a talkie contract. So also is Starrett.

Hardships.

Young Varick tells about his adventures matter-of-factly. Unless one inquires, he would not mention the hardships of such a trip, the monotony of six months in a chilly country, nor of the dangers besetting a ship that cruises among the ice floes.

The first boat Frissell and his people took was built of steel, but on its return to St. Johns, with its cargo of seals, a picturesque wooden ship was hired for a second trip. Once on this voyage ice floes began to close in on the ship, threatening to crush it.

Although three miles from land, some of the company were preparing to hoof it across the ice to safety when the ship managed to pull out.

Frissell's project cost $178,000. Nearly 168,000 feet of film was taken, but only 6,400 will be used in the completed film.

Your Name WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Banks" is one of the relatively few names whose original meanings are still indicated by their present forms. It is derived from the Middle English "banke," and its full significance is "he who lives near the mound or embankment." A certain Nicholaus del Bancke is mentioned in a fourteenth century English document.

The family name "Fairbanks" does not seem to be recorded in the earliest English documents. The second element of this name is obviously the Middle English "banke," meaning "mound" or "embankment." The first element may be the Old English "fearr" (a bull), the Old English "fearh" (a boar) or the Old Norse "faer" (a sheep). In all these cases an original place of residence is indicated. The family name "Douglas" is of Scottish origin. Its full significance is "he who lives near the black water."

The family name "Geyer" (also spelled "Geier") is of German origin and means "the vulture." It is one of the many nicknames taken from the names of birds. It was originally given to persons whose features or habits were thought to resemble those of a vulture. However, it will be recalled that in early times the images or pictures of animals were often displayed before houses, as well as before inns and taverns, as a means of identification. Thus, the family name "Geyer" frequently means "he who lives at the sign of the vulture."

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Learning About Work.

In some public schools the child's need to know about the work of the world has been recognized. Courses have been arranged which endeavor to give to children in the upper elementary school grades and in high school definite instruction in this field.

These courses have been very successful in arousing the children's interest, in satisfying their very natural desire to know something of this realm of work in which within only a few years' time they realize they must find a place for themselves.

That growing children need information about the kinds of work there are to do must be clear both from the immediate interest shown in this information when it is offered, and from a consideration of the concrete situations which they will be called upon to face.

Yet perhaps the most important aspect of learning about work is the development of proper attitudes toward it—and this task belongs primarily to the parent.

But parents, especially mothers, are likely to lose sight of the fact that their children can not forever remain children—lovable, tractable dependents to whom one gives everything and gets in return complete, dependent love.

They refuse to look forward only a few years to the time when it will be necessary for these same dear children to think about the kind of work they are to pursue in a complicated and highly specialized world.

The reception given the child's first efforts to help in the work of the home, to do little chores for his parents, or for the neighbors for which he may be paid, his endeavors to find vacation work—is vitally important in creating in him the right sort of ambition.

Have you tried the delicious food served on their modern diners?

NOTHING, perhaps, will add more to the pleasure of your trip to the West than the food you find in the diner.

That's why such emphasis is laid on the preparation and serving of every meal on The Liberty Limited and The Golden Arrow, leaders of the Pennsylvania fleet to Chicago.

The stewards, chefs and waiters on these famous trains have been selected for their skill and experience. And at regular intervals they attend the Pennsylvania dining-car school for further instruction.

Delicious food, swift, rigidly maintained schedules, luxurious up-to-date equipment, courteous service—no wonder these trains are overwhelmingly popular.

Identical in comfort are the Pennsylvania flyers to St. Louis, The American and the "Spirit of St. Louis."

When you plan a trip to the West, think first of the Pennsylvania. Nine trains speed each day to Chicago, six to St. Louis.

VATS ARE POLISHED IN HOPE FOR BEER

RUPPERT, PABST CONFER

New York, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Big copper vats are well polished, pipes, mash tins, collecting trays and fermenting backs are shipshape, and refrigerating plants are being toned up in the breweries of the metropolitan area, a survey today revealed.

Not a single brewer is willing to take a chance on not being ready to start scratch in the race for business, should Congress legalize 3 or 6 or 7 per cent beer.

Following the recent declaration by Fred Pabst, sr., head of the Pabst Milwaukee Brewery, that he was staking $1,000,000 on improvements in his property, on the chance that Congress would soon legalize the old-time fluid, brewers are holding an alert ear to the ground.

Pabst and Ruppert Confer.

It was learned, moreover, that Pabst and Col. Jacob Ruppert, head of the noted brewery on Third avenue here, conferred recently in Chicago on the Volstead situation.

Reached at the French Lick Hotel, in French Lick, Ind., Col. Ruppert declared he believed in the event of a Democratic victory in 1932 the real liquid would return.

"We're keeping our entire plant in the best of condition," Col. Ruppert said. "All Congress would have to do is authorize 3 per cent beer by weight, and there would be jobs for 1,000,000 men, directly and indirectly. The effect of such a move on the employment situation would be enormous."

Machinery Is Prepared.

A glance through the plate glass windows in front of Col. Ruppert's plant confirmed the report that all his machinery would be ready to hop into rapid-fire production at the first report of favorable news. Pipes, pumps and vats were shiny. Col. Ruppert said he wouldn't do anything so rash as to enlarge or re-equip the plant until he was "sure it's coming back."

George F. Trommer, head of the J. F. Trommer Brewery in Brooklyn, revealed his company had spent $200,000 on "improvements" in the last year. Mr. Trommer said the improvements had helped in the manufacture of near beer, for which his company is famous.

Mr. Trommer's $200,000 in improvements, it is understood, will add to the efficiency of his plant in the event of modification, although Mr. Trommer appeared cautious when questioned on the subject.

Most of the brewers, in fact, are adopting a policy of watchful waiting. They are working together through the Brewers Association, headed by Hugh Fox, which publishes a probeer magabine called the Periscope. Yet they are maintaining a policy of discreet silence. While cooperating heartily in their common cause, each is noticing the other's moves.

Past Ruler of Elks Dies at His Ohio Home

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—John G. Price, 59, past grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and former attorney general of Ohio, died at his home here today. Death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage.

Price was launched in his public career by his friend, President William McKinley, who, in 1899, took him from his postman's route in Canton, Ohio, to the Postoffice Department in Washington. He returned to Columbus seven years later to practice law, but later was elected assistant prosecutor of Franklin County. He was elected to the State attorney generalship for two two-year terms starting in 1919.

Long prominent in fraternal circles, he was elected grand exalted ruler of the Elks at the Boston convention in 1924. He also was former grand knight of the Columbus lodge of Knights of Columbus.

Jailed Spanish Flier To Enter Auto Field

Madrid, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Friends of Maj. Ramon Franco, noted Spanish aviator sentenced on Friday to eight months' imprisonment for alleged political activities, said today he planned to resign from the service on his release and become technical director of a Spanish automobile company.

The company is being formed and financed by Barcelona capital since under the present tariff foreign cars are nearly prohibitive for all but the very rich.

Liner's Purser Robbed During Dance on Deck

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—While 250 passengers were dancing on the deck of the liner Cathay two robbers entered the purser's cabin, 20 yards away, knocked the purser unconscious and stole about $1,800 from the safe.

The purser, John Outran, put up a ten-minute struggle with the robbers. He regained consciousness an hour later and reported the holdup. The Cathay is now berthed at the Pyrmont Quay.

Mrs. Foster Bain Is Aviatrix at 51

New York, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mrs. H. Foster Bain, of this city, a grandmother at 51 and a close friend of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, will get her flying license at Newark Airport tomorrow, after three months of flight instruction.

"Why have I taken up flying? Because," she explained today, "I need a hobby of some sort now that my only daughter is grown up and married."

She has traveled in many parts of the world, including a muleback trip across the Argentine to Patagonia in 1924, and expects to make many of her future trips in her plane. Her husband, Dr. H. Foster Bain, was director of mines in the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations, and is now secretary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Dance Hall in Chicago Bombed While Empty

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A dynamite bomb was exploded tonight in Guyon's Paradise, a huge dance hall on Chicago's West Side.

Police reports said no patrons were in the establishment at the time. The bomb was hurled through a window from the alley and landed near the orchestra pit, where it exploded. Damage was slight. Police attributed the bombing to labor trouble.

LABOR GROUP PLANS TO WORK FOR BEER

Meeting of New Organization to Be Held in Capital December 2 or 3.

WILL INTEREST OTHERS

Cincinnati, Nov. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Organization of labor groups throughout the Nation to work for modification of the Volstead act will be undertaken at a meeting to be held in Washington December 2 or 3, it was announced tonight by Joseph Obergfell, of Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer of the Brewery Workers Union, who called a preliminary meeting of a number of unions in Washington November 11.

Six labor leaders attended the first meeting. They included Obergfell, A. J. Kugler, of Jersey City, N. J., organizer for the brewers' union; O. Orpurn, of Washington, president of the Cigar Makers International Union; Joseph Doyle, Boston, secretary-treasurer of the Coopers International Union, and James Maloney, Philadelphia, president of the Glass Bottle Blowers Association.

The group organized as the labor legislative committee for the abolition of the Volstead act, Obergfell said. It agreed to extend an invitation to allied national and international labor organizations in the United States to join with it to "press forward resolutions and declaration of the American Federation of Labor to permit the manufacture of 2.75 per cent beer."

At the next meeting it is expected to have representatives of other interested labor groups in attendance and at that time a full program is to be adopted.

Present plans call for the bringing of pressure to bear on representatives and senators and following steps are expected to result in some definite bill for modification, which organized labor will sponsor in Congress.

Wife of Opera Singer Kills Self With Gas

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Pistori, 30-year-old wife of Spartaco Pistori, a singer with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, committed suicide last night by inhaling gas. Her body was not found until late today. Mrs. Pistori apparently resorted to gas, police said, after trying to strangle herself, for the cord of an electric iron was found noosed and hanging from a nail in the kitchen.

Mrs. Pistori was employed as a dressmaker by the Metropolitan Opera Company. Her husband left her on September 8, after he had been unable to get further employment, and became associated with the Chicago company.

Denver Land Office Job Goes to Moore

Former Salt Lake City Chief Gets Kelley's Place After Charges.

J. Arthur Moore, for the last six years in charge of the Salt Lake City Headquarters of the General Land office, was appointed Saturday as chief of the Denver Land Office, succeeding Ralph S. Kelley, who was formally dismissed from the service by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur following publication of his detailed charges contending the department's policy for acquisition by private oil interests of valuable oil shale holdings on the public domain.

Mr. Moore, who left for Denver yesterday to take over his new post, is familiar with the oil shale land situation as the result of his service in Salt Lake, the post Kelley held from 1918 to 1924, before going to the Denver office.

Commissioner Charles C. Moore said that the Salt Lake office, which also is an important cog in the administration of the Government's oil shale lands, will be filled temporarily by Arthur Ryan, a mining engineer, now stationed there. Mr. Moore has served in various posts in the land office for many years and is familiar with the questions upon which Mr. Kelley disagreed with the Interior Department.

COLORED EDUCATION CALLED NEGLECTED

Member of Hoover Board Describes Inequalities of Opportunity.

BALLOT HELD REMEDY

John W. Davis, president of West Virginia State College, who, with Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson and Dr. Robert Russa Moton, makes up the colored membership of the Hoover Commission on Education, stated yesterday as a result of comparative studies made by him that there are in America approximately 50 Negroes upon whom American or foreign universities have conferred the degree of doctor of philosophy, 20,000 with master or baccaulaureate degrees, approximately 23,000 now enrolled in collegiate courses and 48,500 teachers whose work is largely with the 3,350,000 Negro pupils in other levels of academic work.

"The degree of education which the Negro possesses has enabled him," he said, "to become dissatisfied with his present educational status. Examples of educational inequalities which in part make up this dissatisfaction are:

Comparative Enrollment.

"The high school enrollment among Negroes in the Southern States is less than 10 per 1,000, while in the United States the number of high school students per 1,000 is 39. For every 10,000 whites there are 92 who attend college in seventeen Southern States and the District of Columbia, while in the same territory seventeen Negro students are enrolled in colleges out of every 10,000.

"In fourteen Southern States there were in 1929 only 256 State-accredited four-year high schools for Negroes. In not one of sixteen Southern States has any provision been made for graduate or professional training of Negroes. In fifteen Southern States the average annual salary for white teachers is $984, and for Negro teachers is $478. The white teachers average 32 pupils each, while the Negrto teachers agerage 44. The average expenditure per white pupil is $30.77, and for the Negro pupil is $10.24. The average length of term for whites is 162 days, and for Negroes 135.

Small U. S. Grant Share.

"Seventeen land-grant colleges for Negroes in as many States receive annually $338,000 out of $13,000,000 from Federal grants. This is about one-fortieth of the total for about one-tenth of the population. It would require annually about $2,500,000 more of Federal tmoney to bring these Negroe colleges up to parity with the white colleges in the same States. These inequalities hamper the Negro in every phase of life.

"The Negro wants to use the ballot as a tool in the workshop of democracy in a way to impress constructively his will on the community. To this end, his education has witnessed an improvement in health which has resulted in an increased life expectancy, a better home life, a regard for law and order, a contribution to the art life and creative thought of America, and increased ownership and practical examples of thrift."

Alleged Bomb Sender Sued by Injured Man

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Sending a bomb through the mails from Los Angeles to Townsend, Tenn., has resulted in the filing of a $25,000 damage suit here. Clark Scott, whose left arm was blown away when he opened a mysterious package November 25, 1929, has brought the suit against Francis Cadwell, who, according to Postal Inspector J. L. Pemberton, of Knoxville, admitted to Los Angeles authorities that he mailed the bomb.

Pemberton says Cadwell has an interest in a farm near Townsend. This has been attached. An hour after the bomb exploded in Scott's hands a telegram signed "Dementia" arrived from Los Angeles, warning Scott not to open the package.

CRUSADERS REVEAL WET POLL OF CLUBS

ments, 55.8. Army and Navy—Indorsements, 190; disapprovals, 14; total returns, 204; percentage of indorsements, 93.1. Indorsements totaled 359 and disapprovals 87, showing 80.3 per cent favoring repeal."

The statement further points out that the percentage of ballots returned stood at 19.3, as compared with the 21.1 per cent of total ballots returned in the Literary Digest's prohibition poll.

"Washington's outstanding clubs do not include 'good men,'" the statement continues, "if W. C. T. U. definitions and Crusader statistics are to be accepted with equal confidence by an impartial public.

"The W. C. T. U. convention in Houston cheered vociferously Dr. Armor's statement that 'the right,' a large section of the press 'and Herbert Hoover' were on 'our side.' If this statement is true, obviously a majority of Washington's club members are neither the 'right people' nor on the side of the W. C. T. U., President Hoover and the American press. However, the Crusaders refuse to recognize Dr. Armor's right to speak for the President of the United States and the publishers of America's representative newspapers."

To offset anticipated offensives by the W. C. T. U., the local unit of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will inaugurate a series of rallies at the Masonic Auditorium December 5. Senator Tydings, of Maryland; Representative Mary E. Norton, of New Jersey, and other speakers will urge repeal of prohibition.

The local chapter, now numbering more than 2,000, hopes to double its membership within the next six weeks.

Other speakers at the opening rally will be Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic committeewoman from Philadelphia; Mrs. Alexander Wolf, wife of a prominent local attorney, and Rufus Lusk, author of the "speakeasy" map issued by the Washington Crusaders, who are cooperating with the women in their winter campaign.

NOTRE DAME TITLE DRIVE NARROWS TO 2 GAMES

Apaches Beat Alexandria Celtics, 6-0

Hudak's 40-Yd. Run Paves Way for Lone Score.

Virginians Display Fine Teamwork; Allen Is Star.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JOHNNY HUDAK, who used to throw passes and make himself generally useful in the Georgetown University back field for Coach Lou Little, played the hero role for the Apaches, District champions, in their 6-0 defeat of the St. Mary's Celtics, of Alexandria, before some 6,500 fans at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Hudak made his independent football debut last season with these same St. Mary's Celtics, being part of the hired help that aided the 1925 Alexandria team in its brilliant games in Washington. But this season the lanky back signed with the Apaches, and his presence in the District champions' line-up for one play changed a battle that otherwise seemed headed for a scoreless tie.

Hudak Makes Long Dash Early in Game.

The game was only a few minutes old when Hudak slid off tackle, cut back and went galloping down the side line. He covered some 40 yards before being pulled down on the Celtic 1-yard line. From this point it was only a formality for Don McCann to crash over for the touchdown. Ty Rauber's placement try for the extra point failed.

Those 6 points, hardly a feeling of safety to Apache fans at the time grew bigger and bigger as the game progressed with the Celtics unable to gain steadily except near midfield.

The Celtics lost no prestige in their defeat. Unlike other years, when the Alexandrians apparently set out the day before a clash with the Apaches or Mohawks and rounded up their grid talent, the Celtics presented a club drilled to the minute, well equipped with plays and with the usual Alexandria brand of fighting spirit.

However, the Celtics were unfortunate enough to find the Apaches gaining the momentum that they hope will carry them to another triumph over the Mohawks and another District championship. While Coach Rube Hayman and his inspired Celtic defense made the Apaches fight for every inch they gained, the Little Indians put up as brilliant a defensive game in defending those 6 points as has been witnessed this season at the stadium.

Clifford and Nolan Play Brilliantly.

The play of Bits Clifford, the roving center, and Barney Nolan, at tackle, was outstanding. Clifford, as usual, spent the afternoon, knocking down passes, spilling interference and making tackles. Nolan gave his best exhibition here since the day he aided Gonzaga and Johnny Bozek to beat Central's great team a few years back.

Ty Rauber is rounding into top form. With McCann, he took care of the line-plunging and his kicking, poor at the start, matched some fine punting by G. Kennedy in the second half.

Dick Allen was the offense star for the Alexandrians. He clipped off several 15-yard gains around the ends, outrunning tacklers on each occasion.

One of the longest Celtic drives came in the second period. Taking a punt from their 20-yard line, the Alexandrians ran up four straight first downs on line plays, but a fumble stopped the march when Apache territory was reached and Rauber recovered. The Celtics soon came back, however, this time by the medium of a pass to Houston, but this attack was ended when Birthright intercepted a pass.

At the start of the third period

Maryland Meets Hopkins And Vanderbilt in 3 Days

Baltimore and Nashville Scenes of Battle; G. W. Plays Navy and Georgetown Meets Detroit U. in Other Games.

THE interest of Capital football followers this week centers on the Maryland University eleven, which plays two games in three days, meeting Johns Hopkins in Baltimore Thanksgiving Day and Vanderbilt in Nashville on Saturday. The task facing the Old Line is most exacting.

While Maryland is having its troubles with the Blue Jays and Commodores (there is no doubt that it will have trouble in beating both of these teams), George Washington will attempt to sink the Navy at Annapolis and Georgetown will tackle Detroit in the automotive city in an effort to finish its season with a victory.

If Maryland had only the Hopkins game to play, there would be no cause for worry at College Park at this time, for the Blue Jays are woefully weak this season—as usual—and Maryland boasts one of the best teams in its history.

Vanderbilt, unquestionably one of the strongest elevens in the South, is figured to be at least two touchdowns stronger than Maryland. It is experienced, has a wealth of material and possesses plenty of beef and brawn. Perhaps in a national rating Vanderbilt would occupy an enviable position, because it has decisively defeated Minnesota, which held scoreless the powerful Coast title contender, Stanford.

Maryland Likely to Hold Back for Vandy.

Maryland naturally may be expected to use its strength judiciously in the Hopkins game; that is, save something for Vanderbilt. It would not surprise if Curly Byrd places the burden of beating the Blue Jays on his reserve players, because for several weeks the Old Line mentor has been working strenuously to whip his second and third stringers into something like a capable team while his regulars have been taking it easy.

The Navy game last Saturday developed the fact that Maryland can gain considerable ground against a formidable opponent by some other means than forward passing, heretofore its chief weapon. Navy frustrated 75 per cent of the Old Line's aerial thrusts, but yielded plenty of yardage in the rushing game.

Three times Maryland plowed down to the very shadows of the Tars' goal line, only to fall short of scoring because its passing went awry. Ray Poppelman, Al Woods and Bill Evans clipped off many sizable chunks of ground through the Navy line, but Shorty Chalmers' passes lacked their previous effectiveness.

Aside from bad bruises, the Old Liners came through the Annapolis tiff in good physical condition. Byrd will see to it that they rest this week before the Vanderbilt clash. He likely will withhold from the Hopkins game any player who is not in the best of condition.

Old Liners Must Improve In Tackling.

Maryland displayed poor tackling at Annapolis and will have to improve in this department if it is to down Vanderbilt. Several Navy gains were directly traceable to slip-shod Maryland defensive work, instances of the runner merely being bumped or shouldered.

Georgetown was upset by Villanova on a couple of long passes that the Wildcats executed flawlessly. Defense against the overhead game probably will be stressed in Hilltop drills this week.

Detroit looms menacingly to Georgetown's hopes of closing its season with a victory. The Titans no longer have a star such as Lloyd Brazil—a sensational ball carrier last year—but they are fortified with a small army of better-than-ordinary backs, thus having fresh and capable reserve talent on hand for use at any time in a game.

Detroit has proved its strength by holding Fordham to a 14-to-7 score. It was the first team to cross the Rams' goal line this season, but the Dorals-coached machine gained only a scoreless tie in its encounter with Michigan State, a team that Georgetown conquered, 14 to 13. Therefore,

Mohawks Nosed Out, 14-13, By Irvington A. C. Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 23.—Finding itself in an unaccustomed and awkward place as the underdog at the end of the first half, the Irvington Football Club came back with a vengeance and played brilliant and sensational football in flashes to nose out the Mohawk eleven of Washington 14 to 13 this afternoon at Gibbons Field.

It was an even battle for the first period, with neither team showing any real punch, but near the middle of the second quarter the Mohawks took possession of the ball near midfield and paraded slowly but steadily down the field. With Abbey and De Labre leading the attack, the visitors steam-rollered their way to a touchdown but missed the extra point.

Irvington Flashes Form.

Trailing on the small end of a 6 to 0 count, Irvington suddenly flashed a bit of form. Standing 10-yards back of the center of field Hahn flipped a short pass to Ryscavage, who gave a remarkable exhibition of open field running to side step and race his way 50 yards for the tying tally. Hahn again double crossed the opposition by snapping a bullet like forward across the line to Ryscavage for the extra point and this proved the margin of victory.

Continuing to click in fine form, Irvington paraded quickly down the field in the fourth period and Enright ripped off left end for the remaining 15 yards to score. Keene lifted a neat dropkick for the extra point and it was well he did.

A break gave the Mohawks its final touchdown with three minutes to play. After driving deep into Irvington territory Gass whipped a pass intended for O'Brien, but it was batted down into the arms of Abbey who scampered 15 yards for the counter. Another pass earned the extra point but left the Washington gridders trailing by a single point.

Northwestern Is Tied By Michigan in Race

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Football uniforms go back in the moth bags in the Western Conference tomorrow. The season is ended, put memory lingers on. Northwestern and Michigan are the joint champions, each with five successive victories. Purdue, the 1929 titleholder, finished third, with Wisconsin fourth and Ohio State fifth.

Minnesota and Indiana tied for sixth, with Illinois seventh and Chicago and Iowa, without a victory in Big Ten competition, landed at the bottom of the heap.

Diegel and Sarazen Tie in Oregon Open

Portland, Oreg., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Two golfing veterans, Gene Sarazen, New York professional, and Leo Diegel, pro from Agua Caliente, tied with 287 strokes to lead entrants in the Oregon open today. They face a seventeen-hole play-off tomorrow to determine the championship.

The play-off tomorrow afternoon was necessary not only to determine the championship but also to decide the majority winner of the $2,500 that goes to the victorious professional.

The two golfers put on a close fight throughout today's 36 holes of play, first one and then the other leading.

The chunky professional from New York held a one-stroke advantage to start the opening round. His total of 141 following yesterday's first half play was one under Diegel's 142.

Diegel cut down the one stroke and stepped out in front to lead by the same margin at the fifty-fourth hole of the match. At the sixty-third Sarazen again was out in the lead, this time by two strokes. On the last nine holes Diegel made up the two but couldn't forge in front.

Johnny Robbins, Alderwood, Portland, took low honors in the amateur class with his even 300 for the 72 holes. Dr. O. F. Willing, Waverly, Portland, and Frank Dolp, Alderwood, tied for second with 303.

The first ten finishers:

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente	287
Gene Sarazen, New York	287
Clarence Clark, Tulsa	289
Al Espinosa, Chicago	292
Craig Wood, New Jersey	292
Horton Smith, New York	293

Army Leads Grid Teams In East

Tie With Albright Puts W. Md. Off Top of Heap.

No Change in First Flight of Individual Scorers.

NEW York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The East could boast not one college football team neither beaten nor tied today. The last to surrender was Western Maryland which could get no better than a tie with Albright yesterday.

With Western Maryland's fall, the Army went into the Eastern lead with eight victories and one tie so far, but with a game with Notre Dame just ahead, Dartmouth and Western Maryland were in a deadlock for runner-up position with seven victories and a tie. All other teams have suffered at least one defeat.

In total points, Colgate, although idle, easily retained its lead with 349. Dartmouth was second with 294 and Cornell third with 280. Defensively Western Maryland led the list with 14 points against while the Army was just behind with 15.

With many of the leaders idle, Saturday, no changes were registered at or near the top of the Eastern individual football scoring list last week. Jack Grossman, of Rutgers and Jim Murphy of Fordham were the only players among the first half frozen scorers to get into action and neither of them was able to tally a point. Records of leading individual scorers to date, as compiled by the Associated Press, follows:

Stapleton Gridders Beat Brooklyn Pros

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.—Stapleton's National Football League team defeated Brooklyn today, 6 to 0, in a hard fought game decided in the closing period.

Held scoreless for three periods, Stapleton finally crashed through to a touchdown in the closing minutes of the battle, Doug Wycoff going through the line for the score. A 25-yard forward pass from Wycoff to Ken Strong had put the ball in scoring position.

Nevers Chicago Star As Memphis Is Beaten

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Ernie Nevers and the Chicago Cardinals defeated the Memphis Tigers, a non-league eleven, 20 to 7, today in a professional football game.

As usual, Nevers was the works for the Cards. The former Stanford ace plunged and passed into position for the first two touchdowns and scored the last one himself, along with kicking a pair of points after. Cobb Rooney plunged for the first Card score. Nevers passed to Boyd for the second and plunged for the last one. Tony Holm and Moore hammered their way to the Card 1-yard line with two minutes to play, and Bemis sneaked over for the Tiger touchdown.

Hagen, Farrell, Sarazen, Smith on Ryder Cup Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 23 (A.P.). Walter Hagen, of Detroit; Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Calif.; Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., have been chosen for the Ryder Cup Team of American golf professionals who will play the British next year, while fourteen other stars will play 72 holes to qualify for the three remaining players.

George Sargent, veteran pro at the Sciota Country Club here, scene of the international matches next June, made the announcement with the authority of A. R. Gates, head of the Professional Golfers Association.

Golfers who will attempt to qualify for the last three places on the eight-man team will be Al Espinosa, of Chicago; Ed Hilgendorf and Al Watrous, of Detroit; Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia; John Golden, Billy Burke, Joe Turnesa, Bill Klein and Whiffy Cox, of New York; Olin Dutra, of San Francisco; Henry Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Craig Wood, of Newark, N. J.; Frank Walsh, of Wisconsin, and Denny Shute, of Columbus.

The selections were made by the directors of the P. G. A. at their Chicago meeting last week. Hagan will act as captain, as he led the successful invasion of England in 1928. He and the four others named were considered the only pros sufficiently outstanding to be chosen outright. The other four must attempt to qualify on the Monday and Tuesday preceding the Ryder Cup matches, which are to be held June 26 and 27.

In former years the eight team members and two alternates have been picked at one time by a committee of professionals. The new plan gives an advantage to Shute, the pap at Brookside Golf Club here, who is thoroughly familiar with the Scioto layout and plays it particularly well.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE secret of Phil Cook's success as a radio impersonator is that he has perfected a new microphone technique. Many of his vocal variations are produced by varying his speaking distance from the "mike." To project some characters Cook speaks from a distance of 2 inches, its distance varying up to 12 inches, which is his maximum speaking distance from the "mike." This technique combined with a natural ability enables him to present his "one man" skits.

How would you like to step on a two-headed turtle It could not only bite your big toe but your small one, at the same time. What a howling success that turtle would be at a swimming party. It is now on display in the zoology department of the University of Minnesota.

Coming down the home stretch on Tenny in a match race against Salvator at Sheepshead Bay in 1894, "Snapper" Garrison was so far behind that his chances looked hopeless. But by putting on an exceptional burst of speed he lost only by the width of a man's hand. Such a brilliant effort has since been known as a "Garrison Finish." JOHN HIX.

ALL-MARINE ELEVEN IN 2 GAMES

Devil Dogs Preparing for Fray Here With Coast Guard.

TWO hard games remain on the schedule of the All-Marines eleven before it engages the Coast Guard Team in Griffith Stadium December 6 for the benefit of Washington's unemployed. Both will be played this week, Davis-Elkins being the foe Thursday at Grafton, W. Va., and New River State furnishing the opposition Saturday at Charleston, W. Va.

Maj. David L. Brewster, athletic officer of the Marine Corps, last night expressed a healthy respect for both Davis-Elkins and New River State, pointing out that each has done well this season in a strong class of competition. The Marines will be lucky to pass the week-end without suffering at least one loss, he declared.

Marines Have Won 5 Games.

In seven games to date the Devil Dogs have scored five victories and lost twice. Their latest triumph was registered at the expense of Rider College, one of the undefeated teams of 1929. The score was 3 to 0. John Carroll, Washington College, Lebanon Valley and Atlantic University were other victims of the Marines. The defeats were received from Boston College and Western Maryland, in both cases the competition proving of the toughest nature.

Arrangements for the Coast Guard game here are rapidly being completed. The committee of Washington citizens working in cooperation with Maj. Brewster will hold an informal meeting today in the board room of the Board of Trade.

Tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow.

Hanley Cracks Under Strain of Irish Game

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, cracked under the strain of watching his team battle Notre Dame yesterday, and last night was sent to bed by his physician with orders to remain there for three or four days.

The game itself was only the terminal cause, for Hanley had fought off tonsilitis and grip all last week so that he might direct his eleven against the Rough Riders from South Bend.

Providence Downs Minneapolis, 10 to 0

Providence, R. I., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—A 24-yard placement kick by Butch Meeker in the first period and a 55-yard touchdown march in the final quarter enabled the Providence steam roller to beat the Minneapolis Red Jackets, 10 to 0, in a national professional football league game here today. The invaders threatened in the third period, but, after a sustained march into Providence territory, Rose, Roller end, intercepted a pass and the home team protected its margin thereafter.

U. S. Army Poloists Beaten by Mexicans

Mexico City, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Mexico defeated the Eighth Corps Area Polo Team of the United States Army, 6 to 2, today to win the series here with two straight victories. The Mexican Team, composed of both Army and civilian players, had won the first game Friday.

The Mexicans again excelled in teamwork and their horses again were superior to the American mounts, which were troubled in both games by the altitude.

The third game of the series will be played Tuesday as an exhibition.

De Paul Is 13-0 Victor Over San Francisco U.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Completely outplayed on the ground, the University of San Francisco, with Big Bob Kleckner doing the important work, passed to a 13 to 0 victory over De Paul on Soldier Field today.

The Green Phantom could get nowhere against the strong De Paul land defense, but Kleckner fired a pass to Lindsey Warford to take the ball to the 15-yard line in the first period, and accomplished the remaining distance by throwing to Hergan over the goal line. The second score came on the most sensational play of the game. Kleckner shot another pass, a 20-yard heave, to Warford, who raced 25 more yards to count.

The Blue Devils were immensely superior in running, with Ernie Butcher and Matt Steffen, lugging the ball for long gains everywhere but over the Frisco goal line. Twice the Green Phantom held De Paul for downs on its 1-yard line to prevent scoring. The contest also produced a great kicking match between Kleckner and Steffan, with honors about even.

S. California And Army Remain

Irish - Northwestern Contest Extended Rockne Team.

New Hampshire Win Over Brown Day's Biggest Upset.

By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—That mythical national football championship situation, more and more a nightmare for the experts in recent years, has resolved itself today into a duel between Notre Dame, on the one hand, and the rest of the field on the other.

If Rockne's Rough Riders can hurdle their two remaining obstacles, Army and Southern California, there will be little or no dispute over the award of the mythical title, for no other college eleven in the country has played so representative and difficult a schedule. If either Army or Southern California can stop Rockne's men, then the title will have to go a-begging, with one expert's nomination as good as another's.

Notre Dame has won most of its games this year by getting the jump on the opposition, but it took a last period assault for the Rough Riders to knock over Northwestern yesterday, 14 to 0. The Wildcats, cohoiders with Michigan of the Big Ten championship, entered the battle unbeaten and untied and were not minded to surrender meekly without a struggle.

Notre Dame on Defensive.

For three periods—or a major part of them—Notre Dame was on the defensive, Northwestern losing two excellent chances to score through costly fumbles within the Hoosiers' 10-yard line. In the fourth period, Northwestern's defense crumbled and Marchmont Schwartz raced 29 yards to one touchdown and put the other in a position to score with a pass to Conley that took the ball to the 1-yard line. Dan Hanley crashed through for the second score.

In the excitement of this fray, other Midwest classics suffered some neglect. Only 45,000 persons, smallest of the season, saw Michigan down Chicago, 18-0, to end the Big Ten race in a tie with Northwestern, Indiana's Hoosiers, distinct underdogs, flashed a fourth period offensive that turned back Purdue, 7-6, while Wesley Fesler closed a brilliant college football career by leading Ohio State to a 12-9 triumph over Illinois. Wisconsin vanquished Minnesota, 14-0, but the big kick of the game came when some one fired a pistol toward the close of the final period and both teams ran off the field, thinking the battle was over. After a 15-minute delay, Wisconsin's team came back to the field but Minnesota failed to show up and officials declared the game over. Iowa checked in with a 12-7 victory over Nebraska to add to Big Ten prestige.

Harvard's Victory Stood Out.

In the East, Harvard's well-earned victory over Yale, 13-0, with 78,000 persons looking on, furnished the high spot of the day. The Crimsons outplayed Elis all the way and flashed a great passing combination, Barry Wood and Art Huguley, which gave Harvard its touchdowns in the first and third periods. Lou Kirr's 65-yard off-tackle dash gave Navy a 6-0 triumph at Maryland's expense, and Army, taking a "breather," brushed aside Ursinus, 18-0, with second and third string players doing the work.

The biggest upset of the day saw New Hampshire's fighting Wildcats break through for a touchdown in the first period and then hold off all of Brown's scoring threats to win, 7-0. Western Maryland, after 20 straight victories, was held to a 7-7 tie by Albright.

$4,000 French Chase To Poisson D'Avril

Auteuil, France, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Count Max Derivaud's Poisson d'Avril won the Richard Hennessy Stakes, a steeplechase of 2 miles and a quarter, and worth $4,000, today. Les Bossons was second and Le Miracle third.

Poisson d'Avril, a 3-year-old, by Potaufeu, out of Maskette, paid 6 to 1, in the betting.

TAYLOR AND LABARBA CLASH

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Once more Madison Square Garden steps in to offer what looks like the best match on the current week's fistic schedule.

The Garden's regular Friday night show will be headed by a ten-rounder between Bud Taylor, Terre Haute puncher, and Fidel Labarba, former flyweight champion, and recent conqueror of Kid Chocolate. Labarba should be installed a favorite but may not be in view of the number of overwhelming favorites who have been beaten here recently—Chocolate, Al Singer and Jimmy McLarnin, to mention a few.

At the Chicago Coliseum Friday night, Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, takes on another heavyweight, K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, in a ten-rounder. Tomorrow night's show at the Philadelphia Arena brings together two Quaker City stars, Benny Bass and Lew Massey, in the main go.

Other bouts on the national schedule:

Monday—At Philadelphia, Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro,

SUN BEAU MAY TOP GALLANT FOX AS MONEY WINNER

Agua Caliente Victory Is Needed

Workman Has Highest Average of Winning Mounts.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 23. — Willis Sharpe Kilmer's 5-year-old Sun Beau, which clinched his title to be the leading handicap horse of this country Saturday in easily winning the Southern Maryland Handicap, will start in the Agua Caliente Handicap, with a guaranteed value to the winner of $100,000.

The Sun Briar horse will be trained for that event by B. S. Michel, who developed Reigh Count and trained him for his larger stake engagements. The Agua Caliente Stake would place Sun Beau at the head of money winning horses, and this is Kilmer's ambition. By winning $34,000 in the Southern Maryland, Sun Beau moved up fourth among money winners. The record of the leaders now stands:

Gallant Fox	$328,165
Zev	316,639
Blue Larkspur	270,071
Sun Beau	264,918
Display	256,420
Exterminator	252,596
Man o' War	249,465

Exterminator was a Kilmer horse, the New York sportsman having purchased the great gelding as a 3-year-old for about $15,000 that he might have a Derby candidate in 1917, Sun Briar having been interrupted in his training. Exterminator won the Derby, and from that victory began a remarkable career. Like Man o' War, Exterminator had to run for much smaller stakes than have been offered in later years.

Mr. Kilmer, who seems to have had both bad luck and good judgment, has won $517,514 on the two horses, Exterminator and Sun Beau, and the latter is still going strong. It appears that the Agua Caliente is at his mercy.

Southern Maryland, Bowie	$34,000
Washington Handicap, Laurel	26,300
Havre de Grace Cup (second)	3,000
Bowie Stakes, Pimlico (third)	1,000
Laurel Stakes (fourth)	250
Total	$64,550

Three horses have won a total of $204,910 this fall in Maryland on the turf. Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's champion 2-year-old, accounted for $77,260 in two victories; Sun Beau, $64,550, and William Ziegler's Spinach, $63,100, his winning races being the Potomac at Havre de Grace, the Cup at the same track and the Riggs at Pimlico.

The attendance, which was good at Havre de Grace, Laurel and Pimlico, holds up well at Bowie, but the betting has fallen far below normal. Joseph A. Farrell, general manager at Bowie, said Saturday's crowd was the largest of the meeting and that he expected the usual Thanksgiving outpouring, and that Saturday's closing attendance would be larger than usual with good weather.

R. Workman is the leading American rider with an average of approximately .27. From January 1 to the end of racing Saturday, Workman had 556 mounts, won 150 races, was second on 84, third on 77 and unplaced on 245. His winnings in stakes for his employers have passed the $300,000 mark, principally for the C. V. Whitney stable and that of the late Harry Payne Whitney. H. R. Riley has ridden 159 winners, but his mounts total 736.

G. W. Frosh to Play Navy "B" Gridders

George Washington University's freshmen eleven will meet the Naval Academy "B" squad team Thanksgiving Day morning at Annapolis. Last year the Colonial Cubs trounced the "B" team, 19 to 0, but this year's freshmen are not the equal of their predecessors and a Navy triumph is anticipated.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Bowie Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 23.—Bowie begins its last week of racing with the Thanksgiving Handicap Thursday and the Endurance $10,000 stakes for 2-year olds Saturday as the outstanding features. This also brings to an end the Eastern racing season. The charity racing planned for next Monday, December 1, appears now improbable, as most of the horsemen had made arrangements to ship to New Orleans and other winter tracks at the close of the regular dates here, that there would be difficulty in filling the fields for the purses. New Orleans racing starts Thursday at Jefferson Park.

Featuring the card tomorrow is the Glen Echo Purse of $1,500 at a mile and a sixteenth. WILLIAM T. seems to have been fortunately placed in this race. This 5-year-old son of Lucky Hour has failed to win in Maryland since the opening day at Havre de Grace, although he has been out of the money but once in eight starts. In these races, he has been second five times to high class horses. His last start was in the two miles and a quarter Pimlico Cup in which he ran second to Mirbat.

With his light weight in this race, and at the lesser distance, he seems to be the probable winner, with GREY COAT the most formidable rival. GREY COAT is so slow in getting into action that the Caskey horse should have the race won before he becomes dangerous. DR. FREELAND seems best of the others. He was sixth to Sun Beau Saturday, and his previous race was bad, but prior to that he ran first, defeating Hot Toddy, at Pimlico.

FIRST RACE—There may be a surprise in the first race for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings by the first starter, SEMPER FIDELIS, bred by the Xalapa Farm and sired by Eternal. This colt has worked sensationally, and the clockers are excited about him. He is selected to win over some very good ones which have had racing experience. The Rancocas Stable's CAPLIN, by Bud Lerner, which will be coupled with NULLO, is rated the contender. WRIGLEY FIELD, which has been running with better horses, may figure in the race. TRICE also will be well backed.

SECOND RACE—PROTRACTOR will have STURDY to beat in the second race. PROTRACTOR has been over his head with such horses as Hacky H and Tuskegee, but among the sort he meets in this race, he looks best. STURDY was away slowly in his last start, but was beaten only a neck by Parnell Bound, and should be dangerous here. WICKER, which finished third to Parnell Bound in the same race, should again be close.

THIRD RACE—Two-year-olds are to go a mile and a sixteenth in the third race. SANDALS is selected to win, but there is doubt of her getting in the race, as she is far down on the eligible list. FLY GUY beat her at a mile and 70 yards on a sloppy track, but on a fast course the filly looks much the better of the two, and it looks like these outclass the others. At Laurel, SANDALS won easily over the gelding. MYNHEER has a chance on a fast track. He beat Garlic and Fervid at Pimlico.

FOURTH RACE—The Vanity Purse, for 2-year-old fillies, fourth on the card, is the secondary feature. The Lone Star Stable's POLLY PLAY, second to Robin's Egg at Pimlico, should be the choice. She beat Bright Comet in a previous race by eight lengths. THAIS, of the C. V. Whitney entry, probably is the contender. She has much speed, but is temperamental at the post. VOLTAGREEN holds the others safe. TONEY PRINCESS won her last like a fleet filly, but her fast track form is not so good.

SIXTH RACE—SATISFY gets the call in the sixth race. She was a beaten favorite in her last race, won by Cabellsdale. If she repeats her recent race when she was second to Madder, she should win this event. KEITH will be a keen contender. Throw out his last race. Previous to that he was just nosed out by Baritone. ARDMORE has a chance to show.

SEVENTH RACE—TITUS should win the seventh race. This stable put over Opponent Saturday. TITUS worked a mile in 1:43 the other morning, and he has run with much better horses than these. He has been scratched several times. This looks like the spot, and for a price. LIGHT VIEW is back in form, as his last winning effort showed, and he may be the contender here. PUNISHMENT has won his last two races and should be close up in this event.

Hughesville to Hold Ring Bouts Saturday

With Frankie Mann serving as matchmaker, a new boxing club will open Saturday night in Hughesville, Md., with a card of 32 rounds featured by an 8-round bout between Joe Smallwood, local welterweight, and Mickey O'Brien, of Fort Bragg, N. C. Four other six-round bouts are on the program.

The club is headed by Charley Esinger of Southern Maryland. It was organized at the request of the farmers in the towns of Hughsville, LaPlata, Benedict, Morgantown, Mechanicsville and Bryantown. The shows are under the supervision of the Maryland State Boxing Commission.

While the club expects to receive most of its support from the section in which it is located, local fans are invited to attend.

APACHES TRIUMPH OVER CELTICS, 6-0

Rauber got off a long, bounding punt that Russell downed on the Celtic 2-yard line, but Kennedy came through with a punt that went 50 yards in the air and rolled another 25 yards. This swung the action into Apache territory and the Celtics were given their best scoring chance of the game a moment later when Rauber, attempting to punt, fumbled a low pass from Clifford. Houston, of the Celtics grabbed the ball and ran to the goal line only to learn that the rules have been changed. However, it was the Celtics' ball on the Apaches' 35-yard line.

Allen went around end to carry the ball to the 15-yard line, but here the Celtics faltered. Three passes failed, and on a fourth try Rice and Nolan smothered the passer, throwing him for a 12-yard loss. Rauber, after the Apaches picked up a few yards, booted some 60 yards to a touchback.

The Apaches had a good scoring chance in the last period by virtue of the recovery of a fumble by Coach Jerry Carroll on the Celtic 15-yard line. However, the Apaches failed to make 10 yards in three tries, and Rauber's try for a placement goal was blocked. The Celtics made a futile attempt to snatch the game out of the fire by the air route as the struggle closed.

Bannockburn's Future To Be Decided December 1

Members to Decide Whether Club Shall Continue; Thanksgiving Tourneys Held at Three Clubs; Dinner at Manor.

MEMBERS of the Bannockburn Golf Club were advised yesterday that the board of governors had ordered a special meeting of the club for the night of December 1, at the clubhouse. The announcement states the purpose of the meeting to be as follows: First, to consider whether the operations of the club should be continued, or whether the affairs of the club should be wound up. Second, if the club is to be continued, to consider what further loans, if any, should be authorized to be made.

In addition, it is understood that if the club should decide upon a new policy, the present officers and board members are willing, in their desire to promote the present and further welfare of the club, to tender their resignations.

For some time past, the board of governors has had under consideration plans for the reconstruction of the course, so as to eliminate the present necessity of a large amount of hill climbing. To carry out these plans will require refinancing in order to meet the expense of building new greens and clearing nearly twenty acres of land for new fairways. The board has thought it wise to lay the whole matter before the membership and future action will depend upon the decision of the meeting. The announcement yesterday occasioned widespread comment among members and a large attendance at the meeting is expected.

Three golf clubs yesterday signaled the approach of Thanksgiving by holding tournaments, with the winners made happy by carrying home turkeys distributed as prizes.

At the Indian Spring Club the winners were: Class A, handicaps 1 to 7—Leroy D. Sasscer and Basil M. Manly. Class 2, 8 to 12, inclusive—Fred Walen, Dr. W. B. Vogel, Herbert A. Mihills. Class C, 13 to 20—Dr. A. Thomas Utz, Neil Burkinshaw, W. B. O'Connell, John T. Harris. Class D, 21 and up—H. E. Phillips and F. R. Krumm. Women's class—Mrs. Perry B. Hoover.

A field of 77 players competed at the Argyle Club, competition being eighteen holes, medal play, handicap allowance. Maj. F. G. Odom was winner with a card of 92—26—66. There was a triple tie for second place between John W. Dudley, 77—8—69; Donald G. Dudley, 78—9—69, and H. W. Little, 94—25—69. All four were awarded turkeys.

There was also a generous distribution of Thanksgiving birds at the Beaver Dam Club, the winners being as follows: W. U. Kirsch, 90—23—67; J. F. Vance, 94—26—68; R. M. Nash, 97—27—70; E. B. Harmer, 90—20—70; Louis Nelson, 88—18—70; L. L. Nettleton, 92—22—70, and Forrest Thompson, low medalist with 80. W. Bion Moore, with 82, was runner-up in the low gross score.

Members of the Manor Club gathered last Saturday night at the clubhouse to participate in the annual dinner which marks the awards of trophies won by members in various events during the year. The dinner, which was presided over by Stanley D. Willis, president of the club, was preceded by a turkey tournament and followed by a vaudeville entertainment. The prize winners were:

President's cup—Winner, E. L. Norris; runner-up, J. I. Donohue.

Two-man team—Winners, W. I. Green and E. M. McClelland; runners-up, Fred W. Rade and E. F. Wesley.

Lynch and Montague Enter Turkey Day Hike

Northern Cubs Win From Pirates, 7 to 0

Alexandria, Nov. 23.—A concentrated drive downfield from the Pirates' 40-yard line gave the Northern Cubs a well-earned victory of the Virginians to 7 to 0 as Mayer plunged over the stripe mark on an off-tackle play.

Linworths No Match For 135-Pound Mercs

The Mercury A. C.'s 135-pound football team walked roughshod over the Linworth All-Stars yesterday afternoon when they scored a 33-to-0 win. Although heavily outweighed, the Mercs nearly always were within Linworth territory during the game.

Watson's 92-Yard Dash Wins for Meridians

Watson, Meridian back field ace, pulled a Frank Merriwell by dashing 92 yards around end for the touchdown, which enabled his team to beat the Northeast Temples, 6 to 0, yesterday afternoon on the Monument Grounds in a 135-pound Sport Mart League game. The score was made in the last four minutes of play.

By virtue of this triumph, the Meridians assumed undisputed possession of second place in the circuit.

Freeman to Referee Wrestling at Strand

Joe Freeman, for years a leader in professional sport activities of the District, has been selected by Matchmaker Archie Parker to officiate in the two feature bouts of Thursday night's wrestling card at the Strand Theater.

Freeman's wide experience as a promoter and official practically assures the two feature matches of being competently handled. "Goldie" Ahearn will be the third man in the ring in the three preliminaries.

While fifteen per cent of the gate receipts are to be donated to the Unemployment Fund of Washington, Manager Pappas stated that the policy of admitting ladies accompanied by escorts free still would obtain.

Fort Washington Bows To Northerns, 26 to 0

In a game featured by spectacular runs from scrimmage by "Pepco" Barry, "Sos" Colliere and "Skeeter" Fox, the Northerns trounced the Fort Washington Eleven, 26-0, yesterday afternoon on the Soldiers Field.

Barry returned a Fort Washington punt 92 yards for the first Northern touchdown early in the initial period, while Goldsmith intercepted a Soldier pass and ran 46 yards for the second Redbird 6-pointer in the next quarter. Fox counted the other Northern touchdowns in the third quarter on off-tackle dashes of 60 and 12 yards, respectively.

NICHOLSON IN HIKE.

Bus Nicholson, representing Victory Post, of the District of Columbia Department, American Legion, will compete in the 9-mile amateur run in Berwyck, Pa., on Thanksgiving Day. He has been training under Coach Jack Whitely and is confident of making a creditable showing.

BOUTS AT BOYS CLUB.

Seven boxing bouts and three wrestling matches will be held Friday night at the Boys Club. The public is invited. The contestants will range in weight from 100 to 135 pounds. Edmund R. Lafond, intramural director of athletics of Catholic University, will serve as referee.

CAGLE FAILS IN DEBUT AS PRO

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The New York Giants took the leadership in the National Football League today defeating the Green Bay Packers, 13 to 6, before a crowd of 45,000 at the Polo Grounds. Each team has lost two games, but the Giants have won two more than the Packers.

Chris Cagle, former Army star, made his professional debut with the Giants but failed to get away for any long runs. He was injured in the first period, but came back midway in the third session and finished the game.

Giants Break Ice in Second Period.

The Giants counted first in the second quarter, Badgro taking the ball over on a long pass from Friedman. Moran got away for an 84-yard dash early in the third period, carrying the ball to the 1-yard line from where Friedman plunged over, after the Packers had held for three downs, for the second touchdown.

Although set back frequently by penalties, the Packers scored late in the third quarter, Lewellen circled end for the last 5 yards after two passes had carried the champions from midfield. A pass near the end of the game put the Packers down on the 5-yard marker again but the Giants' line held.

Entries Close Friday For Boys Club League

Teams desiring to enter the Boys Club Basket Ball Leagues are requested to make entries not later than Friday night. The leagues will commence operation the first week in December. Weight classifications will be 85, 100, 115, 130, 145 and unlimited.

Wolverines Blank Fire Eleven, 10 to 0

The Wolverines scored an impressive 10-to-0 victory over the strong Engine Company 5 eleven yesterday afternoon on Baggett Field, Alexandria. Just before the first quarter closed, Raum made a pretty 33-yard drop kick for the first points rung up by the Wolves.

Greg Gerdom counted a touchdown for the District outfit early in the second period, when he spun through tackle for 10 yards and a score. Bell rushed the extra point. The entire Wolverine squad played excellent football, while H. Scott starred for the Firemen.

Apache Juniors Beaten By Virginians, 13 to 0

Two touchdowns in the last half gave the Virginians the verdict. The first score came as the result of an aerial heave to Newton from Mumford. In the fourth quarter, Pullman plunged over the chalk-line for the final score.

On Thanksgiving Day the Virginia Jrs., will meet a fast team from Washington.

MERCURY A. C. WINS CAPITAL CITY UNLIMITED TITLE

SOUTHWEST ELEVEN BEATS MARIONS, 12-0; CENTENNIALS SCORE

Brookland and Seat Pleasant Eliminated by Tie.

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

MERCURY won the unlimited section championship of The Post's Capital City Football League yesterday afternoon by scoring a brilliant 12-to-0 triumph over Marion, while Seat Pleasant and Brookland, who previously had been tied for first place with the Southwesters, were battling to scoreless draw.

The victory gave the Maroons a record of three wins, three ties and no losses for the 1930 league campaign. Brookland and Seat Pleasant each won two and deadlocked four games.

Alpha Delta Omega and Quentin were unable to secure a suitable playing field for their engagement, and for that reason were forced to postpone their scheduled clash until a later date.

In registering their victory on the Gonzaga field, the Mercs for the sixth consecutive time this season kept their goal line from being crossed. Superior line play accounted in the main for the win.

Marions Make Good Start.

The Marions started out as if they intended to give the new champs the fight of their lives to stave off defeat. Early in the initial period the Southeast players swept through the Mercs for three consecutive first downs and 47 yards to plant the ball on the Southwesters' 12-yard strip. Mercury then braced at this point and took the ball on downs and thereby terminated the one serious scoring threat made by the Marions during the game.

Shortly afterward the Mercs started an offensive drive of their own which the Marions could not stop. Suit, Claggett, Lewis and Schriver alternated at lugging the oval through the huge opening in the Southeast forward wall made by the Merc line men and a 67-yard march put Schriver across for a touchdown from the 2-yard mark. A pass for the extra point was incomplete.

Virtually the same methods enabled the Mercurys to register their second 6-pointer in the third period. Short line bucks and end runs brought the ball from midfield to the Marion 5-yard line. Self then dived through tackle behind perfect interference to score standing up. The Marion forwards blocked Acquolini's drop-kick attempt for the point after touchdown.

Claggett's Long Run In Vain.

Early in the first period Claggett intercepted a Marion pass on his own goal line and ran 96 yards for an apparent touchdown. Referee McClure, however, ruled he had stepped out of bounds on making the catch and the run was disallowed.

Each club enjoyed more than fair success in its aerial attempts. The Mercs completed half dozen heaves out of 10 tries for a total of 63 yards, while the Southeast Team connected four times out of seven, for an aggregate of 56 yards. Twelve first downs were rung up by the winners to five for the vanquished.

No one man was outstanding in the Mercury play, the entire team showing to advantage during the conflict. Bergling, Borden and Buhler played the best football for the Marions.

Brookland and Seat Pleasant continued in the slough of tie games which marked their two previous appearances against other section leaders, and after battling through four hard-fought quarters on the Seat Pleasant Field were forced to content themselves with a scoreless draw. Defensively, each team was superb, but offensively they were at a stalemate.

Outside of a single fruitless scoring chance apiece, play was confined between the 30-yard lines the whole route. Late in the third quarter Brookland marched 36 yards to Seat Pleasant's 7-yard line only to surrender the ball on downs. The Marylanders had their chance in the last period, when a 54-yard drive carried to Brookland's 8-yard mark. Further progress being stopped, Ratke on fourth down tried a field goal from the 19-yard line which was too low.

Voorhees' 54-Yard Dash Unavailing.

Voorhees, in the second quarter, swept around Seat Pleasant's right flank for 54 yards before he was brought down on the suburbanites' 31-yard strip. Brookland, however, could progress no farther.

Holden, of Brookland, and Augustine, of Seat Pleasant, also got off some pretty runs. Each outfit made nine first downs.

Ratke and Holden engaged in a punting duel with the former having a slight edge by virtue of several beautiful 70-yard efforts he got off.

Outstanding players for Seat Pleasant were Augustus Fisher, Cady and Nelson, while Holden, Voorhees, Warren and Woodruff showed to best advantage for Brookland.

THE only two undefeated outfits in the 150-pound section of The Washington Post' Capital City Football League collided head on yesterday afternoon at the Silver Spring Field, and the pace-setting Centennials assured themselves at least a tie for first place in the final division standings by nosing out a fighting Northern Prep eleven, 12 to 7. The game was the most closely contested of any played in the section so far this season, and the winner remained in doubt until the final whistle.

Prior to this battle, Columbia achieved a much coveted 3-to-0 victory at the expense of Palace-District Grocery Stores in a game staged on the same gridiron. The third 150-pound division contest of the afternoon resulted, in a 13-0 victory for the Brentwood Hawks over Del Ray.

The Centennials, after compiling all their points in the first half, were hard pressed the remaining distance to withstand the determined efforts of the Preps to come from behind and win.

Fitzgerald Catches Pass for Score.

Annexing their first touchdown in the first five minutes of play, when "Buddy" Raffo returned Sorrell's punt 63 yards for a score, and their second in the next quarter, when Fitzgerald took a pretty 29-yard pass from Bussink while standing on the Redbird goal line, the Cents had the Preps on the run most of this initial half.

Starting the third period, however, the section leaders soon found they had their work cut out to preserve their lead. The Northerns started the quarter with a terrific offensive, which was not checked until it had reached the Centennials' 19-yard mark. A 15-yard penalty for holding then put the Cents back to their 4-yard mark. On the next play Grant blocked Bussink's punt and Hoy fell on the ball for a touchdown. Snoots place-kicked the extra point.

The fourth quarter produced more thrills than any other period. Twice the Cents hammered away for another touchdown, being stopped once on the Northern 2-yard mark, and again on the 5-yard strip. Meanwhile, the Redbirds opened up with everything they had. With Sorrell tossing short laterals and Marshall cracking the tackles, the Northerns marched from their own 18-yard line to the Centennials' 38-yard strip before Raffo intercepted a pass and checked the threat. The final whistle cut short another baffling passing attack which the Preps had started.

Raffo Makes Run For Touchdown.

Raffo's touchdown run was the outstanding bit of offensive action the game produced. The Cent ace fumbled the ball momentarily, eluded no less than five would-be Northern tacklers, sped down the side-lines and dodged the Redbird safety man, to be tackled just as he crossed the last chalk mark.

The work of Scagnelli, Finnegan, and Fitzgerald, in the line, and of Raffo, Foley, and Bussink in the back field, was largely responsible for the Centennial victory. Pitts, Perry, Hoy, Sorrell, and Marshall looked best for the Northerns. Acquolino and Foley, mainstays for the winners, were seriously injured during the game.

Strategy on the part of Head Coach Pettit, together with the educated toe of one Madison Shamburg, substitute half back, were instrumental largely in giving the Columbias their narrow, 3 to 0 verdict over Palace-District Grocery Stores.

An 8-yard pass, Hengstler to Pieffer, and then a beautiful 36-yard heave, Healy to Pieffer which caught the Palaces flat-footed to put the ball on the Southwesterns' 12-yard strip midway in the third period paved the way for Messieurs Pettit and Shamburg. Three line plays gained but six yards and then Pettit inserted Shamburg with instructions to try a drop-kick. Shamburg carried out his orders and sent a pretty kick through the uprights for the points which gave his team the lead and later the verdict.

Kicking Duel for Most Part.

The game for the most part was a kicking duel between Tonker, of Palace, and Healy, of Columbia. The Southwest team passed up an opportunity to score in the first period when "Inky" McDermott blocked Healy's punt, Van Horn recovering for Palace on Columbia's 12-yard strip. P. Scanlon then fumbled on the next play, Newman retrieving the oval for the Northeasters. Outside of this threat, neither team penetrated any farther than the other's 35-yard mark at any time except in the third period when the Columbias made their field goal, and the last two minutes of play when the Palaces were within 3 yards of a score.

Tonker was the hero and "goat" of this last-minute rally on the part of the Southwesters. After Johnny Peters had recovered Hengtsler's fumble on Columbia's 14-yard strip, Tonker on three tries rammed the line for a first down on the 3-yard line. On his next attempt he fumbled, Hengtsler making up for his previous miscue by recovering for the Northeast team just as the game ended.

The entire Columbia outfit played an excellent brand of football, while Tonker, Stone, Joe Perron and the Scanlon brothers stood out for Palace-D. G. S.

The Brentwood Hawks kept pace with the other section leaders by scoring an impressive victory over the Del Rays in a bitterly contested game staged on the Mount Rainier Field.

Mercury A. C. Eleven Challenges Apaches

With The Post's Capital City League unlimited championship clinched, the Mercury A. C. eleven, of Southwest, last night challenged the Apaches, District independent champions, to a game to be played in December. In the event that the Mohawks regain the title from the Apaches, Manager Leroy Allison said his club would challenge the Hawks.

Mercury 125-Pound Club Beats Palace

Scoring two touchdowns on a belated rally in the last six minutes of play, the Mercury 125-pound team defeated the Palace eleven yesterday afternoon on West Potomac Park No. 2 in a Sport Mart League by a 13-12 count. The 125-pound championship of Southwest went with the triumph. Grasso and Cole made the Mercury touchdowns, while Gevison and Camming scored for Palace. Grasso rushed the all-decisive extra point which gave victory to his outfit

Soccer Title to Marlboro Despite Tie With Kickers

District Team Surprises Leaders; Rockville Upsets Gaithersburg, 2-1, After Trailing at Half Time.

D. C. KICKERS staged the greatest upset of the local soccer season yesterday when it held the Marlboro Club to a 1-to-1 tie on the Marlboro Field. Despite the draw Marlboro clinched the Washington Soccer League championship and The Washington Post Cup.

Rockville also furnished somewhat of a surprise by downing the haughty Gaithersburg eleven, 2 to 1. The latter club rode at the top of the Capital City League for a long period early in the season and reached the high point of confidence where it considered it nothing less than an insult to class the other teams in the circuit with it.

British United, with a makeshift team, had difficulty in downing Gaelic-Americans, 2 to 1. Fashion Shop did not play Rosedale and Silver Spring failed to compete with Army due to a mixup in the designated fields of play. The Silver Spring Team journeyed to Fort Myer to play the Soldiers while the Army kickers were on hand at Silver Spring to meet the Marylanders.

Wrong Field.

For some unaccountable reason Fashion Shop went to Silver Spring for its scheduled game with Rosedale on Monument Field No. 2. Silver Spring is not Fashion Shop's home grounds and why the Ninth street team figured that it would play on the Maryland grounds will remain a mystery until tonight when the Capital City League meets and discusses the case.

D. C. Kickers did something that no other team has done in several years, that is, to tie or win from the Prince George County booters on their own field. The achievement was all the more commendable as the D. C. Kickers were not considered in the same class with Marlboro before the match.

To extoll an individual on the winning Kickers' Club would be an injustice as all played with all that they had. At half time the Germans had played the Marlboro boys to a scoreless tie and in the second 45 minutes of play matched the efforts of the league champions both in results and ability.

2,000 See Battle At Rockville.

One of the largest crowds ever to view a sporting contest in Rockville gazed on the defeat of Gaithersburg. It was estimated by the Rockville management that 2,000 spectators were on hand for the big Capital City League upset. Rockville displayed some of the ability that it entertained the fans with early in the season to conquer Gaithersburg.

SIX MATCHES AT J. C. C. TONIGHT.

Capital Boxers Face Philly Amateurs; Miller Fights.

JOCKO MILLER, District amateur lightweight champion, will make his debut in welterweight ranks tonight when he performs with the Jewish Community Center boxing team against a picked team of Philadelphia Simon-pures in the Sixteenth street auditorium. The program will open at 8 o'clock.

Miller, a Massachusetts native, has been fighting as a member of the J. C. C. team for two years. In his first season here, he won the South Atlantic lightweight title. Besides winning the local championship last year, he advanced to the semifinals of the national amateur tournament at Boston. He has added about 12 pounds during the last eight months, but retains his old skill. Coach Jim McNamara, of the Center team, expects him to continue successfully.

Six Bouts and Exhibition Mat Match.

Six bouts and an exhibition wrestling match between Joe Turner, widely known Washington professional, who is coaching the Center matmen, and Harry Goldman, one of his pupils, make up the program. Denny Hughes, former George Washington football mainstay, will act as referee, and the popular Jimmy Lake will serve as master of ceremonies.

Tonight's show marks the opening of the Jewish Community Center's fifth season in boxing. Coach McNamara's charges have never lost a team match. McNamara, however, looks for strong opposition in the inaugural, having been assured that the visiting team is composed of the cream of Philadelphia amateurs.

M. A. Boxing Head Sponsors Philly Team.

The Quaker City aggregation was rounded up by Frank Percival, chairman of the boxing committee of the Middle Atlantic Association of the A. A. U.

Admission will be restricted to persons holding cards of membership in the J. C. C.

The program:

TAKOMA BEATS WOODRIDGE.

The Takoma Athletic Club beat the Woodridge eleven yesterday afternoon on the Takoma Field, by a 12-to-6 score. Dantzig returned a Woodridge punt for 66 yards and a touchdown to provide the outstanding feature of the game.

MARYLAND PLAYS HOPKINS, VANDY

Charley Brickman, Georgetown's star guard, injured his right elbow again last Saturday and is now being treated at his home in New Jersey. The same elbow was broken earlier in the season. Brickman probably will not face Detroit.

Another Capacity Crowd For Annapolis.

George Washington's clash with Navy doubtless will attract another capacity throng to Farragut Field, Annapolis. It will be the initial appearance of a G. W. eleven against Navy and the large following of the local school is intensely interested.

It seems to be a general opinion that Navy will have no trouble downing George Washington, but the Tars must put up a fine aerial defense if they hope to keep their goal inviolate. The Colonials boast a truly potent overhead attack with Billy Wells standing out as an expert tosser.

Local fans who view the game will watch closely the work of Johnny Fenlon, Coach Pixlee's budding star at half back. This speedy youth gave a shining example of how to run with a football last Friday night against Catholic U. He may give Lou Kirn quite a battle for individual honors.

Pixlee did not use Joe Carter, another fine running back, against Catholic in the hope of having him in tiptop shape for the Navy contest. Carter received a shoulder injury two weeks ago and is recovering slowly. Bugs Bagranoff, guard, and Tex Hale, tackle, both injured last week, are expected to be ready for action again next Saturday.

BROOKLAND'S BOYS WIN TITLE

Defeat Powhatans by 14-0 in Sport Mart League Feature.

BY DEFEATING the Powhatan Athletic Club, 14 to 0, on the Michigan avenue field, the Brookland Boys Club are undefeated and untied champions of the 135-pound Sportmart League. This is their seventh consecutive win of the season, scoring 115 points against their opponents' 6.

The Powhatans presented a stubborn defense, holding on no less than four occasions when Brookland was inside their 10-yard line. Offensively they were unable to cross Brookland's 30-yard marker.

Brookland scored their first touchdown when McNally, on a reverse end run, ran 30 yards to score. The second touchdown came as the result of a 60-yard drive. Johnson, McNally and Franke carrying the ball for successive gains of 10 to 15 yards.

G. P. O. Federals Hold Iroquois to 6-6 Tie

The G. P. O. Federals and the Iroquois A. C. battled to a 6-to-6 tie yesterday afternoon on Guckert's Field, Alexandria. Munroe, star quarter back for the Feds, intercepted an Indian pass early in the first period and galloped 86 yards for a score.

The Alexandrians deadlocked the count in the third quarter when a sustained march up the field resulted in Sullivan crashing through tackle for 3 yards and a 6-pointer. Both teams failed to convert the extra point. The Feds, although greatly outweighed, put up a splendid game throughout.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 24, 1905.

Denied an appeal, Albert M. Raymond faced the prospect of a five-year jail term for libelous communications sent to District officials.

His 8-year-old daughter testified against Pendleton Fillmore Taylor, accused of killing his wife, Nettie, with a hatchet.

Cats which formerly had swarmed the Treasury Building were reported to have been driven out. Three good mousers were allowed to remain.

Goofus Observations

Goofus Leopards I have seen
Spray themselves with gasoline.
And they seem to like it lots
As it frees their hides of spots.
But they run the risk of fire
In thus cleaning their attire—
How much safer they'd be preened
If each went and was dry cleaned!

Mexican Volcano Contains Stadium

Indian Running Track 5 Miles in Length Runs Around Base.

Chihuahua City, Mexico, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Nature thousands of years ago threw up a 600-foot volcanic cone that is believed to be the first stadium on the North American Continent.

The huge stadium, 250 miles northwest of here, has a running track 5 miles in length running around the base of the cone, and doubtless was the scene of the games of the Tarahumare Indians centuries ago.

Col. Gordon Johnson, American Military Attache in Mexico City, discovered it on the Babicora Ranch of William Randolph Hearst.

The ranch is in the center of the Tarahumare Indian country, and the tribe to this day is recognized as containing the greatest Indian distance runners living.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agr., Weather Bureau. Washington, Sunday, Nov. 23—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair, with mild temperature Monday; colder Monday night; Tuesday fair and colder; increasing south and southwest winds, becoming fresh northwest Monday night.

For Maryland and Virginia—Fair, with mild temperature Monday, followed by light rains in extreme west portions, changing to snow flurries Monday night; colder Monday night; Tuesday generally fair and colder; increasing south and southwest winds, becoming fresh to strong northwest Monday night.

The disturbance of great extent that was central over Hudson Strait Saturday night is now over Greenland, Julianehaab, 28.90 inches, and another center that developed west of Lake Superior during Saturday night is advancing eastward over the lake region, White River, Ontario, 29.38 inches. Still another disturbance is moving rapidly eastward, with center over Yukon, Mayo, 29.88 inches, while the minor disturbance northeast of the Bahamas has apparently recurved toward the north, S. S. Metapan, 29.84 inches. Pressure is high from southeastern Alaska and the District of Mackenzie southeastward to the Gulf of Mexico, and it is abnormally high from southern British Columbia to Utah and Wyoming, Yellowstone Park, Wyo., 30.84 inches. Generally fair weather has prevailed during the last 24 hours, except for light local rains in Southern Texas, the Lake Superior region and Eastern Minnesota, and light local showers in the Dakotas, Nebraska and Western Minnesota. The temperature has fallen in the Atlantic States, the Dakotas, Minnesota, the eastern portions of Montana and Wyoming and in the western Canadian Provinces, and it has risen from Southern California eastward to Eastern Texas.

The Lake Superior disturbance will move eastward and it will be attended by light rain, changing to snow flurries in the lower lake region, the extreme upper Ohio Valley, the northern Appalachian region and northern New England Monday afternoon or night. Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Monday and Tuesday in the Washington forecast district. Following the passage of this disturbance, colder weather will overspread Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region Monday and Monday night and the Atlantic States Monday night and Tuesday. The weather will become much colder Monday night from Ohio northeastward to Maine.

CLAIRVOYANTS

CLAIRVOYANT

THE MAN WHO KNOWS

608 12th St. N.W.

Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

SMITH FIRM TRIAL WILL OPEN TODAY; LONG FIGHT LOOMS

Legal Battle Is Expected to Last From Three to Six Weeks.

MORE THAN 100 CALLED AS FEDERAL WITNESSES

A legal battle that is expected to last from three to six weeks is scheduled to begin this morning in District Supreme Court when G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former officials of the F. H. Smith Co., go on trial before Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company's funds and to destroy records.

Preceding the actual beginning of the trial, the three defendants are to be arraigned, after which defense counsel are expected to file a motion to suppress certain evidence which is alleged the Government seized in the New York offices of the company.

More Than 100 Subpenaed.

More than 100 Government witnesses are under subpena and all are scheduled to be in attendance at 10 o'clock this morning, when the trial is slated to get under way. In addition the Government is ready to introduce more than a truckload of documentary evidence, mostly records of the company. Many local banks also have been subpenaed to produce records of accounts of the Smith company, Smith company subsidiaries and former officials.

An array of attorneys will clash during the trial. Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw will appear for the Government. The defense will be represented by Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, Frank G. Raichle, George D. Horning, jr., and Edmund M. Toland. Attorney R. H. Yeatman is expected to become an integral cog in the defense legal machinery before the trial is concluded. Mr. Yeatman at present is ill, but Justice Hitz declined to grant a continuance on that account.

Five Panels of Jurors.

No new jurors have been called, but there are 5 panels of 26 jurors each now sitting in the various branches of the court, and until they are exhausted no additional jurors will be called. Considerable difficulty in obtaining a jury is anticipated, due to the publicity the affairs of the Smith Co. and the charges against its former officials have received.

Samuel J. Henry, former president of the Smith Co., is jointly indicted with Pitts, Anadale and Edwards, but will not be tried at this time. He gained a separate trial several weeks ago.

Large crowds are expected at the courthouse during the trial, but United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder and Chief Deputy Marshal Steve B. Callahan have announced that no persons will be admitted who can not be seated.

Buehler's Death Adjudged Suicide

Funeral Services Not Yet Announced for Former G. W. U. Student.

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday by Acting Coroner Joseph D. Rogers, in the death of Dr. Luther Buehler, former George Washington University student and city chemist of Philadelphia, who shot himself while seated in his automobile at Fourteenth and Monroe streets northwest, Saturday night.

Dr. Buehler, who lived at 1915 I street northwest, received considerable newspaper publicity in 1924 in connection with liquor cases in the courts of Philadelphia while he was city chemist. After appearing in many cases in which liquor had been seized by police, he declared that he would attend no more hearings, and told the courts he had destroyed subpenas for his appearance in pending cases.

He was threatened with arrest if he carried out his intentions of leaving the city, and after he was informed that a bench warrant would be issued for him if he continued to disregard subpenas, he remained in the city, stating, however, that he had lost a position offered him in a Midwestern State. No funeral arrangements had been announced last night.

Seibeneichen to Teach Gas Firm Band Members

Candidates for a 52-piece band to be composed of Washington Gas Light Co. employes will be instructed by Otto Seibeneichen, former conductor of the United States Army Band, it was announced yesterday. The band will offer its services to veterans' hospitals and civic organizations. More than 100 candidates have been listed.

The final organization meeting of band members will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the company's auditorium, 413 Tenth street northwest. H. J. Nachman, head of the refrigeration department, will assist Mr. Seibeneichen in innstruction work.

Taxicab Driver Under Bail After Accident

Warren E. Knight, 23 years old, of North Carolina avenue near Seventh street southeast, was released yesterday in $500 bail on a charge of reckless driving made against him after he had seriously injured Wallace Orme, 50 years old, in an accident on Friday night.

Mr. Orme, is in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital. He was crossing V street near Fifteenth street northwest when struck by a taxicab driven by Knight. Mr. Orme lives at 1465 V street northwest.

Chief Holds Whites Responsible for Race

CHIEF KIUTUS TECUMSEH.

Responsibility for the Indian welfare is in the hands of the white man, in the opinion of Chief Kiutus Tecumseh, who arrived here yesterday to confer with Charles J. Rhoads, Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

"My people," he said, "entered civilization, not of their own free will, but because they were pushed into it by the white man. To continue, as is our desire, an education of the highest degree is necessary."

The chief said that the Government is prejudiced against employing Indians. White men are given preference where an educated Indian would do as well.

Chief Tecumseh, well-known Indian tenor of the Wenatchee Indian Tribe, in the State of Washington, arrived here yesterday from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he has been conducting a series of radio broadcasts. He is stopping at the Powhatan Hotel.

"I have been making these talks over the radio in connection with my singing," said Chief Tecumseh, "in an effort to better acquaint the public with Indian questions. It is my aim to place before the American people the honest facts concerning my race."

Dressed neatly in a light brown suit, Chief Tecumseh resembled a foreign diplomat, rather than an Indian chief, as he sat in his hotel room and discussed Indian affairs.

"I am making every effort to see that our boys and girls are given a fair chance to attend, not only grade and high schools, but colleges as well.

"In the World War 18,000 Indian boys served," Chief Tecumseh said. "There were no substitutes then; why should there be now? If the American people would acquaint themselves with Indian habits and visit some of our educational institutions, I am certain this prejudice would be dropped. Give the Indians a fair chance to obtain higher education," he concluded, "and they will make as good citizens as the white man."

Thousands of letters from persons in all parts of the country have been received by Chief Tecumseh, requesting that his voice be recorded on phonograph records. He has tried a number of times to do this, but has not succeeded.

In his audience with Commissioner Rhoads today he will seek compensation for a tract of land at the fork of the Wenatchee and Icicle Rivers, in Washington, which was taken from his tribe in 1894. The land is rightfully theirs, he claims.

11 AWARDED MEDALS IN TEST ON VERGIL

ITALIAN ENVOY ATTENDS

The eleven charter members of the resently created Vergilian Academy of Georgetown University were awarded special medals for their ability in Latin on behalf of the university yesterday afternoon following an unusual public exhibition of their familiarity with the works of Vergil.

Ambassador de Martino, of Italy, who was the guest of honor, presented the medals to the participating college students who had been coached for the Actus by J. J. Bluett, S. J., professor of Latin. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown, in announcing the awards, paid a tribute to Prof. Bluett, whom he once taught.

The Actus was accompanied by a special musical program appropriate to the occasion and rendered by Dr. Edward P. Donovan, professor of music at Georgetown. Robert McNamara, class of 1932, spoke on each of the musical selections.

John F. Drum, '33, chairman, in an opening address, referred to the influence that Vergil has exercised in classical Catholic education. Others participating in the Actus were Cassidy Driscoll, '32; Edouard F. Hebert, '32; Edward J. Fah, '33; John W. Ahern, '33; Edward J. O'Donovan, '33; Robert E. O'Kane, '33; Andrew J. Cooney, jr., '33; Clement G. Larkin, '33, and Raymond F. Durhan, jr., '33. Readers were selected to translate selections from the four books of the Georgica, the ten Eclogues and the twelve books of the Aeneid.

The Rev. R. Rush Rankin, S. J., dean of the college, and other members of the faculty attended the exercises, which were conducted in Gaston Hall.

Girl Hurt as She Darts In Front of Passing Car

She was treated at Freedmen's Hospital, where she was taken in the car which struck her, which was driven by Raymond C. Reneberger, 24 years old, of Fourteenth street near Varnum street northwest.

MRS. JOHN P. JONES DIES AT HOME HERE

Sister, Daughter and Son Are Among Survivors of Lawyer's Widow.

RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Mrs. John Paul Jones, resident of the National Capital for many years, died Saturday night at her residence, 1747 Corcoran street northwest, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Jones was the widow of a well-known lawyer, John Paul Jones, of this city. Possessing a charming and vivacious personality, she had a host of warm friends who were shocked at the news of her death. Her parents were William R. S. Gittings and Martha Magdalene Bowie, both members of prominent Maryland families.

Surviving her are a sister, Miss Eleanor Gittings, of this city; a daughter, Miss Ruth Eleanor Jones, society editor of the Washington Herald; a son, John Paul Jones, electrical engineer, of Cleveland, Ohio, and two grandchildren, Mary Lou and Nancy Jones.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the home. The Rev. Mr. Johnson, of St. John's Episcopal Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

LEOPOLD OLSCEWSKI RITES

Government Employe, 73, Native of Austria, Is Buried.

Funeral services for Leopold Olscewski, 73 years old, a native of Austria and a draftsman in the Department of Agriculture, and later with the Federal Trade Commission, who died Saturday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of Frank Geiers Sons Co., 1113 Seventh street northwest. Burial will be at Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Olscewski died at his residence, 311 P street northwest. He had made his home in Washington for the last 40 years. He was retired from the Government service on August 1 of this year, after having been granted a second extension, which he served. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Margaret Olscewski, and several nieces and nephews.

Crime Topic at Open Forum.

"Crime, Its Cause and Cure," was the subject of a lecture by Mrs. C. H. L. Flatter, social welfare worker, of Xenia, Ohio, before the Washington Open Forum yesterday at 808 I street northwest. Mrs. Flatter maintained that alcohol and tobacco are making fearful depredations on life and health, and urged health workers to call attention to the injury they occasion.

Motorman Taken by Death Was Known to Thousands

Philip Henry Wenzel, veteran motorman whose courtesy and kindliness endeared him to thousands during the 37 years that he served with horse cars and street cars of the city, will be buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery Wednesday, following brief services at his home, 1320 Maryland avenue northeast. Mr. Wenzel died Saturday, following a brief illness. He was 63 years of age.

Up until his retirement with honors three years ago, he held a public regard of wider range than many well known officials. He knew and was known by thousands of Washingtonians, who called him Henry, and seldom failed to violate company rules by exchanging pleasantries.

Although he was zealous in his respect for regulations, he won many friends by such little acts of kindness as stopping his horse car in the middle of a block to accommodate an aged patron and by furnishing from his own pocket the fare that some forgetful rider lacked. He was ranked among the most popular by his associates, his never-failing wit and constant geniality serving as a source of encouragement and cheer. He knew hundreds of school children by their first names, and he saw to it that the little ones were deposited at their proper destinations, regardless of whether they pushed the button or failed to do so.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Flanagan Wenzel, and a brother, George Wenzel, who is employed at the District Jail. His former associates in the Washington Railway & Electric Co. are planning to send a strong delegation to his funeral.

BORLAND LAW HIT AS ATTORNEY ASKS REDUCTIONS IN TAX

LEVIES ON PROPERTY ASSAILED BY PEYSER

Aversion to Returning Them Also Scored in Protest on City's Policy.

Nullification of the Borland law, coupled with reduction of penalties on special assessments and general taxes in the District, was urged by Maj. Julius I. Peyser, attorney, in a letter written yesterday to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

Maj. Peyser particularly assailed the Borland law, which in its original form enacted in July, 1914, and with its amendments, provides that one-half the cost of street paving in the District shall be levied against the owners of abutting property, excepting street intersections and paving for which the street car companies were responsible.

Scores Board's Policy.

Recalling that the Borland law had been held invalid, although District Commissioners have announced that its enforcement "must continue until it is changed by Congress or further limited by judicial decisions," Maj. Peyser rapped the District's policy to resist returning taxes paid under the Borland act.

"Am I to conclude and understand that the officials of the District have assumed the position that persons who pay assessment and taxes are punished and those persons who do not pay are to be congratulated by reason of nonpayment?" he wrote. "Do you think this encourages good citizenship in payment of taxes? Does it not punish citizenship, in the face of the Court of Appeals declaring the act void?"

Suggests Relief Measures.

"May I suggest that a request be made to the Commissioners to recommend to Congress the repeal of the law assessing 8 per cent penalty per year on special assessments and 12 per cent penalty on general taxes, and to recommend to Congress a more reasonable redemption of taxes and sales for taxes instead of the violent punishment in finance to those homeowners who face, at the end of two years, 24 per cent on taxes and costs, or the sale of their home for taxes. This is a period of depression, and the penalties on taxes ought to be more moderate, to meet present conditions."

Three Brothers, Oldest 13, Charged With Theft

Three brothers, the oldest of whom is 13, are being held at the House of Detention for action of the Juvenile Court, after their capture yesterday while robbing the LeRoy Novelty Co., at 709 D street northwest, according to police.

Detective A. D. Mansfield, of the First Precinct, caught the youngsters after a call had been sent to head quarters by a passerby. One of the boys, 8 years old, had been posted outside the place as a "lookout," while the older two entered through a side window.

Mother Jones, Ill, Holds On to Life

Aged Labor Leader in Very Serious Condition After Relapse in Sickness.

Clinging to life as she has clung to the battles she waged for labor, Mother Jones last night had refused to surrender in what is feared to be her last battle.

More than 100 years old, the valiant champion of labor was breathing faintly. Her own physician, Dr. H. H. Howlett, of Silver Spring, last night would not predict how long she will live.

He declared that her condition is critical and added that she is exceedingly feeble. She suffered a relapse last Wednesday from a recent illness and her condition has been critical ever since. The aged woman is at her home on Riggs Road about 6 miles from the District line.

MRS. V. B. LAWSON DIES.

Funeral of Ardent Church Worker Will Be Held Wednesday.

Mrs. Venia B. Lawson, wife of E. A. M. Lawson, assistant foreman at the Government Printing Office, died yesterday at the residence, 3012 Twenty-fifth street northwest, after a lingering illness. She was 66 years old.

Mrs. Lawson had been a resident of Washington for the past 35 years. She was a native of New Jersey. An ardent Methodist, she was active in women's home missionary work and took an active interest in Sibley Hospital.

The survivors, beside the husband, are three children, William H. Lawson, of Washington, and Mrs. Paul Heinmiller and Mrs. Elmer L. Beach, of Baltimore; two brothers, Frank Farrell, of College Park, Md., and T. Burton Farrell, of Springville, Pa., and two sisters, Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson, of Oaklyn Manor, N. J., and Mrs. William G. Mockett, of Pittsburg.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning from the residence, 3012 Thirty-fifth street northeast. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

A. J. SPRIGGS SERVICES.

Last Rites for Bureau of Engraving Worker to Be Held Wednseday.

Funeral services for Andrew J. Spriggs, 60 years old, superintendent of the men's dressing room at the Bureau of Engraving for the past 25 years, who died Saturday after an illness of one week, will be held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Calvary Baptist Church. Burial will be in Harmony Cemetery.

Mr. Springgs was born in Washington. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary V. Springgs; four brothers, Frank, Albert, George and Daniel, and two sisters, Addie Spriggs and Mrs. Lillie Smith, all of Washington. Mrs. Spriggs is in charge of the women's dressing room at the Bureau of Engraving.

CHICAGOANS BACK FEDERAL WORKERS ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

U. S. EMPLOYES' UNION MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Government Should Be First in General Movement, Groups Believe.

Efforts of the National Federation of Federal Employes to obtain a five-day week have received the support of the Chicago Federation of Labor, it was announced yesterday by local officers of the Federation of Federal Employes.

The Chicago federation has adopted a resolution petitioning the American Federation of Labor to urge upon President Hoover the issuance of a proclamation granting a shorter work day and week throughout the Government service, it was said. This action is accepted as an instance of the growing sentiment that the Federal Government should be the leader in shortening the hours of workers generally.

The National Federation is sponsoring a bill which would give all Federal workers a Saturday half holiday throughout the year. Favorable action on this bill is to be asked by the federation at the forthcoming session of Congress. The ultimate goal of the bill is said to be the five-day week. Establishment of the shorter working week would increase the economy and efficiency of the public business, in the opinion of the federation.

"The Government of the United States should lead the world in the institution of the five-day week," declared Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the federation. "It should take this step not only for the health and well-being of its employes, but for the economy and efficiency that will result."

Manufacturer, Hurt, Reported Improving

A marked improvement in the condition of James Milford Place was announced last night at Emergency Hospital, where the 74-year-old president of a local chemical manufacturing firm was taken November 1, suffering from a fractured hip, received when he fell in his office on Batreet near Second street southeast.

Known as the "friend of all newsboys," Mr. Place, who was once a newsboy himself in his home town of Corry, Pa., plans to inaugurate a series of savings clubs for the benefit of newsboys in Washington. These plans will be carried out as soon as he leaves the hospital, he said.

Speaker Deplores Church in Politics

Declaring that the control of legislation with a decidedly religious prejudice is fast passing into the hands of church leaders, Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, of the Washington Missionary College, told an audience last night that the "country is asleep to the dangers involved."

Speaking at Mount Pleasant Hall, in one of a series of lectures sponsored by the theological department of the Washington Missionary College, Dr. Wilkinson said: "As a believer in the inspiration of the Bible, I find the United States a subject of prophetic treatment. Its message as well as the outstanding trend of events demand that the American people see that religious neutrality in politics and in legislation, that which made this country great, is rapidly disappearing. On this point the people of the United States are fast asleep."

Dr. Wilkinson dwelt at length on the recent antiblue law agitation in Philadelphia, a movement with which he was prominently connected.

Huguenot Society Holds Its Service

Dr. Taylor Cites Loyalty of Adherents to Three Steadfast Ideals.

The annual services of the Huguenot Society of the District of Columbia, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware was held yesterday morning at the Central Presbyterian Church, with the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, preaching a special sermon.

Dr. Taylor described the Huguenot movement, which developed in Italy, Switzerland, Germany and England at about the same time, and the loyalty of its adherents to three ideas. He termed these "spiritual freedom" and the right to worship God according to the dictate of conscience; intellectual freedom, and the right of the people to a share in the arrangement and administration of government."

Dr. Florian Vurpillot, chaplain of the society, read the Scriptures and gave a Huguenot prayer.

Walter Reed Soldier Struck by Automobile

Edd Hatem, 24 years old, a soldier attached to Walter Reed Hospital, was injured last night when struck by an automobile on Georgia avenue, near the hospital. Richard Nelson, 17 years old, of Upshur street, near Second street northwest, was driving south on Georgia avenue when he struck Mr. Hatem.

The injured man, who was waiting for a trolley car, was taken to the Walter Reed Hospital. He is suffering from a fractured leg and possible internal injuries. Nelson was not held.

Burglar Gets $30 in Cash.

A pocketbook containing $30 was the loot of a burglar who early yesterday morning forced his way into the home of Viola M. Nixon, on Riggs place near Eighteenth street northwest.

Paint Shop Robbery Reported.

George W. Younger yesterday reported to police that his shop at 1408 Ninth street northwest was broken into and robbed of painter's supplies valued at $15. A rear window was broken by the intruder.

Sizoo Declares Society Is Obligated to Aid Needy

DR. JOSEPH R. SIZOO.

"Cutting Corners" was the subject of Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo's sermon at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Taking his text from Leviticus 19:9, "And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of the field," Dr. Sizoo said:

"The book of Leviticus makes interesting reading. It is one of the truly fascinating books of the Old Testament. It is generally regarded as a prosiac collection of ancient ceremonial law and regulatory practices in which no one has much concern or interest. The result is the book goes unread and we wonder why it clutters up so large a place in holy writ. But the book is full of romance and he who reads it with the soul of a poet is greatly rewarded.

"The Hebrew legislation never lost sight of the rights and needs of humanity. It promulgated the cultivation of love and enjoined against injury to strangers. It urged compassion for all men.

Gleanings for Poor.

"So here. This law which required benevolence to the poor and charity to the stranger, commanded that the corners of the field should remain unreaped. The forgotten sheaf was to be left where it had fallen. The harvester was forbidden to go into his grain patch a second time or to glean twice the grapes of the vineyard or the fruit of olive trees.

"The corners of the fields were to be left. As reapers swept their scythes through the fields, cutting long, round swathes, that which grew in the corners they were not permitted to touch. This was to be for the poor and for the stranger who was forbidden by law to own land, but whose needs were never out of the concern of the Hebrews.

"Behind the simple regulation is a fundamental law of life. We have no right to the corners. There are limits to what one man is entitled. What we are able to obtain is not always our own. There are those all about us who have rights to reasonable shares of what seem to be our own goods. It is a discipline against greed and selfishness.

Outcome of Cunning Effort.

"We are not entitled to everything we reap simply because it is the outcome of our own cunning or effort. We are our brother's keeper. Society is obligated to make provision for the needy. The man who goes through life getting everything he can lay his hands on, reaping clean the fields of reward and cleaning every straw of the world's harvest, is not God's ideal of a man. 'Thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field.' We are to live and to let live.

"That is the sin of the world today. We want everything that is within our reach, irrespective of how little others may have. Secularism laughs away the law of God in Leviticus. This is the age when men are honored who have corners on the markets and make a clean sweep of their competitors. The very phrases in the modern business world indicate how far we are from the spirit of this whole law of the Hebrews. No man has a right to gather harvests so large that others reaping the fields after him find nothing.

"But there is another and deeper implication to these words. We need the warning of the law of the corners, not only in the realm of things but in the realm of character. The danger of modern life is that we shall live so intensely and give ourselves so completely to our tasks that we make no provision for the corners.

Leave Nothing for Others.

"We are so absorbed in one enterprise that we leave no gleanings for other things. We are in danger of concentration without leisure and application without repose. The tragic confession of Darwin that he was so engrossed in the affairs of his research that he lost an utter appreciation for music and art is all too common today. His work dwarfed his soul because he left no gleanings in the fields. He made no provision for the corners.

"God never meant a man to be so engrossed in anything that he shall be less of a man and more provincial in his life because of that work. I believe it is the danger of American life today. We do not make provision for the cultivation of friendships, the widening of our intellectual acumen and the deepening of our spiritual discernments in the close application to the tasks at hand. We are so absorbed in our work that we leave ourselves no corner of time for travel or reading or worship.

"Some things come too high in this world, my friends. The young man in college who thinks only of his textbooks and not of those extra-mural friendships in college days, the man at his desk who gives so many hours to his work that he grows up indifferent to cultural appreciations, the mother in the home who is so concerned about the commonplace and menial duties of the family that she becomes indifferent to the larger relationships and interests of life, is paying too big a price for the one thing at hand.

Praises British Life.

"If men and women in this nerve-racking world had taken an occasional hour to see the play of starlight, or the glory of autumn sunshine, or the loveliness of a rose, or the beauty of a picture there would be fewer people taking enforced holidays with broken bodies and minds that stretch through years of tedsome rehabilitation.

"One of the fine things about British life is this capacity to leave some gleanings in the field for other interests and some corner in life for leisure. Every British home has its little garden where the family finds its retreat. Perhaps that accounts for the great poise of British character.

"That was the temper of life which Jesus of Nazereth superbly manifested during Passion week. Knowing what the tomorrow would bring him, Jesus goes to Jerusalem, sight-seeing through the temple, saying to His disciples, 'Seest thou these buildings? There were corners in the fields of His consecration to which He withdrew.

"'But often in the world's most crowded streets,
But often in the din of strife,
There rises an unspeakable desire
After the knowledge of our buried lives.'"

HYPOCRISY IS TOPIC OF PRIEST'S TALK ON CHURCH RADIO HOUR

Political Trickery Undermining Confidence of People, Speaker Says.

HE SCORES DECEPTION AMONG WORLD POWERS

Higher Power Is Needed by Those Who Desire to Follow Decency, He Asserts.

Political hypocrisy has come very close to undermining the confidence of our people in democratic Government and is rapidly drawing the nations into other wars," said the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., yesterday in a sermon during the Washington Catholic Radio Hour, which is broadcast every Sunday afternoon from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurley is pastor.

An analysis of life and every institution of society seems to be shot through and across with some kind of hypocrisy, he said. Discussing marriage, he declared that the divorce courts in every State of the Union testify to the prevalence of hypocrisy among partners in marriage.

"Hypocrisy among business men is also found in the law courts. The art of politics seems to have devolved to that state where it means the art of deceiving up to the limit. Parties formulate platforms that they have no intention of realizing. Politicians make statements that they know to be untrue.

Hypocrisy Among Nations.

"Political relations show that dishonest and hypocrisy have crept into the relations of the nations of the world. Sometimes these relations are called international diplomacy but the history of the failure of international convocations and the autobiographies of many international statesmen reveal an astounding and staggering amount of duplicity closely akin to hypocrisy.

Then swinging toward personal hypocrisy, Father Smith declared the personal hypocrite tries to laugh it down, dance it down, drink it down. But without the help of some higher power, without the help of religion, people who depend solely on decent human impulses, fall in humility, self-sacrifice and courage.

Hypocrisy in the Home.

Summing up his discourse, he declared that one could call together child welfare conferences in every nation every week of the year, and if one leaves hypocrisy in the home—one will still find domestic misery and the neglect of children.

"Financial and industrial hypocrisy have been responsible for that financial ruin that all industrial physicians have not yet been able to prevent and has done much to crowd our jails and insane asylums."

Father Smith will speak next Sunday on liberals. Soloists at yesterday's services were Miss Bernie Fitzgerald and Florence Yocum, assisted by the Immaculate Conception Choir under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

Students Will Form Philatelic Group Here

Louis Rivers and Paul Stone have been named president and secretary. The group is composed of students of the seventh and eighth grades. Persons interested in stamp collections are invited to attend.

Thief Batters Garage Lock and Steals Auto

Battering a lock from a garage door at the rear of 1456 Fuller street northwest, an automobile thief drove away in a car belonging to William H. Carter in which he placed tires, tools and accessories valued at $150.

The robbery was reported to police yesterday morning.

Man Seriously Ill After Poison Dose

DespondentRoomer Found by Fellow Lodger and Sent to Hospital.

Despondent over domestic affairs, according to police, Al Kelly, 32 years old, of Eighth street near H street northwest, yesterday swallowed the contents of two bottles containing poison in an effort to end his life.

The empty vials were found nearby when a fellow roomer at the Eighth street house, Lynn Ragsdale, heard Kelly moaning in pain and entered his room. One of the poisons was in liquid form and the other was a tablet preparation.

The man was treated by the Fire Rescue Squad and taken to Emergency Hospital, where his condition is reported to be serious.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BOBBY JONES APPEARS FOR HIS FIRST PICTURE.

SCENE I—WAITING ROOM OF STUDIO.

Bobby—Yes; a Mr. Blotz, I think.

Girl—What's the name?

Bobby—Mister Jones.

Girl—What initials?

Bobby—R. T.

Bobby—No, Robert Jones.

Girl (unimpressed by names like Jones, Smith and Brown)—What'll I say you want to see him about?

Bobby—It's about some picture I'm to make.

Bobby—Not yet.

Mr. Blotz (chancing to pass through and overhearing the name)—Ah, Bobby! Glad to see you! Well, well, well! Step right in. We're all waiting for you.

Girl (still in a haze as they disappear)—Jones? Jones? Well, I never heard of him. He must be one of them foreign stars.

SCENE II—MR. BLOTZ'S OFFICE.

MR. BLOTZ—Now, Bobby, before we go ahead there are a few details of costuming, scenic effects and so forth to be decided. I've been talking it over with our costuming department and I don't know whether you should appear in a smart riding suit or evening clothes and silk hat.

Bobby—Why, it's a golf lesson. I'll wear golf clothes.

Mr. Blotz (horror)—Oh, no! That would never do. This is to be a feature picture, of course. It will be a real production. In fact, some of the officials think you should appear in oriental attire, and as the rajah of the links, you know. It would be very spectacular and get the women.

Bobby—But after all I'm a golfer and . . .

Mr. Blotz—Tush! You're much more than a golfer, Mr. Jones. You are the king of golfers. . . . That's an idea! . . . Why not dress you as a king? . . . Diamond-studded crown, ermine robes and everything! . . . Audiences love that king stuff . . .

Bobby—But, Mr. Blotz, as a golfer I . . .

Mr. Blotz—And I don't know whether to have you make your first appearance on horseback or by Rolls-Royce. Some of the boys have suggested on airplane. If you come in as a king you could make a grand entrance on an elephant . . . We have a troup of elephants that we just used in "Flaming Mahatmas."

Bobby (quite depressed by it all)—It's to be an illustration of golf and I think all I should do is appear in regular golf clothes and . . .

Mr. Blotz—That would never do. It's simply not good picture stuff. We mustn't let the people think you are just a golfer. You must be something much greater, much more imposing. Now about caddies.

Bobby—I have a caddy and . . .

Mr. Blotz—One caddy, Mr. Jones! Don't be ridiculous. This company will give you a vast army of caddies. There will be 300 of them, all gorgeously robed. One of our authors has written a pageant for them. They come in on Arabian horses. Behind them are eighteen sacred oxen bearing your golf bags.

Bobby (rather sick)—But, as a golfer, I think . . .

Mr. Blotz—And after the pageant there is a blare of trumpets. Our superchorus of 250 girls come on strewing flowers and then you enter to the cheers of the populace and . . .

Mr. Blotz—Yes.

Mr. Goldhammer—We've decided to have an enormous pool in the background with 36 fountains playing and a lot of bathing girls swimming around. Off to the right there will be a castle with sixteen Russian wolfhounds on the steps. Mr. Jones will give his golf lessons on a great stairway atop of which will be Leo Pitalvy's jazz band of 68 pieces and . . .

Mr. Blotz—What do you think of that, Mr. Jones? (He turns and notices that Bobby has disappeared.)

SCENE III—THE RECEPTION ROOM.

IT'S ALL CLEAR NOW.

The American Bar Association has voted for prohibition repeal by 2 to 1. Explaining, perhaps, why the court cry is "Order! Order!"

Mussolini has cut all official salaries 12 per cent. Laundry bills being what they are, the blackshirts will presumably be blacker than ever this winter.

WHY PLAYGOERS GO MAD.

"THE great and most marvelous and grandest and stupendous and most thrilling and most colloseal and most wonderful show that has ever been produced is 'Smiles.' What a show! The great book by William Anthony McGuire was so funny that the bluebloods and even the anemics fell right into the aisles laughing."—Walter Winchell in the New York Mirror.

"Truth to tell, 'Smiles' is pretty dull entertainment. William Anthony McGuire's book is so soggy it frequently drips. I would tell you of the songs, but I remember none of them. I would tell you of the jokes, but I just can't remember them either."—Burns Mantle in the New York Daily News.

"The so-called book is as dire an evasion of an author's responsibilities as I have heard in 50 years of dramaloving. Mr. Lardner's lyrics saved it from being the dullest of comic opera fables."—Percy Hammond in the New York Herald Tribune.
